Bloomsburg State College

Winter, 1981

You're fantastic!

The 1980 annual fund drive of the Bloomsburg State College Alumni Association was the most successful in the history of the organization. When the drive ended on December 31, a total of $70,604.88 had been pledged by 5,129 alumni and friends of the college. In 1979, a total of $46,733.10 was pledged by 1,972 contributors.

"We are obviously pleased by the increase in the number of dollars," said Doug Hippensiel, director of alumni affairs, "but we are even more gratified by the significant increase in the number of contributors."

Hippensiel said the participation rate of BSC alumni was nearly 25 percent, while the national average for alumni giving is only 17 percent.

The director, who assumed his post last March, credited his predecessor, Donald A. Watts '37, with establishing the firm foundation upon which the 1980 success is "just one more step." Watts, under whose direction the 1980 campaign started last spring, retired after serving in the position for 4½ years.

Included in the 1980 total was nearly $15,000 which was pledged during the national phonathon conducted on 12 nights in October and November. Nearly 200 students from 19 campus organizations made the calls to alumni all over the United States.

The top six organizations, which all raised $1,000 or more, were Alpha Phi Omega ($1,502), the tennis teams ($1,359), the women's hockey team ($1,284), the Inter-Sorority Council ($1,271), the football team ($1,232), and the wrestling team ($1,009).

Eight individuals raised at least $200 during the phonathon: Joy Austin (concert choir), Factoryville; Charles Regec (Alpha Phi Omega), Whitehall; Sandra Basara (ISC), Frackville; William Derr (football alumnus), Bloomsburg; David L. Smith (APO), Milton; Tim Talarico (football), Wernersville; Marty Coyne (tennis), Hazleton; and Roberta Schultz (Image), Emmaus.

Since 1974, more than $278,000 has been pledged by BSC alumni and friends. The annual dollar total and number of contributors are as follows: 1975-76 (18-month campaign) — $51,998.36 pledged by 1,653; 1976 — $41,073.37 pledged by 1,815; 1977 —

$32,852.98	pledged by 1,263;	1978	—
$35,166.57	pledged by 2,015;	1979	—
$46,733.10	pledged by 1,972;	1980	—
$70,604.88	pledged by 5,129.

The 1980 total includes a $5,000 scholarship given by Dr. Margaret Bittner Parke of Brooklyn, N.Y., a member of the Class of 1923.

The alumni board of directors has approved a budget of $67,000 for 1981, which will provide for publication of The Alumni Quarterly, operation of the alumni office, alumni chapter programs, Alumni Day and Homecoming Day celebrations, scholarships, and other projects to benefit the college.

The 1981 fund drive will begin later this month.

Enrollment for spring nearly 6,000

A total of 5,497 full-time and part-time undergraduate students registered for the second semester on January 12, according to Bernard Vinovrski, acting dean of admissions. Classes began on January 13.

Of the 4,697 full-time undergraduate students, 1,858 are men and 2,839 are women.

Four hundred sixty-eight graduate students registered for classes, according to Dr. Charles H. Carlson, dean of the school of graduate studies, bringing the total number of students to 5,965.

Dr. Daniel Pantaleo, dean of the school of extended programs, notes that the student population includes 538 students engaged in non-degree undergraduate studies. This group ranges in age from teenagers to senior citizens. Not included in the total are area residents who enroll in the non-credit mini-courses scheduled for this semester.

Nearly 2,500 men and women are being housed in campus residence halls with meals in the Scranton Commons. Over 1,700 are living in the Bloomsburg area, according to John Abell, director of housing. The balance of students commute from home or live in off-campus locations to complete student teaching or intern assignments.

In the fall semester, the undergraduate student population included students from 63 of Pennsylvania's 67 counties. Students from 25 other states and eight foreign countries are also enrolled at BSC.

Twenty-three Pennsylvania counties had more than 100 students enrolled at BSC in the fall semester; Columbia, 677; Montour, 160; Northumberland, 483; Lycoming, 227; Luzerne, 525; Schuylkill, 225; Berks, 150; Cumberland, 114; Dauphin, 112; Lackawanna, 189; Lehigh, 252; Northampton, 207.

The greater Philadelphia area furnished another 1,195 students (21 percent): Montgomery, 380; Bucks, 325; Delaware, 217; Chester, 148; and Philadelphia, 125.

Teamwork wins passage of bill

Everyone at BSC—including concerned alumni throughout the country—are elated that House Bill 2920 passed the Pennsylvania General Assembly and was signed by Gov. Thornburgh.

This bill gives BSC its first opportunity in nearly a decade to provide facilities for new and expanding programs in business and the health sciences, according to President McCormick.

"BSC has responded successfully to changing educational needs through responsible academic planning and careful use of existing resources," he noted. "This is the first time since I've been at Bloomsburg that we've been able to plan for the facilities we need, and I look forward to having those plans become realities."

The president expressed special gratitude to all the alumni—scattered throughout the state and other states—who worked so hard on behalf of the bill. He said alumni were instrumental in the cooperative teamwork that resulted in success.

The capital budget bill includes $6,406 million for construction of a human services center at BSC, a project that was proposed several years ago to relieve a critical shortage of classroom, laboratory, and office space. The new facility will be constructed in an area between the Harvey A. Andruss Library and the Waller Administration Building.

The bill also provides funds for other BSC projects: Sutliff Hall renovations, $660,000; Hartline Science Center renovations, $421,000; fire protection renovations, $1,012 million; electrical system renovations, $1.05 million; underground steam distribution system rehabilitations, $707,000.

"Capital construction and major renovation projects are financed through long-term bond issues," President McCormick said. "The purpose is to provide funds for projects that cannot be financed by the operating budget. Signing of the bill is good news for the people of this region as well as for the college community. Construction means jobs, and when the projects authorized for Bloomsburg are completed, Bloomsburg State College will have facilities it will need to meet the educational challenges of the 80's. The human services center and the renovation projects will support our mission to meet critical needs for health services personnel and to accommodate our expanded programs in business.

"We've known for several years the kind of facilities we need. Now we can begin to make the final, precise plans," President McCormick said. "The college community, under the leadership of the college-wide space and facilities committee, will recommend how and by whom new and existing space is to be used. The final design of the human services center will be based on a careful evaluation of needs across the entire campus."

The president commented on the wide range of support the college received. "I'm pleased that so many people were willing to help us. We began seeking approval for the human services center more than six years ago, and there have been many changes since then, on our own campus as well as in the legislature and the administration in Harrisburg. Students who helped in the initial stages are now alumni, and leadership has changed in both AFSCME, the union which represents our non-instructional employees, and APSCUF, which represents the faculty. But there was no change in their support for the human services center.

"Personally, I am extremely pleased by the positive response of the legislature and Governor Thornburgh. I am gratified with the support we have had over many years in our efforts to obtain capital budget funding for these important projects. It was really a community effort. Businessmen, labor organizations, industry and community leaders, state and local government officials, area legislators, and parents of students were involved, along with our students, faculty, staff, trustees, and alumni. I want everyone who participated in any way to know that the college appreciates what was done to help us gain recognition and understanding of our critical needs."

Director's report: Budget, projects, etc.

1981 BUDGET APPROVED. The Alumni Board has approved a budget of $67,000 for this calendar year. Goal for the annual giving campaign is $80,000, with the remaining $7,000 coming from investment income and other sources.

Expenditures include $25,125 for services to alumni, $28,875 for services to the college, and $13,000 to cover all the costs of fundraising.

Services to alumni include operation of the Alumni Office, $10,125; publication and distribution of The Alumni Quarterly, $8,000; the "outreach" program to alumni chapters, $1,000; Alumni Day, $1,500; Homecoming Day, $1,500; board of directors' expenses (bond, audit, meals, honoraria for president and treasurer), $1,500; workshops and meetings, $1,500.

Services to the college include operation of the Alumni Office, $10,125; projects, $10,000; scholarships, $5,500; external relations, $2,500; professional development, $500; and student relations, $250.

Costs of fundraising ($13,000) include printing and duplicating materials, envelopes, postage, mailing service, phonathon expenses, recognition awards, and a proportioned amount of salaries and benefits.

Included in the alumni office operations is the salary and benefits for a full-time secretary. Two other persons—the director of alumni affairs and a clerk-typist—are state employees. The director receives a $200 a month stipend from the Association as reimbursement for extra hours spent in fundraising, chapter meetings and other duties assigned by the Association.

For further information about the budget, contact the Alumni Office.

IMPORTANT DATES TO REMEMBER: The Alumni Board will meet on six dates in 1981: Saturday, February 7, at 9 a.m.; Friday, April 24, at 7:15 p.m.; Saturday, June 6, at 9 a.m.; Saturday, August 29, at 9 a.m.; Friday, October 9, at 7:15

Members are also invited to serve on various committees of the Association. Contact the Alumni Office if you are interested.

ALUMNI ROOM PROJECT: Work continues on renovations to create an Alumni Reception Room in Carver Hall. Located in the northwest corner of the building, the room will provide a place for alumni and other college organizations to meet. It will also include provisions for exhibiting memorabilia of the Alumni Association.

The college has been without an alumni room since old Waller Hall was razed in the early 1970s. The former alumni room had been located opposite the post office for many years.

To date, a new wall has been completed which creates a second small office for the alumni staff and gives the reception room its rectangular shape. A new drywall ceiling, which replaces the dropped tile ceiling, is nearly finished. New electrical fixtures have also been installed.

The reception room will be renovated and furnished in the colonial period, in keeping with Carver's distinctive tower and the 1953 renovation of the interior of the building. Architect's blueprints for raised-paneled wainscoting and other woodwork in the room have been completed.

Major aspects of the project include the paneling, electrical work, carpeting and period furnishings.

Look for another progress report in the next issue of The Alumni Quarterly in early April.

Comings and goings

The following personnel matters were acted on at the December 10 meeting of the College Board of Trustees:

Faculty resignations

Elizabeth A. Kresovich, assistant professor of nursing, effective at the end of the first semester of the 1980-81 academic year.

Caroline A. LeBlanc, assistant professor of nursing, effective at the end of the 1980-81 academic year.

Faculty transfer

JoAnne Grunow, assistant professor of nursing, to the position of district nurse administrator in the Central District of Pennsylvania, Department of Health, effective December 31, 1980.

Faculty appointments

Wallace A. Mitcheltree, assistant professor of business administration, on a temporary basis.

Susan P. Schmidt, temporary instructor of art, for the period from January 12 through the end of the second semester.

DeAnne Casteel, instructor of speech, mass communication and theatre on a 25% basis for the second semester, to teach a course at the Muncy Correctional Institution through the School of Extended Programs.

PROJECTS APPROVED: The Alumni Board has approved projects totalling $10,000 for the current year. Money raised in the 1981 annual giving campaign will be used in the following ways:

Microfilming of archival materials, $1,000. College scrapbooks covering several decades are deteriorating. This project will ensure their continued existence in the college archives.

Campus beautification and landscaping, $5,000. This project is a continuation of the Association's commitment to the master-plan for landscaping the campus. Significant progress has been made in recent years, and this project will continue that effort.

Restoration of the lions, hell, and Bakeless Gates, $500. The Alumni Board has reflected the interest of members in bringing a number of former campus landmarks out of storage and putting them on display. These include the lions which were once at the foot of "Senior Walk," the hell presented by the Class of 1876 on the American Centennial, and the Bakeless Gates which once separated Long Porch from the Waller courtyard. This money will be used for cleaning the objects, for constructing bases, and for other installation costs.

Publication of the college history, $2,500. This amount of money is being set aside toward the cost of publishing the college history being written by Eda Bessie Edwards '41. This book should be ready to go to press later this year. The Association expects to sell copies of the history, with proceeds offsetting the cost of printing.

More scholarships, $1,000. In a continuing effort to increase the number and amount of scholarships, the Alumni Board has earmarked an additional $1,000 for this purpose. Scholarships given through the Alumni Association this year will total $6,050, including $3,550 in academic scholarships and $2,500 in athletic scholarships. (The budget indicates only $5,500 for scholarships: two others—totalling $550—were finalized after the budget was adopted.)

WASHINGTON DATE SET: The Washington, D.C. Alumni Chapter will hold its annual dinner meeting on Friday evening, February 13, at the Ft. Myer Officers Club. Social hour will begin at 7 p.m., and dinner will be served at 8 p.m. Arrangements are being made by a committee chaired by Captain Curt English '56. Mark the date on your calendar—you'll be getting details shortly.

NEW YORK ALUMNI: On a trip to New York City on December 16-17, I had the opportunity to meet with several alumni living in the city, including Fran Bolger '79, Eleanor Hatch '79, Virginia Hesel '64, Jacqueline Feddock '72, Dorothy R. Tilson '40, Cryder Banker III '75, and Dr. Margaret Bittner Parke '23. Several others expressed an interest in getting together, but were unable to make it this time.

From one-room school to opera stage

By CAROL SHELHAMER
Publications Intern

While most people only accomplish one profession in a lifetime, Annice Taylor Marshall, a BSC alumna, accomplished several professions ranging from teacher to world renowned opera singer. Throughout her varied life, she often credited Bloomsburg as the launching point of her careers and successes.

Annice Taylor embarked on her first career at the age of 16. She began teaching in small one-room school houses in and around her hometown of Pottsville to earn enough money to go to the what was then the Bloomsburg Literary Institute and Normal School. In 1901 Annice received her teaching certificate and in 1904 she graduated, leaving Bloomsburg for her first teaching assignment.

While at Bloomsburg a professor became interested in Annice's musical abilities. He encouraged her to go to Europe and study with the master under whom he had studied. Money being a problem, however, Annice decided to accept the teaching assignment.

That assignment led her back to her hometown area and the schools nestled in the mountains of Wadesville, Neslin, Numsenia and Pottsville. While teaching the children of the miners, Annice became impressed with the problems and horrors of the mines which befell the men and boys who were forced to work there.

The day Samuel Gompers arrived to promote his union, Annice, a champion of the miners' cause, and her school girls, all dressed in white, strewed mountain flowers before his carriage.

After saving enough money to make the trip abroad, Annice went to Florence, Italy, where Luigi Vannuccini, the famous teacher of many famous singers, lived. Vannuccini was in great demand as a teacher and would allow each person only one audition. Unless he heard a certain quality in a person's voice, he would not accept them.

Vannuccini did accept Annice and it was a result of his advice that she began to study grand opera.

The domination of opera by Italy often caused non-Italian opera singers to take on Italian stage names to gain respectability. Thus, Annice Taylor became Annice Lorian.

Annice Lorian, a dramatic soprano, made her initial appearance at Viareggio as Tosca in the opera of the same name. Years later Annice sang the prayer from Tosca at her son's college graduation where she received an ovation that has remained a vivid memory in her son's mind ever since.

After an tour throughout Europe, Annice joined the Castellano Opera Company as the prima donna soprano. In Milan, 1911, she married Charles Marshall, also an American student studying under Vannuccini.

Charles, a Maine Yankee, had also come to Italy on the advice of his music teacher. Born into a family which had already produced two other opera singers, Charles began showing his musical inheritance at a very early age. As a boy he readily developed a reputation as an exceptional choir singer in the churches of the New England, and particularly the Boston area. In later years when Charles returned to the area as an famed opera singer, the people idolized him.

As a young man Charles took a job in a Boston shoe factory to earn money for his musical study abroad. Working beside the variety of immigrants employed at the factory, Charles learned to speak up to six or seven languages fluently. This fluency of language became a great advantage when he began learning the operas and travelling in the various European countries.

Eventually an uncle advanced Charles the money to go to Italy where Charles became highly successful both as an opera and concert singer. While studying there, he met Annice.

By the time of the Marshall marriage,

Brooklyn Opera Company. Hammerstein was famous for bringing the great opera singers together, and in the opera company's height of popularity the Brooklyn company rivaled the Metropolitan Opera in singers and attendance. While at the Brooklyn Opera Company Annice starred with Feodor Chaliapin, the great Russian bass, in the leading roles of Faust.

For three seasons the Marshalls performed outdoor concerts in the Chicago Cubs Ball Park and in 1922 they appeared Chicago Civic and several other American opera companies until 1931 when both she and Charles retired from the operatic stage. By this time, Annice's repertoire included 70 leading operatic roles.

Although Annice and Charles did at times belong to the same opera company, quite often they did not. Many times it happened that upon examination of each other's travel routes they discovered that they had passed one another on trains bound in opposite directions.

During Annice's operatic career she experienced train wrecks and plane crashes. Once she and Charles disappeared for two days after their small private plane crashed in the Delaware Water Gap. Only after much speculation about their whereabouts were the Marshalls finally found walking back to civilization tired, hungry and only slightly injured. Incidents such as this led to a clause in Charles' contract from 1919 to his retirement that Charles not fly his own airplane to protect the opera companies' potential investment.

Whenever Annice passed through or near Bloomsburg, she was always sure to stop in at the college to renew old friendships, give concerts or show her family around the campus. Annice never forgot Bloomsburg throughout her travels and proudly displayed her Bloomsburg Literary Institute and Normal School diploma on her study wall.

Even when Annice's career centered around the stage, she did not allow her teaching skills to go to waste. Much of the time her son accompanied her on her tours. For every hour spent on the stage, double or triple that time was spent teaching Charles, Jr., in the wings. When it was time for Charles to go to high school, his first permanent school, he was above most of his classmates.

After retiring from the stage Annice returned to teaching professionally. She entered the Chicago public school system where she was given charge of the students with learning disabilities. Annice developed a system based on phonetics whereby these disabled children learned to read. It was claimed that with this system these students, eight to 10 years old, could read Shakespeare in four or five months.

Not satisfied with one teaching job, Annice combined her intimate knowledge of the violin, organ and piano—paired with her singing abilities—to become a more than competent and respected instructor of the Sherwood Music School. She also became a choir directress of several Chicago area churches.

in an outdoor performance of Aida in Yankee Stadium.

Just prior to the outdoor Aida performance, Charles and Annice signed with the Chicago Opera Company. Annice made arrangements with Campanini, the conductor, to sing some of her most successful roles. However, the company was forced to abandon their season because of financial problems.

Headed by Samuel Insull, a leading Chicago business man, the bankrupt Chicago Opera Company was organized into the Chicago Civic Opera Company as it is known today. Charles became instrumental in keeping the Chicago Civic alive in its beginning years.

During this period, under Annice's tutelage, Charles' voice changed from a baritone into a tenor with the low register of the baritone. Charles' wide voice range was unusual and during his years as the leading tenor of the Chicago Civic (1921-1931) he became famous for the leading role in Verdi's "Otello." Charles was one of only four tenors to sing the part of Otello.

ANNICE E. TAYLOR MARSHALL '01

Annice's repertoire embraced thirty leading operatic roles including Elizabeth in "Tannhauser," Elsa in "Lohengrin," Gioncoda in the opera of that name, "Aida" in Verdi's masterpiece and Leonora in "Il Trovatore." Annice and Charles embarked on a successful two-year tour which touched most of the European Capitols. The tour led the couple to London's Covent Garden where Annice was to become a frequent performer.

While in London, the Marshalls' first child, Charles, Jr., was born. In the meantime Charles returned to United States to fulfill a concert tour commitment with Leopold Stowkowski. Annice also returned to America in 1913 where she remained for a year until she accepted another operatic tour of Europe. By this time, however, the warlike conditions existing on the continent prevented her from performing in Russia. Instead Charles fulfilled the contract by performing for the czar.

The year 1917 saw the Marshalls settled in the States with their second child, Virginia.

The Marshalls were then engaged by Oscar Hammerstein I to perform at the Meanwhile Charles was enjoying his off-stage life travelling between Lake George, New York, and St. Petersburg, Florida, following the seasons: Near the beginning of World War II, Annice and Charles moved to West Barnstable, Massachusetts. Annice continued to teach music up to within six weeks of her death. Knowing six languages, she also translated material for incoming European students.

Charles Marshall died in 1946. Annice followed him in 1948 and was buried in Pottsville.

Annice Taylor Marshall became many things in her lifetime. For her, Bloomsburg became the launching point to a world in which she left her mark both on and off the stage.

DONALD McCULLOCH

New director assumes post

Donald McCulloch, an assistant institutional maintenance superintendent at Norristown State Hospital, has been named director of physical plant at BSC. He began his new duties on December 8, succeeding Charles Robbins, who retired after 14 years service to the college.

McCulloch had been assisting the institutional maintenance superintendent at Norristown State Hospital in organizing, administering and coordinating plans and programs in building construction, maintenance and plant operation. He ends a 15-year association with that institution.

In the early 1960s, McCulloch operated his own general contracting business in North Wales, Pennsylvania.

For seven years prior to that time, he was employed as a painting contractor for a concern in Lansdale.

A native of North Wales, McCulloch received his elementary and secondary education in the schools in that area. He is a graduate of Williamson Trade School and has participated in Penn State's continuing education program.

"After interviewing a number of applicants, our committee found McCulloch had all the necessary qualifications for the important position of heading our buildings and grounds program involving over 150 employees," commented Dr. Frank Davis, assistant vice president for administration. "His duties at BSC involve planning, organizing and coordinating a program of building maintenance, construction, groundskeeping, housekeeping, and heating and utility plant operations. We feel we have made an excellent choice."

McCulloch has been actively involved in the United Church of Christ and the Boy Scouts in Norristown. His family includes his wife, Helen; his eighth grade son, Chris; a married son, Bruce, living in Audubon; and a daughter, Lisa, who is a senior at Penn State.

Nola C. Breisch

Nola C. Breisch, 62, 252 W. Main St., Bloomsburg, died November 5, 1980. Mrs. Breisch was employed by the catering service at BSC.

53 students earn 'Who's Who' honor

The 1981 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges will include the names of 53 students from BSC who have been selected as being among the country's most outstanding campus leaders.

Campus nominating committees and editors of the annual directory have included the names of these students based on their academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities and future potential.

They join an elite group of students selected from more than 1,300 institutions of higher learning in all 50 states, the District of Columbia and several foreign nations.

Outstanding students have been honored in the annual directory since it was first published in 1934.

Students named this year from BSC include: Marci L. Basham, Matamoras, enrolled in the School of Professional Studies with a major in special education; JoAnn B. Borski, Warminster, enrolled in the School of Arts and Sciences with a major in biology; Judith M. Bransky, Mechanicsburg, enrolled in the School of Professional Studies with a major in special education; Tania M. Butrej, Berwick, enrolled in the School of Professional Studies with a major in English; Mark A. Cable, Bethlehem, enrolled in the School of Business with a major in business administration; Karen Caswell, Dunmore, enrolled in the School of Arts and Sciences with a major in psychology; Scott E. Cheek, R.D. 1, Oxford, enrolled in the School of Arts and Sciences with a major in speech communication; Laina Colombo, Philadelphia, enrolled in the School of Professional Studies with a major in special education; Barbara M. Considine, Devon, enrolled in the School of Professional Studies with a major in health and physical education.

Richard J. DiFrancesco, Mt. Carmel, enrolled in the School of Professional Studies with a major in special education; Angela S. Dotoli, Pen Argyl, enrolled in the School of Business with a major in business administration; Amy H. Dougherty, Warrington, enrolled in the School of Professional Studies with a major in speech correction; Joan M. Dule, Ashley, enrolled in the School of Business with a major in business education; Pamela J. Ellis, Shavertown, enrolled in the School of Business with a major in business administration.

Ann C. Fadner, Landisville, enrolled in the School of Professional Studies with a major in nursing; Linda A. Fangio, Dunmore, enrolled in the School of Business with a major in business administration; John P. Flynn, Warminster, enrolled in the School of Arts and Sciences with a major in psychology; Michael J. Ford, Shamokin, enrolled in the School of Professional Studies with a major in secondary education; Jamie L. Freezer, Shamokin Dam, enrolled in the School of Professional Studies.

Suellen F. Gluckow, Ocean Grove, N.J., enrolled in the School of Professional Studies; Michael A. Goc, Pennsburg, enrolled in the School of Professional Studies with a major in secondary education; Keith A. Two firsts at winter graduation

Two Danville students received the first degrees in their programs during December commencement at BSC on December 21.

Terence Cronin was awarded the Bachelor of Science degree in radiologic technology and Mrs. Steven (Nancy) Pastor received the Associate of Science in Health Services degree. Both degrees were approved for the college in August 1979 by the Pennsylvania Department of Education.

The B.S. in radiologic technology involves four years of study, including two years of academic course work at BSC and two years of clinical experience in an approved program of radiography at a health facility.

Cronin holds a registered technological certificate and has worked as a radiation medicine technologist at Geisinger Medical Center and was also employed at Koppers, a Sprout-Waldron division in Muncy.

The A.S. degree in health services was also approved in 1979. Mrs. Pastor received her Licensed Practical Nurse certificate from the Danville Practical Nursing School in May 1979. She worked at the Gold Star Nursing Home in Danville prior to enrolling at BSC this past summer. Mrs. Pastor's plans include entering the Registered Nurse program at Geisinger in the fall of 1981.

Both of these degree programs are offered by the Department of Biology and Allied Health Services. Dr. James Cole, chairperson, states that there are currently 27 enrolled in the A.S. health sciences program and nearly 40 in the B.S. radiologic program.

Music, theatre events

The BSC music and theatre department have planned a number of outstanding events for February, March and April.

February 18-20. The Bloomsburg Players will present the play, "Hay Fever," at 8:15 in Carver Auditorium. Robert Richey is the director. Tickets are required.

February 22. Student recitals will be held in Carver at 8:15.

March 14. The Husky Singers and the Villanova Women's Choir will present a program at 8:15 in Carver. The program is under the direction of Dr. William Decker.

March 15. John Couch, a faculty member of the music department, will present a piano recital in Carver at 8:15.

March 20-21. The Madrigal Singers, conducted by Richard Stanislaw, will present a program at 8:15 in Carver.

March 24. A children's concert will be held in Haas at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. John Masters will be the conductor.

March 29. Individual student senior recitals will be held in Carver.

April 3. The Women's Choral Ensemble and Brass Sextet will present a program at 8:15 in Carver. The program is under the direction of Dr. Richard Stanislaw and Dr. Stephen Wallace.

Changes in Alumni Constitution proposed

A number of changes in the Constitution and By-Laws of the BSC Alumni Association have been proposed, reflecting changes in the nature and operations of the Association.

The proposed changes have been reviewed by the board of directors and have been forwarded to the secretary of the Association, along with a request for their adoption signed by more than the required minimum of 10 members of the Association.

The proposed changes will be voted upon at the annual meeting of the Association on Alumni Day, April 25, 1981.

Questions and comments concerning the proposed changes are invited. Please send them to Doug Hippensiel, Director of Alumni Affairs, Bloomsburg State College, Bloomsburg, Pa. 17815, prior to the meeting on April 15, 1981.

ARTICLE II—Government and Officers

(Proposed Change) by adding to Section 2. Alumni Board.) Retiring Directors may be elected to Honorary Life Memberships on the Board of Directors if they have served at least five three-year terms (or a total of 15 years) on the Board. Honorary life members of the Board shall not be counted in determining the presence of a quorum, nor shall they have a vote in matters before the Board.

ARTICLE III—President

(Original) Section 1. The President shall preside at all meetings of the Association and of the Board of Directors and shall, with the Secretary, sign all written contracts of the Association and perform such other duties as the Association or Board of Directors may assign to him. (Proposed Change) Section 1. The President shall preside at all meetings of the Association and of the Board of Directors and shall perform such other duties as the Association or Board of Directors may assign to him. He shall sign all written contracts of the Association or designate the Director of Alumni Affairs, in writing, to sign in his place. In the President's absence, the Vice President shall assume and perform his duties.

ARTICLE IV—Secretary

(Original) Section 1. The Secretary shall give notice of all meetings of the Association and of the Board of Directors, and shall conduct the correspondence and keep the records of the Association, including a complete record of its membership. He shall also be custodian of the seal of the corporation.

(Proposed Change) Section 1. The Secretary shall give notice of all meetings of the Association and the Board of Directors and shall record the minutes of said meetings. He (she) shall be custodian of the seal of the corporation.

ARTICLE V—Treasurer

(Original) Section 1. The Treasurer shall receive and receipt for all fees, dues, contributions and other funds of the corporation (except only such special funds as are in the custody of the Chairman of standing committees under the provisions of ARTICLE VII of these By-Laws), and shall keep the same in a bank account in the name of the corporation. He shall keep the accurate accounts of all receipts and disbursements and shall report thereon at each regular meeting of the Board of Directors, or whenever so required. He shall pay all bills when certified for payment by the President and Secretary and shall, upon request, furnish such security as the Board of Directors may require. His accounts shall be audited annually.

(Proposed Change) Section 1. The Treasurer shall receive and deposit all fees, dues, contributions and other funds of the corporation and shall keep the same in a bank account or investments in the name of the corporation. He shall keep the accurate accounts of all receipts and disbursements and shall report thereon at each regular meeting of the Board of Directors, or whenever so required. He shall pay all bills when certified for payment by the Director of Alumni Affairs or the President, Vice President, or Secretary of the Association. In the Treasurer's absence, the Secretary of the Association is authorized to sign checks. The Association shall secure a bond to cover officers and employees who handle Association funds in the performance of their duties.

ARTICLE VI—Board Directors

(Original) Section 2. The regular meetings of the Board of Directors shall be held quarterly. Special meetings shall be called by the order of the President or upon the written request of any two members of the Board. A majority of the Directors shall constitute a quorum.

(Proposed Change) Section 2. The regular meetings of the Board of Directors shall be held at least four times a year. Special meetings shall be called by the order of the President or upon the written request of any two members of the Board. A majority of the Directors shall constitute a quorum.

ARTICLE XII—Amendments

(Original) Section 1. This Constitution may be amended at any meeting of the corporation, annual or special, by vote of two-thirds of the members present. Three months' notice of the proposed amendments shall be given by publication in the QUARTERLY bulletin. All proposed amendments shall be submitted in writing to the Secretary, accompanied by a request for their adoption by at least ten members.

(Proposed Change) Section 1. This Constitution may be amended at any meeting of the corporation, annual or special, by vote of two-thirds of the members present. At least two months' written notice of the proposed amendments shall be given by mail to all members of the Association for whom an address is known, or by publication in The Alumni Quarterly. All proposed amendments shall be submitted in writing to the Secretary, accompanied by a request for their adoption by at least ten members.

'BSC Strolls Through the Decades'

The traditional football game and halftime activities culminated the weekend Homecoming events on Saturday, November 1, at Redman Stadium. Other Homecoming events included concerts, class reunions, awards and a parade.

Early Saturday morning residence hall judging began as the various bands, sweethearts and floats lined up at the Bloomsburg High School. The theme "BSC Strolls Through the Decades" was chosen as an opportunity to step back in time to "take a look at accomplishments or events that occurred in the past, to celebrate the present, or to predict the future."

Joseph Nespoli, chairman of the college board of trustees, served as grand parade marshal.

"A Southern Plantation in the Thirties" was the theme of the winning float created by Phi Iota Chi/Tau Kappa Epsilon. Second place went to Lambda Alpha Mu/Phi Sigma Xi's float, "The Thirties Depression." The Alpha Sigma Alpha/Sigma Iota Omega float placed third with its theme, "A Look Toward the Nineties." Fourth place went to "Gay Nineties," entered by Delta Epsilon Beta/Zeta Psi.

Lycoming Hall won first place in the residence hall decoration contest with its theme, "The Sixties." Luzerne Hall placed second with "TV Shows of the Seventies." "BSC—A Walk Through Time" won Columbia Hall third place.

Early afternoon brought on a confrontation between the Huskies and the Kutztown State College Golden Bears. Unfortunately the Huskies could not come up with a victory, but the Homecoming spirit was not dampened by the defeat.

Halftime activities were highlighted by the crowning of Ellen Roan as Homecoming Sweetheart. Roan, who represented Tau Kappa Epsilon in the sweetheart contest, was chosen through balloting by the student body.

First runner-up was Tracy Fitzgerald, representing Sigma Iota Omega. The other winners were Kathie Guyer, Miss Delta Epsilon Beta, second runner-up; Kathy Greco, Miss Phi Iota Chi, and Anne Mazzocetti, Miss Delta Pi, who tied for third runner-up.

Fraternity and sorority awards were given during half-time. The Inter-Sorority Council Award went to Lambda Alpha Mu and the Inter-Fraternity Council Award to Tau Kappa Epsilon. These awards were given to the sorority and fraternity with the highest cumulative academic average.

The ISC Involvement Award went to Sigma Sigma Sigma sorority, and the IFC Involvement Award went to Delta Pi fraternity. These awards were given for involvement in activities and sports outside of the sorority/fraternity.

Briar Heights Lodge was the setting for Saturday evening's events. A dinner-dance was held at the lodge while the members of the Class of '75 attending held a reunion in another room at the lodge. The Classes of '44, '45, '46 and '47 held a reunion at Hotel Magee's Husky Room earlier in the evening with about 27 people attending. The Class of '45 established plans for another reunion on Alumni Day in 1985.

A few members of the Class of 1925 met for lunch in the Scranton Commons.

Sunday evening brought Homecoming to a close with a Pops Concert involving the Concert Choir and the Husky Singers, under the direction of Dr. William Decker, and the Women's Choral Ensemble under the direction of Dr. Richard Stanislaw.

Other events which took place during Homecoming weekend were a concert by the Maynard Ferguson Jazz Band, a soccer game against East Stroudsburg under the lights, a pep rally, bonfire and fireworks.

The members of the Homecoming committee were Camille Strausser, chairman; Mark Swingski, Frank Prencavage, Cheryl Zachary, Marie Hoffner, Mary Loftus, Lee Ann Pietrzakowski, George Kirlin, John Trathen, Dave Stout, Doug Hippensiel, and Marianne蒙古, advisor.

She's no 'plain Jane'

By BOB STILES '81
Publications Intern

The woman—a college instructor—walked into the classroom and, instead of being faced with glum expressions of pupils indifferently waiting for the beginning of class, she was greeted by smiling, earnest students eager for their class to start.

That certainly is not the typical response which greets teachers when they begin class; it is a reception which some teachers receive occasionally and others only hope will happen once in their teaching careers. But for Jane Elmes '72 that type of a reception is an almost daily occurrence at Clarion State College.

"Students in my classes tend to be enthusiastic," Elmes said, modestly. "My student evaluations are consistently high, and in the department surveys distributed to alumni to determine which undergraduate courses they thought were most and least valuable, my courses consistently rate in the top four."

In fact, it is the students' feelings towards Elmes and her classes which were partly responsible for her selection as a recipient of a 1980 Distinguished Teaching Chair Award, the highest tribute bestowed by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to a teacher for teaching excellence. "What was interesting about my receiving the award was that the students initiated the process," said Elmes. The student presidents of Clarion's debate team, forensic team, dramatic fraternity and student senate were the people who first nominated Elmes to the local award board, the first major step involved in the Distinguished Teaching Chair process. They also started the initial paperwork necessary to nominate a person.

"Though I am very pleased and honored by the award, I think the students' involvement is the most gratifying part of the entire process," Elmes said.

Applicants for the Distinguished Teaching Chair Award are considered on the basis of how well they demonstrate two very important criteria: teaching excellence and impact on student learning. "What I also appreciated about the award, is the recognition by fellow colleagues outside my discipline ... I think that's something we don't do enough."

But the students' feelings for Elmes and her classes were only partially responsible for her receiving the very prestigious award. It is Elmes the person, the advisor, the innovator, the teacher who is mostly responsible.

As chairperson of the speech, communication and theatre department at Clarion since 1979, she has used both her educational background (a B.A. from BSC in political science, and 107 credits of master's and doctoral course work at Ohio University) and her personal convictions and desires for constant improvement to bring many important changes and additions to Clarion's educational program.

At Ohio University, as a graduate student majoring in rhetoric and public address, Elmes first began her teaching career. With a lack of background in the education and teaching curricula, Elmes faced her first class. "I was concerned that I didn't know enough. But thanks to my forensic experience at Bloomsburg, I was relaxed and was able to conduct the class in the manner intended," recalled Elmes.

Elmes had been named "Outstanding Competitor" by the BSC Forensic Society in 1971 and 1972, and was the recipient of over 20 awards in intercollegiate forensics as an undergraduate, including state and national titles in debate, discussion, persuasion, extemporaneous and impromptu speaking. She was also the recipient of the Community Government Association Leadership Scholarship (1971-1972), and was selected for inclusion in Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges (1971-1972).

When Elmes, a Reading native, left Ohio University in 1974 prior to the completion of her doctoral studies to accept the full-time teaching position at Clarion, she found that her biggest challenge was to get students in her speech classes past their fear of speaking in front of a group. "People are terrified of speaking in front of a group, and what I showed them was that speaking is a necessary tool and not something to be dreaded."

At Clarion, Elmes has not only motivated students—"I think motivation is one of the keys to learning"—but she also made additions to the speech, communication and theatre department.

She implemented and taught interpersonal communication theory, introduction to rhetorical theory and cross cultural communication. She is also responsible for the acquisition of over $3,500 in scholarships for majors from alumni and private sources; proposed and received $5,700 in grant funding to develop a black theatre dance program; instituted several academic advisement programs for majors such as internships in cooperation with Manhattan Theatre Club, Chautauqua Institute, the United States House of Representatives, Pittsburgh Civic Light Opera, Pittsburgh Playhouse, the Greater Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce and the Pennsylvania House of Representatives; and the establishment of a student transfer program in theatre with an Irish University.

Her one big love is still forensics, and at Clarion, Elmes has made forensics a very respectable addition. "When I came to Clarion in the fall of 1974, they only had a debate team. I was approached by the debate coach—he knew about my background in forensics—and he asked me about the possibility of adding it." Since Elmes initiated the program in her first semester as an instructor at Clarion, members of the forensic team have earned over 700 awards in intercollegiate forensic competition. Included in the total are 15 national finalist titles, ten individual state championships, Pennsylvania team championships (1975, 1979, 1980) and national ranking every year since the team's establishment.

"I am very proud of the forensic team. Clarion State has placed first in national forensic standings for 220 colleges and universities with enrollment between 3,000 and 10,000 in both 1975 and 1976, and in 1977, Clarion finished in the top 20 nationally and has been in the top ten in 1978, 1979, and 1980."

Not only did Elmes initiate the forensic society, but she coached approximately 40 students each year in various public speaking and oral interpretive events, along with managing the team budget, coordinating fund raising projects, supervising students as they traveled to tournaments and serving as host for the annual Autumn Leaf Tournament at Clarion. She was also president (1976-1977) and vice-president (1978-1979) of the Pennsylvania Forensic Association, and was the judging contest chairman for the 1979 national convention tournament. She is also a member of Pi Kappa Delta (forensic honorary fraternity) and Alpha Psi Omega (dramatics honorary fraternity).

When Elmes became chairperson of the speech, communication and theatre department, she reluctantly resigned as forensic coach. "I hated doing it, but there was too much work involved as chairperson."

Elmes believes students considering careers in law, teaching, and public relations would find forensic training very useful, adding that it helped to shape her career.

Applications being sought

Bloomsburg State College is now accepting applications and nominations for the position of vice president of academic affairs.

As the chief academic officer, the position involves planning, budgeting, direction, implementing, and reviewing of all academic programs. The vice president of academic affairs reports directly to the president of the college, and assumes the president's duties when he is absent from campus.

Qualifications for the position include an earned doctorate from an accredited institution, proven administrative leadership in higher education, and a strong teaching and research record.

Women and minority candidates are encouraged to apply.

The starting salary range is $34,621 to $41,232, depending on qualifications and experience. The starting date is September 1, 1981.

Interested parties must submit an application, with an enclosed resume, by February 15, 1981, to Dr. John McLaughlin, Chairperson, Search and Screen Committee, Room 38-A, Waller Administration Building, Bloomsburg State College, Bloomsburg, Pa. 17815.

State Colleges offer bargain

By DAN AUSTIN
Commission for State Colleges, University

John and Marlene Hayes knew the day was coming. Their daughter was graduating from high school in a few months. And questions about college—where to go, how much will it cost, what kind of degree—were on their minds.

It had been 25 years since either the Hayes attended college. The cost was cheap compared to 1980 prices. Today, they know that a four-year college education is expensive and news reports confirm it—$5,000 to $9,000 a year in Pennsylvania.

On a suggestion from the high school counselor, they decided to visit a nearby state college about 50 miles away. The admissions officer gave them a tour of the campus; they discussed finances and programs. They discovered that the cost of attending one of the 14 Pennsylvania state colleges is about $2,500 (tuition, room and board, and other fees) per year. Yes, the price was lower, but the shock was still there. In their minds, going to college is expensive.

What the Hayes did not realize is the impact of Pennsylvania's state colleges and university on their lives.

Some 75,000 students (full-time and part-time) were hitting the books as the 1980-81 academic year began. As many as 80 percent of them are receiving federal or state financial assistance in the form of grants or loans.

They are enrolled in degree programs ranging from computer science, business, and nursing to journalism, industrial and medical technology, and the liberal arts. The state colleges themselves are involved in numerous public services—speech and hearing clinics, local government planning activities, cultural events, and continuing education.

Accessibility, both financial and programmatic, is the key for thousands of Pennsylvania families like the Hayes to have their children attend college. The opportunity to attend college at a reasonable cost is still available. This year the state colleges received a 5.9 percent increase in state appropriations (your tax dollars) over last year in a period of double digit inflation. Still, the state colleges are providing a relatively inexpensive education for the youth and adults of Pennsylvania.

The Pennsylvania Association of Colleges and Universities published a survey comparing the costs to attend 116 Pennsylvania public and private two and four-year institutions for this year. In terms of tuition alone, the state colleges are less expensive than either the private or state-related colleges and universities, the study shows. Only the community colleges and other non-resident institutions are less ex-

Accessibility is only part of the answer to a college education. For the new student, adjustment to college life can, at best, be mixed with anxiety. Students increasingly concerned about the cost of education are finding that the state colleges provide opportunities for them to take advantage of programs to improve their academic record. Many of the colleges operate academic advising and learning resource centers for freshmen and transfer students to determine their level of achievement in math, reading, and writing, and then give them assistance. For those nearing the completion of a college program, there are career development centers to develop the skills of job interviews and resume preparation.

To maintain a quality education is as demanding as making it accessible, both economically and programmatically. National and regional accrediting agencies routinely examine programs like nursing, teacher education, counseling, business, and accounting. All the state colleges have regional accreditation, and many of them have accreditation for specific degree programs.

The Hayes family, like thousands of others, is making some major decisions about higher education. These decisions involve cost, quality, and opportunity.

THOMAS R. MANLEY

17-year veteran retiring

Thomas R. Manley, professor of biology and allied health science at BSC will retire at the end of the 1980-81 academic year. He will be completing a total of over 30 years of teaching, including 17 years at BSC.

Prior to coming to BSC in August, 1964, Professor Manley was a teacher in the Selinsgrove Area School District for eight years, and in 1963 was named Pennsylvania's Outstanding Science Teacher. In 1964 he was Pennsylvania Teacher of the Year and was one of the ten finalists in the National Teacher of the Year program. His outstanding teaching ability was again reflected at Bloomsburg where, in 1976, he received one of three of the college's distinguished teaching awards and was named a Commonwealth Teaching Fellow, receiving an award of $2,500. He also competed for the Commonwealth Teaching Chair Awards that year.

Professor Manley earned his Bachelor of Arts degree at Fairmont State College and his Master of Science degree in genetics from West Virginia University. He has taken graduate work at Ohio State, Bucknell, and Yale. At the latter he was a John Hay Fellow (1961-62). He also taught at Fairmont Junior High School, Mankin (West Virginia) High School, and at Western Reserve University in Cleveland, Ohio.

Manley is one of the nation's leading authorities on gladiolus and has received the highest award of the National Gladiolus Society. A research affiliate in entomology at the Peabody Museum at Yale since 1964, Manley has also been extremely active on campus. He is a past chairman of the professional affairs committee, served on graduate council three terms, since 1972 has been chairman of the grievance committee of Bloomsburg's APSCUF Chapter, and for many years has been chairman of the campus beautification committee which has a comprehensive plan for over $300,000 in projects. He has also been an advisor to a number of organizations both on and off campus, and this year is a vice chairman of the state APSCUF grievance committee.

Manley has had a large number of his research writings published at the local, state and national level. He is currently chairman of the Snyder County Planning Commission and serves on the board of directors of the Pennsylvania Planning Association.

His professional affiliations include the Lepidopterist Society, Society for Study of Evolution, Entomological Society of America, and the honorary fraternities of Sigma Xi and Phi Epsilon Phi.

Mr. and Mrs. Manley reside at McKees Half Holes, below Selinsgrove. In his retirement, Professor Manley will be working as curator at Peabody Museum, and as a consultant for several state agencies including the Department of Education. He also plans to complete a large backlog of research as well as travel and work on his 300-acre farm.

43 graduate with honors

Forty-three honor graduates were among the more than 140 seniors who received their diplomas during commencement exercises at BSC on December 21. Dr. Daniel Pantaleo, dean of the School of Extended Programs, delivered the commencement address. Those graduating with honors, along with their hometowns and degree programs are as follows:

Nursing students get elbow room in leased facility

The nursing department has moved part of its operation into the ground floor of a new building at the Bloomsburg Hospital.

The 6,000-square foot ground floor facility has been leased by the college for five years to provide much-needed additional space and facilities for the nursing department which is located in the Boyer Building on Lightstreet Road. Some of the classroom space will also be utilized by other academic departments of the college.

"We've moved nine of our seventeen staff members, who are associated with juniors in our program, into the annex," Dr. Gertrude Flynn, department chairperson, commented. "We now have the privacy necessary to give physical examinations. There is more room for self-study, and we can use the multiple mannequins, previously purchased, to much more advantage. We also have room to conduct seminars."

Started in 1975

The nursing program at the college has been in existence since 1975. The nursing curriculum, supported by the strong science programs, was one of the first new programs to receive official approval of the Pennsylvania Department of Education as a result of the college's planning process which was instituted in the early 1970s.

There are approximately 300 students currently enrolled in the nursing program. The first students completed their degree work in 1979 with 54 seniors receiving their Bachelor of Science in Nursing degree at commencement exercises in May, two in August, and ten in December. During 1980, 43 were graduated in May, one in August, and 15 received their degrees in December.

Four-year program

Freshmen in the nursing program complete a year of extensive academic preparation on campus. As sophomores, the students use the facilities of the Bloomsburg, Berwick, and Lewisburg Evangelical Hospitals and the Maria Joseph Manor Nursing Home near Danville for clinical experience.

Juniors in the program combine on-campus instruction with experience in hospitals at Williamsport and Harrisburg. Seniors participate in community health agencies within 100 miles of Bloomsburg. Clinical facilities for instruction on campus have been limited to one classroom in temporary quarters. The nursing annex now provides additional office and classroom space for the next five years.

Included in the recently-passed Commonwealth Capital Budget is an appropriation of more than $6 million for construction of a new classroom, laboratory, and faculty office facility that would include modern accommodations for the nursing programs as well as for other expanding academic programs.

Fourth BSN program

Bloomsburg was the fourth college in the state college system to implement a BSN degree program. "We're extremely happy with the progress our nursing program has shown in a relatively short period of time. It is a credit to our planning process and to the calibre of our faculty," President Dr. James H. McCormick said.

Dr. McCormick also expressed his appreciation for the fine cooperation of the Bloomsburg Hospital, other area hospitals, and the Maria Joseph Manor Nursing Home in helping to make the program so successful.

Robert Raker, administrator of the Bloomsburg Hospital and William Hidley, board president, have jointly expressed their appreciation of what the nursing program means to the greater Bloomsburg area and said they are happy the Bloomsburg Hospital has the space available for the expansion of facilities for the program.

Panorama of Dinant in Belgium

Trips to Europe highlight travel package

Vacationing: it's something we all love to do—and now, while you endure the winter cold and wonder what you will do when summer finally does get here—the Alumni Association is pleased to offer four unique tours to enticing Spain, the scenic Rhineland, historic Scotland, and beautiful Salzburg for the music festival. Each trip is designed to make your wildest faraway fantasies a reality.

The Spain "funfest" begins on July 17, from New York via T.W.A., and lasts until July 25. It includes three enchanting nights in Madrid, one night in celebrated Granada and three nights in beautiful Costa del Sol.

Madrid is a city of elegance. While there, select one of the many exquisite restaurants which have every conceivable dish on their menus; enjoy sightseeing tours to such alluring places as Bailen Street, Plaza Msyu, Puerta del Sol, Cibeles, Jose Antonio Avenue and the Royal Palace; see the many museums; stroll through the lovely parks and stand breathlessly at the house of the famous Spanish painter El Greco.

On July 20, you will leave Madrid and travel south to the Mediterranean kingdom of Granada. While enroute, feel welcome in the Spanish Heritage as you witness the Province of Castilla, and the cities of Madridejos, Manzanares, and Voldepenas Jaen. In Granada sightsee at the legendary Alhambra.

Your next stop—Costa del Sol—should mean excitement, because that is exactly what this beautiful area offers. By day, sightsee in the majestic Costa del Sol Mountains, visit the delightful "White" village or stretch out and get a tan on one of the many Costa del Sol beaches. At night, put on your dancing shoes, because Costa del Sol has numerous clubs, discotheques, bars and nightspots, all packed into 72 miles of utter beauty. The nightclubs feature full-blown Las Vegas type extravaganzas and Flamenco "tablaos."

Prices for this fantastic round-trip vacation start from $999.00.

Five countries on the Rhine

The Rhineland tour begins on July 15 and lasts for nine wonderful days. On the trip, you will visit five of the most beautiful and culturally enriched cities in the entire world.

After your flight leaves from New York via a Saben Belgian Airlines Boeing 747 jet, you will arrive in Brussels, the Belgian capital. In Brussels for two nights of excitement, you can visit the many quaint shops; the unique Grande Place with the 15th century City Hall and the 18th century Guild House; the Statue of the "Little Boy of Brussels" (Manneken-Pis); the palace of Justice; the king's Palace and St. Michaels Cathedral.

Your next city of wonder is Cologne. Here, you will be amazed by the famous Cologne Cathedral, and prepare for your pleasurable voyage up the mighty Rhine River, highlighted by the many picturesque villages, castles and vineyards—and of course—the legendary Lorelei rock.

By Saturday afternoon, July 19, you will arrive in Heidelberg. The tour includes sightseeing trips to the University of Heidelberg, Heidelberg Castle and many other points of interest.

Early Sunday afternoon, you will leave Heidelberg for Metz, 220 kilometers away. The drive through the lovely countryside will take about five hours. You will stay in Metz overnight and enjoy a succulent dinner.

On Monday afternoon, you will leave Metz for your final destination. It is a city which is filled with beauty and culture. It is a city which almost all overseas travelers wish to see. The city is none other than Paris. Enroute from Metz to Paris, you will pass many World War I battlefields such as Verdun, Chalons-s-mene and Chateau-Thierry.

In Paris, you will see the Place de la Concorde, the Louvre, Notre Dame Cathedral, the Town Hall, the Bastille, Sorbonne University, the Latin Quarter, the Pantheon, the Invalides, the Arch of Triumph, the Avenue Champs-Elysees, Montmartre, the Opera, Rue da la Paix, and of course, the Eiffel Tower. Tuesday afternoon is a time of leisure, when you will be able to pursue whatever activities you want.

By Thursday, you will return to Brussels, thankful that you spent the money for nine days of pure heaven.

The cost of these nine days of sheer delight starts at $1,249 round-trip from New York.

Lots to see in Scotland

Scotland, the homeland of the poet, Robert Burns, is the third trip offered by the Alumni Association.

The Scotland trip begins on Thursday, August 20, when you board a Northwest 747 wide-bodied jet in New York, and will last until August 30.

You will arrive in Prestwick, and after brief customs formalities you will transfer to Edinburgh, where the 1981 Music Festival will be in full swing. That Friday, Saturday, Sunday, and Monday in Edinburgh, you will be left entirely free to attend to whatever interests you have. During your stay, you will be provided with a full Scottish breakfast each morning.

Tuesday, August 25, you will leave the wonderous city of Edinburgh behind, and head northwest to Sterling, where Mary Queen of Scots was crowned in 1543. From here, you will travel to Glencoe where the towering cliffs witnessed the tragic massacre of the McDonalds in 1692. Then it's on to Williams on Loch Linnhe.

History of college more than facts

"I want to show what the school was like; I want to show the meat of the school and the changes that took place," says Eda Bessie Edwards '41, the author of a nearly completed history of BSC from 1839 to 1979. "I am interested in providing some of the color of the school, rather than just the facts."

And provide color she does as she takes her readers through the years from the time the school was a one-building academy on the corner of Jefferson and Third Street, to its move "up on the hill," to the graduation of the first nursing class. To Mrs. Edwards, the graduation of the first nursing class is proof that BSC is a multi-purpose college.

Mrs. Edwards became interested in writing the history in 1976 when Mrs. James McCormick, the college president's wife, asked her to write a college history for a bicentennial project. Since 1976 she has been researching with the aid of her retired husband, Dr. C. Stuart Edwards

'41, dean emeritus of the School of Professional Studies.

The archives, minutes of the board of trustees, old alumni records and old Alumni Quarterly were especially helpful in the search. Mrs. Edwards found the trustees' minutes often "tickled her interest" because they would mention something only briefly, and then other sources would have to be researched to discover the details.

A very important source for Mrs. Edwards was the diary of J.T. Ailmann, a graduate of the class of 1871, who recorded the daily occurrences of his life during his two-year stay at Bloomsburg. Ailmann's diary provided much insight into the colorful human side of the college during the late 1800s.

Other sources included letters of John Bakes and interviews with local historians and people acquainted with the college, old college catalogues and yearbooks.

Beyond the factual information, this history reveals the evolution and flavor of the school as well as the variety of people involved with it. For instance, when the college was first begun it was simply called the Academy. Then the name was changed to the Literary Institute. Eventually Normal School was also added to that name. The college then became Bloomsburg State Teachers College until its name finally evolved to Bloomsburg State College.

Mrs. Edwards tells of the first class to graduate in Carver Hall in 1867. That class had only three members: D.J. Waller, a member of the Waller family for whom the old and new Waller buildings were named; George Elwell, a member of the Elwell family for whom Elwell Hall is named; and Charles Unangst, who went on to become a successful lawyer in New York.

About the turn of the century, the college underwent a Cuban period as a result of the Spanish-American War. Bilingual teachers were badly needed to teach the Spanish-speaking persons English as part of their education.

Once Mrs. Edwards began researching, she found it difficult to stop. Although it is not included in the history, she followed many of the college presidents beyond their years at Bloomsburg because she found them so interesting. And she discovered such a large number of Bloomsburg graduates who went on to become successful in their fields that she could not mention all of them.

The history is expected to run about 300 printed pages. The chapters follow the tenure of each president at Bloomsburg. Mrs. Edwards hopes to complete the history by Alumni Day 1981. The history will be printed in book form. Copies of the history may then be purchased from the Alumni Office.

The Alumni Association will underwrite the cost of publishing the history. Proceeds of the sales will go to the Association.

Graduation not the end of learning

"Keep an eye on education, since you're most likely to be involved in it," Dr. Daniel Pantaleo, dean of the school of extended programs at BSC, told the 240 graduating seniors and 65 graduate students at the December commencement exercises on December 21.

Dr. Pantaleo told the graduates that no matter what their field of endeavor may be, there is almost always a desire or need to up-grade their training either at their own desire or for some other reason. "Just because you leave an institution of education does not mean you stop learning or growing intellectually," he said.

Presentation of candidates for degrees was by Dr. Barrett W. Benson, interim vice president for Academic Affairs. President James H. McCormick conferred the degrees and Frank Fay member of the board of trustees, awarded the degrees.

Introducing their schools were the respective deans: Dr. G. Alfred Forsyth, Arts and Sciences; Dr. Howard K. Macauley, Professional Studies; and Dr. Charles H. Carlson, Graduate Studies. Hooding of the master's degree candidates was done by Dr. Benson.

College faces challenge

In his address, Dr. Pantaleo strived to make the graduates aware of some similarities between them and the institution from which they were graduating. He stressed the fact that with declining birth rates, in the next 20 years there will be fewer and fewer people in the 18 to 22 year old bracket. "This information," he continued, "coupled with the number of people reaching and living well past the retirement age, means that fewer of you will be supporting more and more people in a society where the average age is shifting to the older end of the spectrum.

"This fact means, to Bloomsburg or any college, the prospect of sharply decreasing enrollments in the next 20 years. A college such as Bloomsburg must maintain and strengthen its reputation for high expectation and quality programs, making the institution a sought-out source of respected and effective learning experience.

"However, this course does not guarantee an institutional survival," he continued. "The future success of any college demands responsiveness, cooperation and flexibility in pursuing programs for non-traditional learners as well as the traditional. Newly discovered groups of people who desire educational services are being and will be served. A successful college in the 1980s and 1990s must be proactive in reaching outward. It is necessary to include the same firm foundations of quality in the programs of the non-traditional, off-campus setting, that have been built into traditional college setting."

In concluding, Dr. Pantaleo informed the graduates, "Your graduation is a benchmark: a reference point by which you can gauge your growth and the expectations and values you have for yourself. Our past successes as a college, our respectability as an institution are benchmark by which we judge ourselves."

Each of us must use their benchmarks to keep track of how we are doing and where we are going."

Dr. McCormick, in his welcoming remarks, commented on the new Human Services Building which was included in House Bill 2920 recently signed by Governor Thornburgh, and what the new facility means to present and future programs at the college. He expressed appreciation to everyone who lent their support to help relay the urgency for the passage of the bill to members of the Legislature.

Dr. McCormick also referred to a number of the positive things that have happened while the graduates were at Bloomsburg. He cited the awarding of two new degrees for the first time at BSC: the Bachelor of Science degree in radiologic technology and the Associate of Science in Health Services degree.

Dr. McCormick said the immediate future for the college is very encouraging. "Applications for admissions are running ahead of those of a year ago," he said.

He expressed hope that four years at Bloomsburg have made a difference to the graduates and will add significantly to their ability to deal with problems and to function with people as responsible members of a complex society.

The president said the entire college community is proud of the graduates and is confident they will represent Bloomsburg State College well. He urged them to become involved in the work of the Alumni Association and to continue to believe in and speak out on behalf of public higher education.

In closing, Dr. McCormick recognized trustees present including Frank Fay, LaRoy Davis, Thomas Gordon and Lucy Szabo, along with President Emeritus Harvey A. Andruss.

Professor E. Burel Gum was the presiding officer. Student remarks were given by Jeff Ringhoffer, CGA president, and Beverly Howard, senior class president.

The invocation and benediction were delivered by Rabbi Norman E. Singer of the Congregation Ohev Shalom in Williamsport. Singing of the BSC Alma Mater was led by Professor Nelson A. Miller, and the organist was Marilou Zeller. Several musical selections were presented by the Madrigal Singers under the direction of Dr. Richard Stanislaw.

Clayton H. Hinkel, senior member of the faculty, was commencement marshal.

Prior to graduation, a luncheon was held in the Scranton Commons for honor graduates and other award recipients. Dr. Jack Mulka, director of student activities, coordinated that event.

Graduating seniors James Gudkenecht and Matthew Trageser were sworn into the Armed Forces by Captain Michael Thornburgh in a special ceremony earlier in the day in the president's office.

Two busy weeks planned for Minority Awareness

Dr. Ted Shanoski, program chairperson of the human relations planning committee, has announced that Minority Awareness—a multi-cultural experience—will be held from March 9 to March 20. This program is designed to be both academically and culturally based. Each day of the two weeks has a specific theme with a specific performance, lecture or discussion.

March 9: A special performance will be held in Haas at 8:15, featuring the Ohio Ballet.

March 10: A two-program focus of the Jewish people and their history will be presented in Kehr Union. Also on display will be a Jewish art exhibition.

March 11: Kappa Delta Pi, the honorary educational group, is featuring Charles Sutton, a black educator from Lincoln University.

March 12: A guest lecture by B.F. Maiz, a noted black poet, will be held in room A of Kehr Union at 8 p.m.

March 13: A panel will discuss the question: How American are you? This debate will be presented in Kehr Union at 10 a.m. Following the debate will be a food festival from noon to 2 p.m.

March 16: John Wade and Quinton Sanders will present a survey of black art in America. Both artists' works will also be on display all week in Kehr Union.

March 17: Two panels, one headed by Kay Campese and the other by Vinnie Burrows, a black dramatist, will discuss women's issues. Campese's panel will meet at 10 a.m., and Burrows' panel will meet at 2 p.m. Burrows will also present a lecture at 8 p.m. All groups will meet in Kehr Union.

March 18: The New Freedom Theatre, an all-black cast of artists and actors, will perform a "fast-paced brown sugar sweet variety show" called "Hot Molasses."

March 19: Two panels, one at 10 a.m. and the other at 2 p.m., will discuss women's issues.

March 20: A jazz concert will be presented at noon in Kehr Union.

New degree program underway

When BSC began its new master's degree program in communication in January, it was among a select group of fewer than ten schools offering such a program in Pennsylvania. Final approval for the program was received from Secretary of Education Robert G. Scanlon last summer.

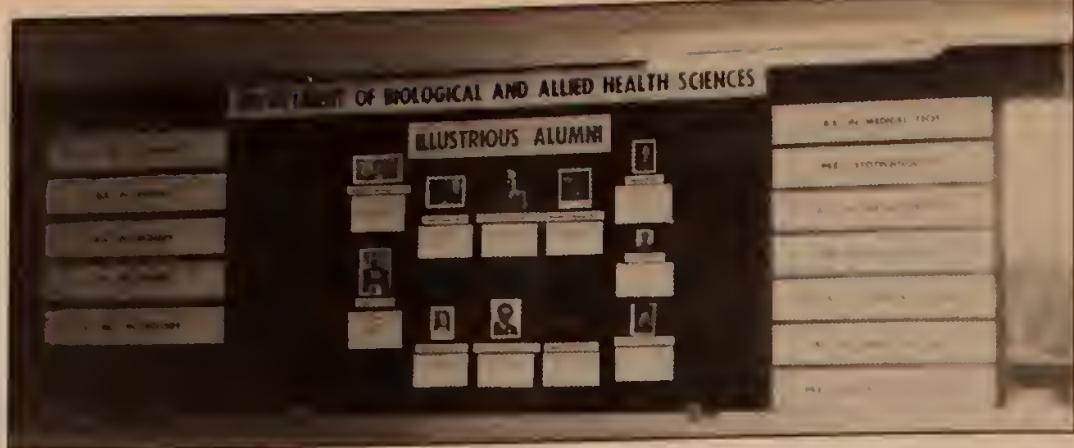

"Due to the limited offerings of this program in the Commonwealth, we feel it will draw from quite a distance from Bloomsburg," stated Dr. Charles H. Carlson, dean of the school of graduate studies.

Upon completion of the degree program, the student should have attained sufficient knowledge of the broad field of communication and some knowledge of at least one specialized area, either to start doctoral studies or to be more versatile in his or her own profession.

Persons who hold a bachelor's degree in any discipline from an accredited four-year college will be able to take courses of their choice in the program without seeking the master's degree, or they may become degree candidates and proceed to the M.A. by completing the 30-semester-hour requirements.

Included in these requirements are 12 semester hours of required core courses: nature of communication, print media, non-print media, and interpersonal communication; two to four other courses must be chosen from the English, Speech, Mass Communication or Theatre departments; and two to four approved and appropriate courses from related disciplines.

For further information or registration materials, contact Dean Carlson at BSC.

A number of alumni are recognized in a display prepared by William C. Burke Jr., a graduate student in the department of biology and allied health sciences. The display is located near the main lobby in the Hartline Science Center.

Included in the display are the following:

Michael V. Mellinger '67, Ph.D. (ecology), Syracuse University, 1972; presently a project manager for Weston Environmental Consultants/Designers.

Bruce Grant '64, M.S. (genetics), North Carolina State, 1966; Ph.D. (genetics), N.C. State, 1968; associate professor of biology at the College of William and Mary.

H. Keffer Hartline '20, B.S. from Lafayette College, 1923; M.D., Johns Hopkins University, 1927; co-winner of the 1967 Nobel Prize for contributions in medicine and physiology; faculty emeritus of the Rockefeller University.

Douglas Thrall '77, presently enrolled at Fairleigh Dickinson University School of Dentistry.

Ronald F. Romig '66, Ph.D. (entomology and applied ecology), University of Delaware, 1972; professor of biology at West Chester State College.

Nancy Ramin '77, presently enrolled at the Pennsylvania College of Podiatric Medicine.

James M. Gabriel '76, B.S. and D.D. degrees from Pennsylvania College of Optometry, 1980.

David C. Hirsh '76, D.D.S., University of Pittsburgh School of Dental Medicine, 1980.

William J. Yurkiewicz '60, M.S., Bucknell University, 1962; Ph.D., Penn State, 1965; professor of biology at Millersville State College.

Helen Jasnosz '74, D.D.S., Case Western Reserve University School of Dentistry, 1979.

Robert L. Tucker '68, New York Giants, 1970-77; "All-Pro" tightend, 1971; Minnesota Vikings, 1978 to present.

Attention all business education majors

September marked the beginning of the fiftieth year of business education at BSC. The Department of Business Education began in the fall of 1930 when the state Department of Public Instruction designated the college as an institution where commercial teachers for high schools of the Commonwealth would be trained.

The department is working on a directory of business education graduates (1930-1980) and would like to hear from its graduates in order to update its records.

All BSC business education graduates are asked to submit the following information:

name (maiden), class year(s), address, county, telephone number, name and address of school where employed, telephone number of school, plus a short description of your current situation (include total years of teaching business subjects).

Please send this information by April 17 to Dr. Ellen M. Clemens, Chairman, Department of Business Education/Office Administration, 202 Sutliff Hall, Bloomsburg State College, Bloomsburg, PA, 17815.

A reunion get-together of all business education graduates is planned for the morning of Alumni Day, April 25. Details for our reunion will be mailed in early March. Dr. Clemens may be contacted at (717) 389-2914.

On Wednesday, you will drive north along the famous Loch Ness—with its friendly monster—to Fort Augustus in time to visit the Benedictine Abbey. Afterwards, the day is yours for shopping.

Thursday, you will travel across Northern Scotland to Aberdeen, known as one of Britain's leading resort areas. This prominent seaside town is famous for its beautiful beaches and promenades.

Perth and Alloway are on the agenda for Friday. In Alloway, you will visit Robert Burns' thatched cottage.

Sunday, you are homeward bound, tired, but glad you made the trip.

The cost of this Scottish delight starts at $1,199 round-trip from New York.

Or Austria

Salzburg, the city of Mozart, is beckoning you to participate in the 1981 Salzburg Music Festival.

There are two different plans for the Salzburg trip. The first plan is only for Salzburg and is nine days long. The second includes Munich, Salzburg and Vienna and runs 14 days.

Sightseeing tours in Salzburg include the Mirebell Castle, Mozarteum and Mozart's birthplace, the Horse Fountain, the Old Glockenspiel (clocktower) and the castle of Hellbrunn, containing an amazing collection of water fountains and a mechanical theater with 256 figures.

Besides the special Music Festival, there will be other kinds of entertainment which will satisfy all tastes.

A U-drive car is offered for the last five days of your trip. In the rent-a-car, you will be able to visit Munich or drive into the heart of the Bavarian Alps to Berchtesgaden.

Plan Two has five days in Munich, where you can enjoy Munich's artistic treasures, museums and theaters. Your sightseeing tours will include some of the most famous of places, such as the Alte Pinakothek with the largest collection of Rubens in the world, the House of Art (Haus der Kunst) and the most famous of all, the German Museum. Other points of interest are Neuschwanstein Castle, Berchtesgaden, Garmisch-Partenkirchen.

On the sixth day, Vienna is yours. Morning tours are supplied with such sights as the Opera House, St. Stephen Cathedral, the church of St. Charles in beautiful Baroque style and Belvedere Castle (once the summer residence of Prince Eugen of Savoy).

By day ten, you will go to Salzburg, host of the famous Music Festival since 1920. For the remaining days, enjoy the many sights mentioned in Plan One.

The cost for Plan One starts at $1,195.

The cost for Plan Two begins at $1,495.

Tour arrangements

Continental breakfasts are offered on all tours. Dinners are either at the hotels or at restaurants in the cities you visit.

The Spain, Rhineland and Scotland trips are arranged by Dittmann Tours, Inc., Northfield, Minnesota, 55057.

The Salzburg tour is arranged by Security Travel Ltd., 1625 Eye Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006. (toll free 800-424-8892).

For further information, please contact the Alumni Office or the tour agencies listed above.

(One last note: Have a great time on whichever tour or tours you choose!).

If you'd like a warm spot . . .

The trips are to the Bahamas, Disneyworld in Orlando Fla., Ft. Lauderdale/Daytona Beach, and Aruba.

The "Freeport Fling" to the Bahamas runs until June 19, 1981. Charter planes depart from Philadelphia every Monday, and from the British West Indies every Friday. Two vacation packages are offered: three nights (Friday-Monday) and four nights (Monday-Friday). Hotel accommodation choices are the Bahama Princess, Holiday Beach Resort, and Freeport Inn. Complimentary admissions are given to top Freeport nightclubs.

Prices range from $199 to $299 roundtrip.

The Disneyworld trips are available from March 17 to June 13. Departures are every Tuesday and Saturday. Two alternatives are offered: three nights (Saturday-Tuesday) and four nights (Tuesday-Saturday). Hotel accommodations include your choice of Days Inn Seaworld, Davis Brothers, or World Inn at Lake Buena Vista. Prices start at $239 quad; $255 triple; $267 double; plus $25 a person extra at World Inn.

The Ft. Lauderdale-Daytona Beach "Springbreak '81" trip is available from February 27 until April 19, and lasts for seven nights. Departures are every Friday, Saturday, and Sunday. Hotel accommodations include; Kings Crown, Ft. Lauderdale; Sea Dip, Daytona; Lauderdale Beach Hotel, Ft. Lauderdale; and the Plaza, Daytona. Featured are a get-acquainted cruise and free admission to Flanagan's nightclub. A rent-a-car will be offered for $20 a person with unlimited mileage and full insurance coverage. Prices start at $279 for a quad.

The Aruba trip lasts for eight sunny days and seven lovely nights. Prices start at $369 and include air, hotel, transfer, plus more.

For more information, contact the Alumni Office (1-717-389-3613).

One of BSC's biggest boosters retires

One of Bloomsburg State College's "sons," Clayton H. Hinkel, has retired from the School of Business faculty after 34 years of service to the college.

Clayton was honored at a retirement dinner held at Hotel Magee on December 19. Participants in the program—all present or past colleagues—included John Dennen, business administration faculty, who presented the invocation; Dr. Emory W. Rarig, dean of the school of business, who

Your pride in the College has not gone unnoticed by the thousands of students who have had the opportunity to be in your classes.

"Selfishly, we welcome your retirement from the faculty because you have already indicated a characteristic willingness to devote more time to the Alumni Association. Fortunately, you cannot 'retire' as an alumnus of BSC."

Clayton has always considered himself

tion Club. He served as treasurer of the Business Education Club and was a staff member of the Obiter and the Maroon & Gold newspaper.

A native of Easton, he returned to his hometown to teach at Easton High School as director of business education and placement for four and one half years. He was also an evening instructor at Churchman Business College. He earned his master's degree at Temple University.

During his years on the faculty at BSC, he has been chairman of the Graduate Studies Committee for five years, a role in which he helped to pave the way for the approval of the master's degree in education. He served as vice president, treasurer and secretary of the BSC Faculty Association. He served as faculty sponsor of the Student Christian Association—a continuation of his church work as an undergraduate—for 18 years. He has served as commencement marshal at the college for five years.

Clayton has earned a number of honors, including the Distinguished Service Award of the BSC Alumni Association, 1977; Educator of the Year Award of the Pennsylvania Business Education Association, 1968; a Fellowship from Sears-Roebuck; a Family Finance Scholarship at Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania; a Danforth Scholarship to the Union Theological Seminary at Columbia University.

Clayton has been a member of the Aumini Board of Directors since 1968 and is currently serving as secretary. He has also held the position of vice president.

The Hinkels will continue to reside at 418 Jefferson Street, Bloomsburg.

Hilgar, chairman of the business administration department; Dr. Ellen M. Clemens, chairman of the business education/office administration department; and Dr. Margaret J. Long, business education faculty, who presented the "roasting" gifts, as well as a legislative citation and a collection of testimonials.

Dr. Rarig presented a citation from the school of business and the retirement gift.

In a congratulatory letter to Clayton on behalf of the Alumni Association, Doug Hippensiel, the director of alumni affairs, noted: "Your dedication to your students and your positive attitude toward your Alma Mater have probably done more to create loyal alumni than any other person.

"the most fortunate graduate of Bloomsburg State College" because Harvey Andruss, William Forney and Walter Rygiel were his teachers, and because Dr. Andruss invited him to return to teach at Bloomsburg in January, 1947. Sixteen of his former students are on the teaching or administrative staff of the college.

Clayton told his colleagues that retirement will give him and his wife, the former Kathleen Myers, the opportunity to spend more time with their children, grandchildren and other relatives. Their daughter, Anne Rohrbach, lives in State College, while son Lee and his family live in Riverton, Wyoming.

Grant provides funds for new associate degree

A project proposal calling for federal vocational education funding of $36,840 to be applied towards the maintenance of a new associate degree, health services associate, has been approved by the Pennsylvania Department of Education for fiscal year 1980-81. The proposal was written by Dr. James E. Cole, chairman of the department of biological and allied health sciences, and processed through the grants office. The monies will be used to purchase supplies and equipment and to provide consultant fees.

This non-traditional associate degree is designed to enhance vocational competencies and provide leadership and communicative education to health workers who have completed at least one year's clinical education from an accredited health agency. The program impacts on three of the state goals for vocational education by (1) providing an avenue for trained health workers to enter the labor force with more attractive vocational skills, (2) expanding the diversity of adult post-secondary educational opportunities and (3) expanding alternate forms of vocational/occupational education so that job options may be increased.

The increased responsibilities placed on health workers both by their employers and accrediting agencies have made continuing education a necessity for them. This health services associate program provides a framework in which these people may pursue a degree while meeting these educational demands placed upon them. The program includes 63 credit hours: 51 credits of college course work and 12 hours awarded for having satisfactorily completed a clinical program elsewhere.

Cooperation with area vocational programs will be an integral part of this project. Some of the occupations of health workers presently in the program include: certified laboratory technician, histotechnologist, licensed practical nurse, and respiratory therapy technician.

Further information may be obtained by writing Dr. Cole, Department of Biological and Allied Health Sciences, BSC, Bloomsburg, Pa. 17815.

Program offers study in Africa

During the past 23 years, Operation Crossroads Africa, Inc., a non-profit organization focusing on international development and educational exchange, has sent more than 5,000 volunteers (students, professionals, and others) to 34 English-speaking and French-speaking African countries to spend the summer helping rural village communities.

Projects involve art, architecture, archaeology, ethnomusicology, agricultural development, community development, health education, media development and construction of clinics, schools, and community facilities.

This extraordinary experience provides a brief but intense immersion in traditional and modern African life and pushes individuals to re-consider basic attitudes, standards, and beliefs in relation to people with contrasting values and beliefs. Most volunteers arrange to receive academic credit for their summer experience, and many find that they are helped into professional careers in international relations, higher education, and business.

Persons interested in participating in Crossroads' Summer 1981 Work/Travel/Study Program may contact Crossroads Africa, Inc., 150 Fifth Ave., N.Y., N.Y. 10011 (Phone: 212-242-8557); or the Crossroads contact person at BSC: Jesse A. Bryan, Ph.D., Director, Center for Academic Development, Bloomsburg State College, Bloomsburg, Pa. 17815.

Bloomsburg State College has been the host for minority leaders down through the years. One of the most famous of these was Booker T. Washington, who appeared once in the early 1900s and was scheduled for another lecture in the 1914-15 academic year. The November 16, 1915 issue of the local paper reported on the death of Washington, which precluded that second appearance, and the close relationship between Washington and Bloomsburg State Normal School's professor of geography,

Charles Henry Albert. It stated:

"Booker T. Washington, foremost teacher and leader of the Negro race, whose death occurred Sunday at his home near the Tuskegee Institute, Alabama, was booked to appear this winter on the Bloomsburg State Normal School lecture course, which, incidentally, would have marked his second appearance on the local lecture platform."

"To Prof. C.H. Albert, news of the great Negro leader's death came as an especial shock, for the bond between the two men was close and time and time again he has lectured and given instruction at the Tuskegee Institute."

"He was one of the most wonderful men the world has ever known," was Prof. Albert's comment yesterday, as he paid a brief tribute to his memory.

"A town girl, Miss Helen Parks, who graduated at the Bloomsburg State Normal School last Spring, is now a teacher in the Tuskegee Institute."

(The following information is a summation of the BSC fall sports season, covering events through Saturday, January 17. Sports summarized include: football, soccer, field hockey, women's tennis, men's and women's cross country, as well as men's and women's basketball, men's and women's swimming, and wrestling, which began their seasons since the last edition).

FOOTBALL

BSC finished its first season under head coach Clark Boler with a disappointing record, but the Huskies had some fine individual performances and the future looks brighter.

Quarterback Kurt Werkheiser led the Pennsylvania Conference eastern division in passing, completing an average of 10.2 passes per game. He connected on 92 of 203 throws for a percentage of 45.3. The junior also doubled as BSC's punter, kicking the ball 58 times for an average of 36.8 yards per punt. Flanker Duane Frantz was Werkheiser's favorite target averaging 4.1 catches per game. He caught 33 passes for 475 yards and three touchdowns, and averaged 14.4 yards per reception.

Defensively, Bob Schwalm led the team in tackles with 121, followed by Brian Greenberg with 94 and Chuck Muller with 91. Greenberg also had three interceptions, from his defensive backfield spot, to lead the squad.

The Huskies will be helped by the addition of spring practice, which is now possible due to the school's move entirely into the NCAA Division II category. Only 11 seniors will be lost to graduation, giving Boler 58 returnees available for spring duty.

This summary picks up in the sixth game of the year; at this time the team showed an 0-5 mark.

MILLERSVILLE 42, BSC 15. All-ECAC runningback Robb Riddick ran all over the Huskies amassing 248 yards to set a new Millersville school record. He also scored three of the Marauders' six touchdowns. BSC quarterback Werkheiser had a fine day in the air completing 25 of 45 passes for 272 yards. Both players were chosen to the ECAC weekly All-star team for their performances.

BSC 5, CHEYNEY 3. The only win of the year, and it didn't come easy in a game played in the mud at Cheyney. The Huskies scored first when Chuck Muller tackled the Cheyney punter in the end zone for a 2-0 lead. The Wolves kicked a field goal just before the half to make it 3-2. Stingy defenses and deplorable conditions kept both teams from scoring again until BSC's place kicker Dave Montagna hit a 38-yard field goal with three seconds left to win it.

KUTZTOWN 28, BSC 7. Kutztown scored first and last to ruin BSC's Homecoming celebration. Bob Keeny was the big man for KSC, rushing for 127 yards and two touchdowns, including a 72-yard jaunt in the second quarter. All the scoring happened before halftime.

EAST STROUDSBURG 70, BSC 15. The last game of the season, and it was a disaster from start to finish as the experienced Warriors did everything right. ESSC only led 7-0 at the end of the first quarter, but seven touchdowns in the second and third quarters spelled the big difference. BSC had just 210 total yards compared to 556 for the Warriors.

SOCCER (5-12-1)

The Huskies finished with a dismal record, but just like the football team, the soccer team is loaded with underclassmen. Big losses will be four-time All-Pennsylvania Conference selection Toby Rank as well as Brian Farrell and goalie Greg Mallow. Rank was the leading scorer with seven goals followed closely by Luke Sakalosky with six.

KUTZTOWN 1, BSC 0. The Bears scored in the first four minutes of the game and then the teams settled into a defensive battle. Jeff Galen scored the KSC goal on a six-yard shot on an assist from Chris Stulb. The win ended a three-game Husky winning streak.

Deb Thom

WEST CHESTER 1, BSC 0. BSC dropped another tough one. This time the teams battled on even terms throughout the first half. The Rams' Mike Hostetter scored the game's only goal in the middle of the second half. West Chester dominated the statistics, taking 13 shots to just six for the Huskies.

CHEYNEY 4, BSC 3. Cheyney's Clayton Francis scored the winning goal with just four minutes left in the contest. BSC trailed 2-1 at halftime, but rallied to pull ahead on goals by Toby Rank and Greg Kane; Fred McCaffery scored the Huskies' first goal. Cheyney ended up winning the PC eastern division and then lost to Lock Haven in the championship game.

EAST STROUDSBURG 2, BSC 1. This was a Friday night game played at Central Columbia High School under the lights as part of BSC's Homecoming festivities. The Warriors scored both their goals early in the first half on shots by Jim Colbert and Bob Heavy.

BSC 2, SUSQUEHANNA 0. Nice win to get in the last game of the season over a team that was headed into the ECAC playoffs. Tony Bloom and Toby Rank scored the BSC goals, one coming in each half. The Huskies also held an 18-13 edge in shots on goal.

FIELD HOCKEY (8-5-3)

Very successful year for third-year head coach Jan Hutchinson's Huskies. Twelve individuals were selected from Susquehanna Valley All-Star Tournament to compete in regional competition. Of those twelve, Joan Mahoney, Debbie Long, Diane Imboden, and Jeanne Futch were chosen to help represent the Mid-East in the U.S. Field Hockey Championships in Michigan.

Polly Dougherty, a freshman, was BSC's leading scorer, tallying seven goals and three assists during the season. She was followed by Imboden with seven goals and two assists and senior Lauren May added six goals, plus three assists.

BSC 1, MILLERSVILLE 1. Polly Dougherty scored BSC's only goal of the game. Both teams were unable to mount any offense in the first half and the Marauders' only goal came on a penalty shot.

BSC 3, SCRANTON 0. After learning of their invitation to the Pennsylvania Conference tournament, the Huskies celebrated by easily beating the out-classed Royals. Robin Elsner, Polly Dougherty, and Lauren May scored the BSC goals.

BSC 2, MARYWOOD 1. It took an overtime period for the Huskies to win this one. Deb Long's goal in the extra period proved to be the difference. Jane Reed scored BSC's other goal late in the second half to force the overtime.

PENNSYLVANIA CONFERENCE TOURNAMENT: LOCK HAVEN 2, BSC 1. First-round game against the top-seated Bald Eagles. Earlier in the season, the two teams played to a scoreless tie, but not this time. Robin Elsner scored the Huskies only goal. The third place game with Millersville was rained out.

Ed Fiorvanti

WOMEN'S TENNIS

The dual match wrap-up was concluded in the last issue of The Alumni Quarterly, but the most important was still to come! The Pennsylvania Conference tournament was held at BSC this season on October 17 and 18, 1980. The netters finished second behind Slippery Rock for the team title. The Rockers scored 24 points to 22 for the Huskies. BSC and SR went head to head in four finals matches, and the Huskies won three of those, but it just wasn't enough to overcome the Rock's strong first day performance.

Deb Orendorff and Linda Becker won singles crowns for BSC at numbers 3 and 6 respectively, and Orendorff teamed with Jane Kaufman for the No. 2 doubles title.

SPORTS

MEN'S BASKETBALL (12-2)

This was supposed to be a banner year for Coach Charlie Chronister's Husky "five." But, when pre-season injuries sidelined probable starter Brad Weber and reserve forward Dave Heimbach, and a stress fracture of the foot put standout transfer Ken Casey out of action after two games, BSC was expected to be only a mediocre team. However, everyone seemed to forget that of the remaining 12 players, ten of them had at least one year of experience under their belts.

Junior Jon Bardsley has matured into the top point guard in the Pennsylvania Conference and directs the Huskies on offense, while averaging close to 14 points per game. Last season's leading scorer and rebounder Mike Wenrich has picked up where he left off and again tops the team in both categories as well as field goal percentage. Bill Tillman, one of the senior tri-captains is leading BSC in one of its strongest defensive efforts in many, many seasons. All of this, together with fine play from the players coming off the bench, had put Chronister well on the way to his tenth consecutive winning season at BSC and the school's 15th in a row!

BSC 86, ADELPHI 76. First of three games on the road to open the season. Ken Casey led four Huskies with double figures scoring 19 points. Jon Bardsley and Mike Wenrich added 16 and freshman Barry Francisco chipped in 12. Casey totally dominated play in the middle, grabbing 13 rebounds.

BSC 79, MILLERSVILLE 68. The Huskies trailed only once at 12-11 and were again led by Casey, who had 24 points and eight rebounds without playing the last 12 minutes. A foot injury prevented Casey from finishing the game, and he has been out ever since December 3. Mike Wenrich added 18 points to the winning effort.

BSC 72, KUTZTOWN 55. This was the best effort of the young season and ended the road games—at least temporarily. Also it is the first game Casey missed, and it was expected to be a tough battle that never materialized. Doug Greenholt filled in at the center position very well, getting 16 points. Tri-captain Bill Tillman led all scorers with 18.

BSC 74, LOCK HAVEN 66. BSC celebrated its first game in the familiar surroundings of the Nelson Fieldhouse by out-muscling the Bald Eagles. Mike Wenrich, who was slightly injured and therefore a doubtful starter, turned in an outstanding performance by tallying 24 points. Jon Bardsley added 17 points while handing out an incredible 14 assists.

MANSFIELD 69, BSC 62. Steve Bond scored six of the Mounties last 11 points to hand the Huskies their first loss of the year. BSC hurt itself by turning the ball over 16 times including five crucial ones in the last few minutes. Mike Wenrich was high man again with 22 points, followed by Bill Tillman with 13.

BSC 69, EAST STROUDSBURG 67. Jon Bardsley hit Doug Greenholt with a great pass for a layup with 10 seconds remaining to win this one. Bardsley converted two free throws, resulting from a technical foul called on ESSC coach Ken Sisson, with 45 seconds left to tie the score and set up the winning bucket. Wenrich again led the effort with 15 points along with Barry Francisco's 15.

BSC 74, BRIDGEPORT 73 (OT). This was the first round of the 14th Annual Sacred Heart University Holiday Classic. Bardsley's basket with 36 seconds remaining in the overtime period proved to be the winner when a last second Purple Knight shot missed its mark. Bridgeport tied it at the buzzer in regulation to force the extra period. Wenrich had 15 and Bardsley 14 points in the winning effort.

STONEHILL 74, BSC 58. Second round of 14th Annual Sacred Heart University Holiday Classic. This was a bad effort all around. The Huskies were unable to penetrate Stonehill's 1-3-1 zone defense and it resulted in a poor shooting night for BSC, which had a 29-27 halftime lead. Wenrich led the BSC scoring again with 14, while Ron Zynel added 10.

BSC 87, NEW HAVEN 82. Consolation round of 14th Annual Sacred Heart University Holiday Classic. Not one of the Huskies' better performances, but none the less a win. BSC led by 16 at the half and upped it to ten only to see the Huskies come storming back behind, who else, Bardsley along with Barry Francisco and Terry Conrad. Bardsley finished with 17 points and Mike Wenrich chipped in 16.

BSC 67, CLARION 58. A big win for the Huskies over a Golden Eagle team that at the time was rated No. 8 in the NCAA Division II rankings and fifth in the Eastern Basketball rankings. Jon Bardsley had another great game tallying 23 points and setting up numerous opportunities with timely passes and steady ballhandling. Ron Zynel provided an excellent effort off the bench, again getting 17 points.

BSC 80, LEMOYNE 65. Ron Zynel showed he deserves a lot of playing time by scoring 19 points to lead BSC's romp over the visiting Dolphins. LeMoyne came into the game with a record of 2-6 and didn't look much better than that as the Huskies totally controlled the action. Four other players scored in double digits.

BSC 66, SHIPPENSBURG 64. The visiting Red Raiders put up a fight as always, but this time it was not to be, even though four BSC turnovers in the last minute gave them all kinds of opportunities to at least tie. The teams fought back and forth most of the game with the Huskies finally taking the lead for good with 7:31 left. Zynel had 12, Wenrich 11, and Bardsley 10 to lead the BSC offense.

BSC 63, PHILADELPHIA TEXTILE 54. First win ever in school's history over perennial Division II national power Textile. The Rams led by six at the half and upped it to ten only to see the Huskies come storming back behind, who else, Bardsley along with Barry Francisco and Terry Conrad. Bardsley finished with 17 points and Mike Wenrich chipped in 16.

BSC 71, CHEYNEY 64. Doug Greenholt played an outstanding game in the middle to lead BSC in what was one of the best efforts of the season. BSC shot an incredible 70 percent in the first half and 62 percent for the game to beat the Wolves at their own game. The crowd in the Nelson Fieldhouse for this game, as well as the two preceding it (Shippensburg and Textile) was outstanding. Bardsley had 18 points, followed by Greenholt's 17 and Wenrich's 13. The Huskies' win kept them right behind PC eastern division leading Mansfield.

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL (2-4)

Following last season's 7-10 record and the loss of four seniors, coach Sue Hibbs didn't know exactly what to expect. The four graduates, P.C. Lyons, Sally Houser, Gail Hopkins, and Loretta Sutcliffe led in eight of nine statistical categories a year ago.

Leading veterans are co-captains Mindy Lerit and Trina Knittel. Lerit was the second leading scorer a year ago, and Knittel led in free throw percentage.

Sophomore Hilarie Runyon is counted on heavily to control action in the middle along with transfer Kathy Palubinsky.

SALISBURY STATE 93, BSC 76. Huskies ran into the host Seagulls in the first round of Salisbury's "Shegull Classic" and the home team proved too tough for BSC. Josie Harper's 26 points helped spell doom for Hibbs' charges. Kathy Palubinsky had 26 for the Huskies followed by three other players in double figures.

DELAWARE STATE 90, BSC 74. This was the consolation game of the "Shegull Classic," and BSC fell victim to the Hornets' "decided height advantage." The Huskies shot well, but were beaten badly in the rebounding column, disallowing any second and third efforts. Hilarie Runyon's 15 points led BSC's effort while Trina Knittel and Mindy Lerit added 11 and 10 respectively.

BSC 73, MARYWOOD 61. Hilarie Runyon and Kathy Palubinsky combined for 37 points in the Huskies' first home contest of the year. BSC led 41-35 at the half only to see Marywood tie it at 45 all before pulling away for the win.

BSC 76, MANSFIELD 68. BSC trailed at halftime 40-36, but outscored the visiting Mounties 40-28 after the intermission to even its record at 2-2. Mindy Lerit led the Huskies with 17 points followed by Hilarie Runyon with 14 and three others in double figures.

LEHIGH 78, BSC 55. Four players scored in double figures again for the Huskies, but the effort wasn't enough to offset Terry German's 25 point effort for the Lady Engineers. Trina Knittel led BSC scorers with 12 points.

ITHACA 84, BSC 64. Fourth road game of the year and fourth loss of the year for the Huskies. Faith Colten scored 37 points for the Bombers to set their school record and helped break the game open in the second half. Mindy Lerit and Hilarie Runyon had 15 points each and Kathy Palubinsky added 14.

WRESTLING (4-3)

When the pre-season practices began, everything looked great for coach Roger Sanders' squad, but injuries started to take their toll. Gibbes Johnson and "Bucky" McCollum went out before the first action and were followed at different times by Todd Cummings, Ed Fiorvanti, and "Butch" Snyder, and that's just naming the regulars that have missed some time. The back-up people have been working hard and the aches and pains are starting to heal, so the rest of the season looks brighter.

BSC INVITATIONAL. The Huskies finished a strong second to powerful Clarion, who racked up 136 points to outdistance BSC with 124½ and Bucknell 116½. Penn State was fourth, followed by Duke, Virginia, Lycoming, and Kutztown. Don Reese (134), Keith Fairman (142), and Al McCollum (150) won individual titles for the Huskies.

BSC 42, MANSFIELD 8. The Huskies completely outclassed Pennsylvania Conference foe Mansfield, rolling to a 35-0 lead before the Mounties could get on the board. Cummings (118), Joe Dougherty (126), Reese (134), Fiorvanti (142), and Tom Fiorvanti (158) all registered falls.

LEHIGH INVITATIONAL. BSC finished behind three top ten teams in this eight team event. Cal-Poly took the team title, host Lehigh was second and Kentucky finished third ahead of the Huskies. No winners, but Cummings (118), Reese (126), Fiorvanti (134), McCollum (142) and Butch Snyder (190) all lost in the finals to finish as runnersups.

MILLERSVILLE 25, BSC 18. A disappointing loss to a much improved

Brian Shoap

Marauder team. Coach Sanders was not pleased with his team's sluggish performance following a solid effort in the Lehigh Tournament. Don Reese was the only Husky to pin his opponent.

LOCK HAVEN MAT-TOWN-USA TOURNAMENT. Another fourth place finish, this time behind Michigan State, Tennessee, and the host Bald Eagles. Sanders was pleased with the strong team showing especially Reese, Fiorvanti, McCollum, Snyder, and Tyrone Johnson. After this event, the Huskies took a longer holiday break than usual to recuperate and get ready for the tough upcoming schedule.

BSC 29, SHIPPENSBURG 4. First match in a long day of wrestling as BSC hosted the Red Raiders, East Stroudsburg, and Missouri in a quadrangular meet in Nelson Fieldhouse. Shippensburg's only points came at 118 lbs. where the Huskies substituted; after that it was a romp.

BSC 26, EAST STROUDSBURG 8. Second match of the day and was the same result as the first match. The Warriors' only points came at 126, where again the Huskies had a back-up wrestling, and at 177 lbs. Although there were no pins in the first two matches, BSC controlled the action on the mats.

MISSOURI 31, BSC 6. The tenth ranked Tigers were impressive the entire day in romps over Shippensburg and East Stroudsburg and finally the Huskies. BSC scored at 126 where Don Reese overcame a 12-2 deficit to defeat the sixth ranked wrestler in the country at that weight. 13-12. The other decision was Bucky McCollum's 8-6 win at 167 lbs.

DELAWARE INVITATIONAL. Winning an event twice in a row is tough, three times incredible, but four times unthinkable. That's just what BSC did in this tournament with a total team effort to edge out Army for the crown. Cummings (118), Reese (134), and Bucky McCollum (167) won individual titles.

IOWA STATE 38, BSC 2. BSC fans got a chance to see the nation's best. Although only ranked number three in the country, the Cyclones had already defeated No. 1 Iowa (25-14) the previous week. Don Reese's draw at 134 lbs. was the Huskies' only bright spot of the evening. ISU convinced everyone at BSC why they're ranked as high as they are.

BSC 19, SLIPPERY ROCK 15. This was the day after the Iowa State match at home and then the Huskies had to make the long trip to the "Rock" for this PC matchup. Everyone expected BSC to be flat, but Sanders was pleased with the performance, and Brad Weigle's pin at 167 proved to be the difference. Al Mabus defeated last year's PC third place finisher at 158.

WOMEN'S SWIMMING (3-0)

Three returning All-Americans and a "great" freshman crop gave coach Mary Gardner a lot to look forward to for the upcoming season and so far she hasn't been disappointed. Linda Smith led the list of veterans returning for this season. She was a five-time All-American in each of her first two years at BSC, specializing in freestyle events. Captain Sue Brophy, also a multiple All-American and Vicki Orme, an All-American in each of her first two seasons are looking for big things this year. A lot is expected from newcomers Kelly Reimert, Cathy Sheridan, and Tina Klamut. BSC placed tenth in last year's national AIAW Division III meet.

BSC 81, ITHACA 61. This was a combination meet with the men's team. Cathy Sheridan, swimming in her first college meet, and veteran Linda Smith each won three events to lead the romp. Sheridan set a team record in the 200-yard individual medley and also qualified for the AIAW nationals at the same time. BSC placed first in 13 of 16 events.

BSC 87, EAST STROUDSBURG 53. The Huskies won 11 of 16 races this time to totally destroy the homestanding Warriors. Cathy Sheridan continued to impress followers by setting a school record in the 500-yard freestyle. Kelly Reimert and Linda Smith each won three events.

BSC 85, LOCK HAVEN 55. Three freshman combined to win seven events to lead Gardner's squad to its third rout in as many meets. Sheridan, Reimert, and Sue Boyer helped the Huskies capture 10 first place finishes in this one. The Bald Eagles won more events than either Ithaca or East Stroudsburg, but got very few second and third places.

MEN'S SWIMMING (2-1)

When the season started coach Eli McLaughlin had eight returning lettermen and a promising group of freshmen to rebuild the swimming program. However, internal problems caused the dismissal of some team members and cancellation of two meets. So the squad is now comprised of seven freshmen and two sophomores. Bryan Shoap and Phil Christian, two freshmen, have looked very impressive in the butterfly and back-stroke races respectively, and the all-freshmen 400-yard medley relay team of Shoap, Christian, Matt Thran and Carl Helstrom improves with each meet.

SHIPPENSBURG RELAYS. BSC finished in seventh place in the ten-team event. The host Red Raiders nipped Towson State for the team laurels. The Huskies' top finish was a fifth place in the 1,100-yard relay.

ITHACA 67, BSC 46. The Bombers showed good balance and depth as they won nine of 13 events to defeat BSC. Husky winners included Shoap and Christian, along with diver Tom Cole and the 400-yard freestyle relay team.

INDIANA OF PA. RELAYS. BSC showed a third place finish in this event. Again, Shippensburg won the team crown followed by the host Indians. BSC's 200-yard freestyle relay team placed second for the Huskies' top finish.

BSC 61, KING'S 51. The Huskies won eight of 13 events to post their first dual match win of the season in the Nelson Fieldhouse pool. Shoap and Christian each won their second in a row to go along with improved performances from many others.

BSC 63, SUSQUEHANNA 40. BSC ended a six-week layoff in impressive style by crushing the Crusaders. McLaughlin was impressed with Shoap in the 200-yard butterfly and Matt Thran in the 200-yard breaststroke. Both swimmers swam personal best times. Sophomore Phil Spampinato has been named acting captain for the remainder of the season.

MEN'S AND WOMEN'S CROSS COUNTRY

First-year head coach Carolyn Wernstedt's harriers performed in both the AIAW and NCAA regionals, and the Pennsylvania Conference Championships since last writing. Neither team placed high enough in the regional competition to qualify for national events, but for a very young team the performances made for a brighter future. The ladies finished eighth out of 41 teams, while the men placed 22nd out of 36 teams competing. Vicki Amici was the top BSC women's finisher in 20th place, while Tom Groff came in 52nd in the men's race.

In the PC championships the women again showed good positioning to finish in fourth place. This time Lauren Meymaris placed sixth individually for the women and again Groff was high man in 17th position. The men did not place among the top ten teams.

This concludes the fall sports summary, but an added note will show just how young all the teams were: of approximately 250 athletes competing this year, only 18 will be lost to graduation!

Weisbond honored

Dr. Edwin Weisbond of Mt. Carmel has been honored by the BSC board of trustees for his service and leadership during his term as board chairman. A plaque inscribed with the resolution of appreciation was presented to him at a recent meeting of the board.

Appointed to the board in 1971, Dr. Weisbond served as chairman for 1979-80. Previously he had been secretary for several years.

The resolution cited Dr. Weisbond's "desire and dedication to attain a quality education for young people," and his service in the development and growth of Bloomsburg State College into a stronger and more valuable educational institution. In its resolution the board stated its desire to express its gratitude, appreciation, and respect, and to "pay grateful tribute to the competent, devoted service and leadership rendered by Dr. Weisbond."

Dr. Weisbond was graduated from the Ashland High School, and he received his Bachelor of Science and Doctor of Optometry degrees from the Pennsylvania College of Optometry. He is past president of the Anthracite Optometry Association.

GE promotes Nuss

Allen U. Nuss '58 has been named manager of professional personnel at the General Electric Research and Development Center.

In his new position, Nuss will be responsible for the center's equal opportunity programs, compensation, and development of professional personnel.

Originally from Pottsville, Nuss received his B.S. degree in secondary education from BSC and his M.S. degree in general science from Syracuse University.

Nuss joined GE in 1963 with the information services operation at Huntsville, Ala. From 1965 through 1975, he held a number of marketing and sales positions within the operations.

In 1975, Nuss was appointed manager of professional practices and development for GE's information services division in Rockville, Md. Two years later, he was named manager of recruiting and placement. In 1980, he was appointed manager of advanced human resources systems and planning there—his position prior to joining the center.

Nuss and his family live on Gloucester Place in Niskayuna, N.Y.

ALLEN U. NUSS '58

'Yes'

Over 2,400 BSC alumni said "yes" when student volunteers called during the 1980 national alumni phonathon in October and November. Pledges totalled $14,939, not counting matching gifts.

Of 678 who were "uncertain," many continue to send their contributions. Slightly more than 1,500 alumni said "no."

The 12-night telephone campaign was made possible by the 198 students from 19 campus organizations who made the calls.

The 19 organizations, who participated a varying number of nights, were Alpha Phi Omega, $1,502; tennis teams, $1,359; women's hockey team, $1,284; I.S.C., $1,271; football team, $1,232; wrestling team, $1,009; concert choir, $972; Forensics Society, $971; basketball team, $851; I.F.C., $790; Biology Club, $707; Image, $587; Schuylkill Hall, $465; Italian Club, $460; Delta Omega Chi, $353; Third World Society, $318; Scrollers Club, $317; Phi Sigma Iota, $290; Circle K, $191.

Doug McClinton, class of 1973, assisted with the phonathon on 11 of the 12 nights, a contribution of more than 40 hours of his time.

Forty-five individuals raised more than $100 each.

News briefs from the campus

Philadelphia chapter

The Philadelphia chapter of BSC alumni held their annual Christmas luncheon on December 13 at Wanamaker's in Philadelphia. The program included a visit from Santa and an exchange of gifts.

Alumni and their guests included Charlotte Coulston, Orval Palsgrove, Betty Palsgrove, Catherine Evans, Edna May, Esther Dagnell Via, Cecil Via, Helen Smith, Lucy Ennis, Peg Wilson, Gerry Krauser, Huberto Pugliano, Antoinetta Colosimo, Sadie Mayernick, Harry and Connie Gobora, Dorothy Schmidt, Margaret Minner, Dan McGrew, Tamara Young, Susan Schalles, Bertha Brower, Emily Gledhill, James Gledhill, Betty Rosell and Bertha Hand.

Doug Hippensiel, director of alumni affairs, also attended the luncheon.

Foreign students

Thirteen foreign exchange students are registered for the spring term at BSC.

The students and their respective nations are Gladys Achu, Cameroon; Jose Arrieta, Mexico; Davoud Etrminan-Rad, Iran; Kazuya Ishii, Japan; Sunny Makoge, Cameroon; Hesse C. Mhango, Tanzania; Maurice Mofa, Cameroon; Bahram Mohazzebi, Iran; Kumiko Ohara, Japan; Akane Shimizu, Japan; Enriqueta Vasquez, Peru; Horace White, Jamaica; and a student from England to be named.

Police officer retires

Russell Haines, one of the best known members of the security force has retired. He came to BSC in September 1968 as a security officer I. In July 1974 he was promoted to police officer I, and in April 1977 became a police officer II.

McCormick honored

BSC President James H. McCormick has been selected for honors by Phi Delta Kappa, a professional education fraternity.

McCormick, 42, was named one of 75 "Young Leaders in Education" in the United States and Canada.

Those named "best personify the ideals of research, service and leadership in education on which the fraternity's program is based," according to the fraternity.

A short biography of McCormick was published in the January issue of the journal published by Phi Delta Kappa, the world's largest professional fraternity.

Chapman at convention

Professor Charles Chapman, advisor for Bloomsburg's chapter of Delta Mu Delta, recently attended the national convention in Miami, Florida. Chapman was one of 25 advisors selected to represent his chapter. The convention is held every three years and advisors attending are chosen from the 93 Delta Mu Deltas throughout the United States.

Sessions in leadership training were conducted, and the advisor and officers established priorities for the next three years.

The advisors also discussed their chapter's involvement in college activities. In this discussion Chapman discovered that Bloomsburg's chapter of Delta Mu Delta is more active than most chapters.

As a result of this trip, Bloomsburg's chapter of Delta Mu Delta is considering undertaking new projects. These projects include visits to firms and recognizing business teachers for their outstanding contributions to the School of Business.

Phi Kappa Phi forums

"Where Does Motivation Come From?" was the topic of the third panel discussion in the 1980-81 series of Phi Kappa Phi forums on November 20.

Participating were Percival R. Roberts III, poet and professor of art; Richard O'Keefe, poet and instructor of English; Stuart Thompson, a psychiatrist who directs out-patient services in the division of mental health, Geisinger Medical Center, Danville; and Nancy Gill, assistant professor of English and vice president of the BSC chapter of Phi Kappa Phi.

Phi Kappa Phi, a national interdisciplinary honor society, was founded in 1897. The BSC chapter received its charter in 1977.

'Recreational math'

Over 300 students from 15 area schools participated in the eighth annual Math Day, "Recreational Mathematics," which was held at BSC in October. The students heard an address by Don Scheuer, math supervisor from Philadelphia. The students had the opportunity to tour the computer center and to view exhibits and demonstrations. Dr. Charles Brennan was the chairman of the event.

Grunow transfers

Jo Anne Grunow, assistant professor of community health nursing at BSC, transferred on Dec. 31, 1980, to district nurse administrator for the Central District, State Department of Health, Williamsport. Mrs. Grunow's responsibilities will include administration of the Community Health Nursing Program within the 10-county area comprising the central district.

Conference hosted

The department of biological and allied health sciences of BSC hosted the Northeastern Regional Conference of State College and University Biologists in Hartline Science Center on November 15. Biologists from BSC, East Stroudsburg State College, Kutztown State College, Lock Haven State College and Mansfield State College met to discuss biological concerns and problems of mutual interest.

Rart represents BSC

Dr. Emory W. Rart, dean of the school of business, represented BSC at the annual meeting of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools held in December in Philadelphia.

Over 400 educators attended the meeting of the accrediting organization for colleges and schools in the mid-Atlantic region, which was conducted by President J. Harrison Morson, a 1956 graduate of BSC. A native of Bryn Mawr, Morson is the dean of student affairs at Union College in Cranford, New Jersey.

President on Committee

President McCormick has begun a three-year term as a member of the Committee on Federal Relations of the American Association of State Colleges and Universities.

The committee oversees legislative and executive activities which affect the welfare of the AASCU member institutions and their students.

IMAGE

The BSC sign language group, IMAGE, performed recently in Maryland and Virginia. The BSC group performed at the Maryland School for the Deaf in Frederick, and at James Madison University in Harrisonburg, Virginia.

IMAGE also performed at BSC in November. These performances were designed for those with normal hearing as well as those with impaired hearing.

Alumnus co-edits text

Dr. Conrad L. Stanitski '60, chairman of Randolph-Macon College's chemistry department, is the new co-author of CHEMICAL PRINCIPLES, fifth edition, the most widely used general college chemistry text in the country. In its first four editions, the text was used by well over a million students at over 800 colleges and universities throughout the country. It was first published in 1966.

In 1978, Saunders College Publishing of Philadelphia, Pa., the publishers of the text, began a nationwide search for a new co-author for the fifth edition. Professor Stanitski, who joined the Randolph-Macon faculty in 1976, was notified in the spring of 1979 that he had been selected.

Stanitski noted that the success of CHEMICAL PRINCIPLES is due to its pragmatic approach. "It applies the basic concepts of chemistry to real-life situations," he said. The text is used in general chemistry courses for science majors. Randolph-Macon has been using it for the past five years.

Other Virginia colleges using the text include William and Mary and the University of Virginia.

BSC, Lackawanna sign agreement on transfers

In an on-going effort to achieve greater cooperation among colleges and universities in the northeastern part of the state, BSC and Lackawanna Junior College in Scranton have entered into a guaranteed articulation agreement.

Under the terms of the agreement, a student entering the program leading to the Associate in Science degree at Lackawanna Junior College may sign a letter of intent to transfer to BSC upon completion of degree requirements at Lackawanna Junior College. If the student pursues the degree requirement and follows the terms of the agreement, a place will be reserved for that student two years hence as a junior and all credits earned will be accepted in transfer to BSC.

Professor Stanitski shares the authorship of the text with William L. Masterton of the University of Connecticut and Emil J. Slowinski of Macalester College. Professor Stanitski noted that when CHEMICAL PRINCIPLES first appeared, it played a significant role in changing educators' thinking about how introductory chemistry should be taught.

Promoted to the rank of full professor last fall, Professor Stanitski has directed Randolph-Macon's chemistry program since 1976. He has been the recipient of numerous awards and honors including a NASA Predoctoral Fellowship, two different National Science Foundation Fellowships, Randolph-Macon's prestigious Thomas Branch Award for excellence in teaching, and the Gustav Ohaus Award for Creative Innovations in College Science Teaching.

He was selected for inclusion in Outstanding Young Men of America in 1973 and Who's Who in the South in 1975.

Dr. Stanitski received his bachelor's degree from BSC, his master's degree from the University of Northern Iowa, and his doctorate from the University of Connecticut. He is the author of numerous articles in professional chemistry and chemistry education journals, and he is also the co-author of two other college chemistry textbooks and a laboratory manual.

His professional affiliations include the American Chemical Society, in which he is very active, the Virginia Academy of Science, and the Society of Sigma Xi. He is a member of the honorary fraternities Omicron Delta Kappa, Phi Delta Kappa, and Phi Sigma Pi.

At Randolph-Macon, Professor Stanitski is an active faculty member and a popular teacher. He is the chairman of the Admissions, Credits, and Academic Status of Students Committee, and faculty representative to the president's cabinet and the board of trustees. He also serves on the executive committee and the athletic council.

Before joining the Randolph-Macon faculty, Professor Stanitski had taught at Edinboro State College in Pennsylvania, Georgia State University, and Kennesaw College in Georgia.

STOP!

Before you make your plans for this summer . . .

Consider this great vacation idea for the whole family!

BSC Alumni Family Vacation College

Thursday, July 30 to Sunday, August 2, 1981

Plans aren't finalized yet, but we wanted to tip you off that a great time at a great price awaits you at Bloomsburg this summer. Here are just a few of the highlights of the super weekend at "the friendly college on the hill!"

- * Educational and informative programs on wide-ranging topics: mini-computers, slide shows on astronomy and art, political and economic forums, and many more.
- * Recreational opportunities galore—both on and off-campus—for the entire family.
- * Super reunion opportunity to renew old friendships and to make new friends.
- * "Roughing it" in the dorms—a great experience for the old grads and the young children.
- * Involvement by BSC faculty and staff.

(Prices are not firm yet, but we expect the daily rate to be less than $25 per person, which would include lodging, three meals a day, and a number of special events, including BSC's always-popular Summer Musical.)

Brochures will be mailed in March. In the meantime, you can indicate your interest—and insure a space—by returning this coupon:

Alumni Day planned for April 25

Dear Fellow Alumni:

On behalf of the entire college community and your Alumni Association Board of Directors, I invite you to return to Bloomsburg on Alumni Day, April 25, for a celebration of our Alma Mater's past, present and future.

Although you are always welcome to return for a visit, you are especially invited to join the fellowship of renewing old friendships and making new ones on Alumni Day.

Highlights of the weekend will include the annual luncheon and general meeting of the association, the presentation of three Distinguished Service Awards, the election of seven alumni to the board of directors, the observance of the 50th anniversary of business education at Bloomsburg, class reunions, and a banquet in honor of the 50-year class.

Alumni board meeting

Friday, April 24, will be a busy day for your board of directors. Three committee meetings in the afternoon will be followed by dinner and the regular board meeting in the evening. By meeting on Friday evening, the board will be able to participate in Saturday's activities by welcoming returning alumni.

Saturday morning

Get your day off to a good start over a cup of coffee or tea in the Presidents' Lounge of Kehr College Union, next to Scranton Commons and behind Carver Hall. The coffee pot will be on from 9 a.m. until shortly before noon. The Presidents' Lounge is a pleasant and comfortable place to meet your classmates and other acquaintances.

Betty LeVan and Linda Long of your Alumni Office will staff a desk in the lounge to answer your questions, accept contributions to the annual fund, and to sell tickets for the noon luncheon ($4 each).

Business education celebration

Those alumni who were business education majors are invited to a continental breakfast in the coffeehouse of Kehr Union between 9 and 10 a.m.

Special registration of business education graduates will be held from 10 to 10:30 a.m. in the same location. The 50th anniversary program at 10:30 will feature Dr. Walter A. Brower as the speaker. Other special guests will be Dr. Harvey A. Andrus, Dr. William Selden, Dr. James H. McCormick, and retired business education faculty members.

This group will then participate in the general luncheon in Scranton Commons at noon.

The luncheon

As alumni gather in the Scranton Commons (Dining Room A-C), the BSC Studio Band will play from 11:45 to 12:15. They will play again before the general meeting begins. Tickets for the luncheon ($4 each) will be sold in the lobby.

Awards and election

During the meeting, three alumni nominated by the membership and approved by the board will be presented with Distinguished Service Awards. The recipients are members of the classes of 1927, 1931, and 1948.

Former wrestler to provide scholarship

BILL GARSON '63

An alumnus who made outstanding contributions to the BSC wrestling program in the early 1960s has indicated that he will continue that dedication to the program by providing a four-year scholarship for a Husky wrestler.

William H. "Bill" Garson Jr., '63, a four-time NAIA All-American, has agreed to pay the tuition for a young wrestler for a four-year period beginning this fall. He said it is his intent that this be a continuing scholarship beyond that time.

Garson has asked that the scholarship be named for Russell Houk, his coach at BSC, on behalf of all the wrestlers for whom Houk provided such an outstanding example.

In his freshman year, 1960, Garson placed fourth in the NAIA nationals at 191 pounds. That was the year that the Huskies won the National Championship. In 1961, Garson won the 191-pound national title and helped his squad to a fifth place team finish.

In 1962 and 1963, he moved up to heavyweight and captured individual championships both years. His team placed second in 1962 and again won the National Championship in 1963.

In recognition of his accomplishments, Garson was recently inducted into the NAIA Wrestling Hall of Fame.

Garson, a successful businessman and president of his own company (Pacco, Inc.) in Tenino, Washington, is also a member of the House of Representatives in that state.

Coming to BSC from Williamsport, Garson majored in education of the mentally retarded. As an undergraduate he served on several Community Government Association committees (social recreation, Big Name Entertainment, customs), served on the Men's Resident Council, and was a member of Sigma Alpha Eta, the Council for Education of Exceptional Children, Student Christian Association, and Student PSEA.

In addition to wrestling, he played on the football team his first three years and participated in track in his freshman year.

BILL AS WRESTLER

Two important items of business at the general meeting will be the election of seven directors and action on proposed constitutional amendments (as published in the winter issue of THE ALUMNI QUARTERLY).

Class reunions

Classes in reunion (years ending in "1" or "6" generally) will meet immediately after the general meeting (about 3 p.m.) in the following locations:

1906, 1911, 1916—Faculty dining room.

1921—Corner of dining room.

1926—Corner of dining room.

1931—Corner of dining room.

1936—Listening Room, Kehr Union (top floor).

1941—Green Room, Kehr Union (top floor).

1946—Carver Auditorium.

Blue Room, Kehr Union (top floor). All other alumni are invited to socialize in the Presidents' Lounge in Kehr Union or to stroll around the campus.

The Class of 1931 will take a bus tour of the town and campus at about 3:45 p.m., leaving from the Second Street entrance to Scranton Commons.

50-Year Banquet

The Class of 1931 will be guests of the Alumni Association at a banquet in Scranton Commons (Room D) at 7 p.m. on Saturday. Classes of 1906, 1911, 1916, 1921 and 1926 are also invited. Tickets will be sold at the door ($6 each) for all persons who are not members of the Class of 1931.

A photograph of the class will be taken at 6:15 p.m. in the rear lobby of Scranton Commons.

Members of the Class of 1931 who return to Bloomsburg on Friday and those who live nearby are invited to an informal get-together in the Presidents' Lounge, Kehr Union, at 7 p.m. Friday.

Class of 1941

Members of the class are invited to an open house at the home of Dr. and Mrs. C. Stuart Edwards, 705 Country Club Drive, Bloomsburg, between 3:30 and 6:30 p.m. on Alumni Day.

At 6:30 the class will meet for a social hour at Hotel Magee, followed by dinner at 7:30 p.m.

Class of 1946

Joined by the classes of 1944, 1945, and 1947, the class of 1946 will have a smorgasbord dinner at Hotel Magee at 6:30 p.m. on Alumni Day. Ann Papas Trowbridge and Jacqueline Shaffer Creasy are in charge of arrangements.

Classes of 1950-51

Busy season of chapter meetings underway

The spring season of alumni chapter meetings has begun, with several already held when this Quarterly went to press and several more planned for April.

Washington Area

The Washington area alumni chapter met on Friday evening, March 13, at the beautifully-decorated Officers' Club at Ft. Myer, near Arlington. Navy Captain Curtis R. English '56 served as chairman of the arrangements committee.

Those in attendance, in addition to Curt and Jan English, were Patricia Hartman Eyer '56 and her husband, Charles; Thalia Barba Hicks '34 and her husband, Charles; Francis Bodine '51; Thomas Mulhern '77 and Kathryn Anderson Mulhern '78; Joe Jennings '62 and his wife, Yvonne; Maria R. Pendleton '40; Don Noll '61; Nancy Oberdorf Harris '56; Marty Boland '77; Ray Oman '64 and his wife, Kaye; Susan Hartman Tock '64 and her husband, John; Jane Hartman '68; Jack L. Mertz '42 and his sister, Eleanor M. Seward; and Sara (Sally) Thomas Urisko '67.

Representing BSC were C. Stuart and Eda Bessie Beilhart Edwards '41 and Doug Hippensiel '68, director of alumni affairs.

Orlando

For the first time, a group of alumni met at Lord Chumley's Pub in Orlando on Wednesday evening, March 18.

Twenty-three alumni and guests included Martha (Betsy) Skerda Carpenter '70 and her husband, Bill; Albina M. Zadra Davis '31 and her husband, Harry; Larry Evangelista '34 and his wife, June; Jean Phillips Plowright '34 & '36; Donald R. Kleckner '64 and his wife, Kay; Anne E. Wagner '25; Alberta Naunas Gillespie '47 and guest, Karen Gillespie; Marion Forlano, guest; Estelle Friday Griffith '48 and her husband, Harold; Rev. LaRue Bender '45 and his wife Helen; John H. Yeager '36 and Alice Euphemia Gilmore Yeager '35; Phil and Mary Ann Poulos Levine '72; and Muriel Wagner Brush '51.

who assisted in making the arrangements for the dinner; and Doug Hippensiel, director of alumni affairs.

Boca Raton

The second annual get-together of alumni in the Boca Raton area of Florida met for lunch on Thursday, March 19, at the Boca del Mar Golf Club. F. A. (Red) Garrity '28 & '36, a member of the club, made all the arrangements for the luncheon.

In attendance, in addition to Red and Betty Garrity, were A. Jan Fawcett Campbell '37; Eleanor Morris Williams '35 & '59 and her husband, Thomas; Gladys Richards Kleckner '25; Martha Stitzel Schappell '46; M. Charlene Margie Dean '42; Charlotte K. Rissier '26; Marilyn Sailer Jackson '45; Isabel Chelosky Hester '29 and her husband, William; Dorothy Chelosky Janowski '35 & '42; Donald A. Watts '37 and his wife, Gladys; and Doug Hippensiel '68, director of alumni affairs.

St. Petersburg

The final stop on the swing through Florida was at the Bradford Coach House in St. Petersburg, where alumni from that area met for their second annual get-together.

Arrangements were in charge of James J. Dorner '48, chairman, and Sarah (Sally) Lentz Vance '34, secretary. An open house was held at the home of Marion Wallace States '43, who has been very instrumental in locating alumni on the Gulf Coast. She was a "committee of one" in arranging the first get-together in 1980.

Attending the luncheon meeting in St. Pete were Paul and Myrtle Dent Trembley '15 and '20, who were presented with flowers as the oldest alumni present; Mable Gordon Goodyear '36 and her husband, Fred; James J. Dorner '48 and his wife, Doris; Sarah Lentz Vance '34; Alberta Williams Green '29 and her husband, Howard; Sarah (Sally) Welliver Edwards '30 and her husband, W. Garrett; Dr. and Mrs. Clarence Hunsicker '32; Jerry McBride '67 and Charlotte Tourney McBride '69; Marion Wallace States '43 and her husband, Alfred; Marjorie Klein Perroti '28 and her husband, Ted; Bill and Betty (Row) Reed '35; Dick Wilhour (M. Ed. '68) and his wife, Jane. Doug Hippensiel '68, director of alumni affairs, represented the college.

Philadelphia

Charlotte (Fetter) Coulston '23 has forwarded a schedule of 1981 Philadelphia Area Alumni meetings which is as follows:

April 4, 12:30: Wanamaker's Crystal Restaurant, 9th floor. At this meeting one of our members, Dorothy Schmidt, whose teaching career for many years was in Japanese schools and universities before she was evicted two months before Pearl Harbor, will give a talk on her war experiences.

June 13, 12:30: Spring City. Luncheon arrangements will be made by Charlotte Coulston.

July 11, 12:30: Summer home of Mr. & Mrs. Orval Palsgrove at Hack's Point, Md.

September 13, 12:30: Wanamaker's Crystal Restaurant.

December 12, 12:30: Wanamaker's Crystal Restaurant.

For luncheon reservations at Wanamaker's, contact Mrs. Sadie Mayernick '27, 824 Guenther Ave., Yeadon, Pa. 19050, telephone 1-MA-2-2732, three days in advance.

Secretary and treasurer is Mrs. Esther Dagnell Via '34, R.D. 1, Box 138, Hummelstown, Pa. 17036.

For the meetings in June and July, contact will be made with members.

Mrs. Coulston's address is 623 Arch Street, Spring City, Pa. 19475.

Pennsylvania Dutch

The fourth annual dinner meeting of the Pennsylvania Dutch Chapter of BSC Alumni will be held on Thursday, April 23, at the Sheraton Inn in Reading. Alumni from Berks—as well as adjoining sections of Lebanon, Lehigh, Lancaster and Montgomery counties—are cordially invited to attend this get-together.

If you have not received an invitation to this affair already, please contact the Alumni Office or Francis (Doc) Sell '35 in Boyertown (215) 367-2649 for details.

Baltimore Area

Alumni living in northern Maryland and the Baltimore area have been invited to attend a dinner meeting on Thursday, April 9, at Peerce's Plantation near Towson. A report on this meeting will appear in the next Quarterly.

Montgomery-Bucks

Over 1,800 alumni living in Montgomery and Bucks counties have been invited to an informal get-together, on Thursday, April 30, at the Warrington Motor Lodge between Doylestown and Warminster. If you didn't receive an invitation, contact the Alumni Office.

Fall Meeting

The second annual meeting of chapters in Lehigh-Northampton, Harrisburg, and Bradford County will be planned for the fall.

Other meetings will be scheduled in the Lancaster-York, Lycoming, Wyoming Valley, Hazleton and Scranton areas.

If you would like to have an alumni get-together in your area, contact the Alumni Office, and we will do our best to arrange one.

College trustees take action on numerous personnel matters

Board members noted tenure had been granted to Marjorie Clay, Janet Hutchinson, Charles Laudermilch, Michael Lynn, James Mullen, and Julia Weitz.

The six were among seven who came up for tenure during January, BSC president James McCormick reported. The college is considering the time needed to gain tenure, he added; a retrenchment clause allows the college to get rid of tenured people should it become necessary.

William Carlough, philosophy and anthropology department chairman, will work with state college students in the Salzburg program of the Pennsylvania Consortium for International Education during his leave of absence this semester.

Raymond Babineau, secondary education professor, will delay his leave of absence to act as facilities consultant for the new Human Services Center to be built at BSC.

Trustees accepted the resignations of Lydia Eato, psychological counselor, effective May 1; Corrine Muldoon, assistant professor of sociology and social welfare, end of 1980-81 first semester; and Charles D. Thomas, director of the Center for Counseling and Human Development, effective June 30.

Faculty appointments made by the board: Virginia C. Demand, assistant professor of business education, beginning January 1981; Elizabeth Gensemer, temporary business education instructor, Jan. 10; Kathleen Mulligan, temporary assistant professor of special education, Jan. 10; Mary Elizabeth Rarig, temporary assistant nursing professor, January 1981; D. Bruce Sneedman, temporary business education instructor, Jan. 10.

Part-time faculty appointments for this semester: Mary Christine Alichnie, assistant nursing professor; Donna J. Cochrane, assistant business education professor; A. William Kelly, temporary speech instructor; Norman Namey, reading instructor; Lynn Shoop, business education instructor, and Marlene Vallin, speech instructor.

Appointments for the coming year: Alichnie; Catherine Constable, communication disorders instructor; Richard Daymont, temporary assistant health and physical education professor, and Ann Lee, assistant special education professor.

Non-instructional employee retirements approved: James Bodine, Ronald Dietterick, Ralph Durso, Mary Haggerty, Ruth Karns, James Rishel, and Elizabeth Yohey.

Non-instructional appointments: James Beagle, painter; Donald Cole, custodian; Jacqueline Derr, clerk; Donna Farver, clerk; William Fisher, auto mechanic; Rosemary Gerber, clerk; Julie Green, clerk; Beckey Greenly, custodian, and Mary Hoover, clerk.

David J. Minderhout was approved as acting chairman of the philosophy and anthropology department in Carlough's absence; Bernard Vinovrski was approved as acting admissions director, and Joseph DeMelfi was approved as admissions counselor.

'Tony, the Baker'

By WAYNE LAEPPLE '69

Tony the Baker, a well-known personality to over 20 years of BSC alumni, was awarded a lifetime Community Activities Pass at the December 8, 1980 meeting of the Community Government Association. Tony, whose real name is Dominic Anthony Cusatis, received the award in recognition of his service to the college and his unfailing good humor and friendship to thousands of BSC students.

He chatted recently about himself, beginning with the events which brought him to the BSC dining hall in 1960. Recently laid off from Woolworth's in Hazleton, he was serving as cooking advisor to a Boy Scout troop attending the National Jamboree in Colorado. The food service at the event was catered by ARA, and he met one of the firm's executive chefs. ARA also held the contract for BSC's food service at the time, and the rest is history.

"We used to have family-style meals then," he recalled. "I used to go out and help the kids carve their turkeys and stuff. It was a lot of fun."

"When I came here," he went on, "I always used my first name, Dominic. But there was another guy with the same name. So I told them, call me Tony. And I added the Baker because that's what I am."

During the '60s, the Homecoming Parade would form in the Centennial Gym parking area and go down Second Street to the football field downtown, and naturally Tony got in the act. "I would hop on a float in front of the Commons and ride down to the front of Carver Hall. Then I'd walk back up, and one of my buddies would holler out and I'd ride down to Carver again!"

"The ARA manager decided we should have our own float, so I would ride on the float with the Jello Queen and pass out donuts. The year I was grand marshal of the Homecoming Parade (1978) was the first year I didn't hand out donuts," he chuckled. "And people kept hollering for them!"

Tony is rightly proud of his laurels from the student body. He is the only non-instructional employee to receive both a lifetime Community Activities pass and the BSC Certificate of Achievement. "It is quite an honor, you know," he says modestly.

"I think my biggest thrill is when the little folks (visitors from area day-care and pre-school centers) tour the place. They ask so many questions, I let 'em stick their fingers in some batter, and they love to watch me making donuts. 'Why are they round? How come they come out puffy?' they want to know. I just love 'em."

For several years in the '60s, Tony revealed, his alter ego was the Husky Pup, a fixture at BSC athletic events. "I went to every game for three years, then somebody stole the outfit."

Before I-80 was finished, Tony often stayed overnight during the winter when the highway to his home in Hazleton was snow-covered. "For a while I stayed in North Hall and shared a room with an RA," he said. "Then I lived for a while in the RA's apartment in West Hall (Schuykill)—but she wasn't living there," he hastened to add. He discounted reports that no one wanted for midnight snacks when he lived in the dorm.

"I always tried to treat the students right" is Tony's creed. "I always wanted to keep the students happy, you know?"

Tony's valedictory is perhaps best expressed by President McCormick, who stated firmly, tongue only slightly in cheek: "Students and presidents may come and go, but Tony the Baker remains forever."

Alumnus describes teaching, living in Colombia

Gary Havens '77 is teaching at the Colegio Bolívar, Cali, Colombia, South America. In a letter to the alumni office, Havens retells some of his experiences as a newcomer and teacher in the Colombian society.

Before relating my personal experiences, I feel it would interest some readers to know how to apply for foreign teaching positions. There are American schools in almost every country that has embassy and consul offices. All the South American countries have American schools. Most of these schools were set up during the American business expansion of the 1950s. However, most of the students now are nationals. Our school enrollment is 10 percent American, 80 percent Colombian and 10 percent other nationalities.

Most of the South American schools obtain information and credentials on prospective employees from Edinboro State College International Placement Service. Application to Edinboro is now $5.00. This covers the cost of mailing and admission to the fair, usually held in early March, at which most of the South American directors attend. The fair allows one an opportunity to be interviewed by as many directors as possible, from not only South America but Asia, Europe and Africa as well. The fair also gives the directors a chance to show slide-tapes of their schools.

Application may also be made directly to the schools. Because the pay scale appears to be low compared to United States scales, schools here are constantly searching for teachers. Some schools even accept teachers without an interview. We have just hired a math teacher after one month of hard searching after the school year began. (Math and all fields of science teachers are particularly scarce.)

Educating for college

Colegio Bolívar was founded by American businessmen and Colombian citizens who wanted their children to attend a university in the United States. Since the late 1960s, the time of Colombian nationalization of industry, the schools have slowly leaned more toward the Colombian nationals rather than an international school. In Cali there are three bilingual English-Spanish schools, but only Bolívar is certified by the American Southern Association of Schools.

Approximately 60 percent of our teaching staff is from the United States and other countries and 40 percent from Colombia. Instruction is in English from kindergarten to grade 12 except Colombian history, philosophy, religion and Espanol. Seventy-five percent of last year's graduates from our school have gone to the United States to college, 20 percent to European schools and five percent remained in Colombia to study.

The school has high school curriculum as well as Colombian baccalaureate curriculum. The school is highly academic oriented and the average grade is 75 percent. Only the very best students obtain grades of 90 percent or better. The student body is composed of children of wealthy Colombian families and American citizens who are able to pass the entrance exam and continue to progress with passing grades throughout their school career. By the time a class has passed through grades one-12, class size may drop from 65 in first grade to 30 in 12. It may be obvious that the school is attended by better than average students.

Getting there

I was hired by Bolívar through the Edinboro fair and left the United States in August of 1979. I was hired to teach eighth and ninth grade earth and physical sciences.

After an orientation program in Miami and a few days wait for my visa, I arrived to find Cali a relatively modern city. It has a population of around 1,000,000. The school provided host families for the first two weeks. I soon moved into a rented apartment in which a secretary, architect, the landlady and the maid also lived. I was given a "settling-in" loan by the school and bought a bed, chair, night stand and bureau.

I ate supper with the family and bought lunch at school. Breakfast at the apartment consisted of eggs, a roll and some type of natural juice. Fruits are varied and one can obtain anything from bananas, oranges and tangerines to tropical fruits such as maracuya, mora (something like a raspberry), pineapple, apricot, nectarine, apple, grapes, carrot (not a fruit but still makes a good juice) and scores of others which I can recognize but can't always remember the names.

I lived with the group until December (1979) when I found a single apartment on the fourth floor in a nearby barrio (neighborhood). Since theft is a big problem here, security in a building or home is an important item to look for. My apartment is on the uppermost floor, a watchman lives on the bottom floor and bars on all doors and windows prevent entry. When leaving home for any period of time at all, one must always lock all doors, closets and windows. All valuable objects must be put out of eyesight. Burglars have been known to enter homes while a family is sleeping and rob the house. One teacher here even had a dog, and the burglars managed to steal the complete first floor furniture as well as making off with the TV, radio and electrical kitchen appliances without the family waking up.

Hot water and food

Apartments here are not furnished. Stoves, refrigerators, freezers, stereos, etc. are very expensive. I managed to find my kitchen appliances at reasonable prices though they were still much more expensive than any in the United States. I also had to buy a hot water heater, since they also are not provided. Since the water here is not as cold as in the States, it is not imperative to have one, but it is certainly more comfortable.

Food here is generally cheaper than in the U.S. Beef is much tougher due to the type of feed used and the breed of cattle. Pork is almost non-available because of the climate and parasitic dangers. Chicken is cheap but is not cleaned before sale. The packaged chicken comes complete with feet, head, and inner organs. Quite a shock the first time you buy it!

Vegetables are mainly beans. Rice and potatoes are staples of every meal. Celery, lettuce, cabbage and other green leafy vegetables are also available but not very good. Carrots, beets, turnips and other underground vegetables are cheap and good. Fruits, as mentioned before, provide most of the vitamins needed in the daily diet.

I tend to cook my own meals now but stay with the familiar cuts of meats and vegetables. I make U.S.-type meals. Common junk food is unavailable. Mac-Donald's, Burger King, Fish-n-Chips and other fast food restaurants are not serving Colombia. In Bogota there is a Burger King and a Mr. Burger but none of the major fish or pizza shops. Pizza comes in a variety of tastes ranging from paper to a reasonable imitation of American pizza.

Movies and acting

Entertainment is cheap. Movies cost 75 cents and are recent releases. There are several cinemas in Cali and I attend a movie about once a week. Opera, theatre and dance are available on a limited schedule throughout the year. Last year I attended the Cali presentation of the Bogota Opera Company's performance of "Carmen." This year Cali has hired various artists through a pro-arts council and has greatly boosted the opera season with highly trained singers and musicians as well as bringing the San Francisco Ballet Company and other touring groups from the U.S. and Europe.

Last year I acted with an English speaking community group in a production of "Man of La Mancha." Colegio Bolívar presented a play in the fall and the musical "The King and I" in the spring. The British school presented "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat" and the British community players presented "No Sex, Please, We're British." There is a Spanish speaking community group which presents political dramas. I have not attended any of their productions since my proficiency in Spanish is not high enough to understand the dialogue.

Sightseeing

Last year I travelled to the old capital city of Popayán. There I saw the museum-home of a past president of Colombia, visited several of the older churches, and wandered about the city admiring the architecture and ancient building styles. Other nearby trips have included Sylvia, a small town populated by the peaceful Indians and source of beautiful wall hangings and woven wool objects; Buenaventura, the largest seaport of Colombia; Palmira, a small industrial town; and Buga, a small town of no noteworthy importance.

During this summer (1980), I went to Caracas, Venezuela, to visit some Latino friends that I met while attending summer courses at Penn State and to see the city. During my stay in Venezuela, I also went to the Caribbean island of Margarita for four days. Venezuela is a more prosperous country than Colombia, thanks to the oil sales, and the differences are very obvious. In Colombia, grocery shopping is done at large open air markets or at the very few supermarkets. In Cali, I can think of five supermarkets available to the public. Compare this to the five or six in a small town the size of Bloomsburg and you can appreciate the more primitive life here.

There are at present no large malls in Cali. Bogota has two mall areas, and two replicas are under construction in Cali. However, in Caracas, I found several huge malls, modern markets and modern highways. Transportation in Caracas is mostly by private cars and vehicles which aid in the tremendous congestion of city traffic. In Colombia, most transportation is through public buses, taxis and busetas (luxury buses), since they are very cheap and more or less reliable. Airfare within the country is about the same as in the States.

During the summer I travelled to Bogota for a week after returning from Caracas. In Bogota, I visited the Gold Museum, the National Museum, archeological

How to teach overseas

We received a second letter from Gary on March 6, containing some additional information he would like to share with fellow alumni. Excerpts of the letter follow:

I attended a conference of the Association for the Advancement of International Education in Atlanta during early February. I obtained additional information concerning employment for teachers abroad.

For interested teachers who want to pursue overseas employment, there are several agencies and offices which can help you with placement. Demand for teachers overseas is currently very high, especially in the areas of mathematics and sciences. Virtually no jobs are available for industrial arts and home economics teachers, and social sciences teachers may find some difficulty in locating jobs.

Two placement services for overseas positions are International School Services, and Overseas School Services. ISS requires a $25 initial fee to handle postage, copying services, and interview costs. OSS requires a yearly fee to cover the same type of costs. If placed in an ISS school or position, a placement fee is added. This fee is paid from your salary but salaries are high enough that this fee is insignificant. OSS does not have a placement fee. The addresses for these services are: International School Services

Princeton, New Jersey 08540
(609)-021-9110
Overseas School Services
446 Louise Street
Farmville, Virginia 23901
(804)-392-6445

The Office of Overseas Schools provides information on all overseas schools which are subsidized by the U.S. government. They also help with placement though that is not their main concern. Information may be obtained by writing to Office of Overseas Schools; Room 234, SA-6; U.S. Department of State; Washington, D.C. 20520. OSS also provides a booklet of addresses of all U.S. supported schools abroad.

If you are interested in specifically European jobs, the European Council of International Schools also provides a booklet listing all members of ECIS. They also have a placement service and offer job listings but this is not their prime interest area either.

Specific questions can be asked, and will be answered, if possible, if a teacher wants to write to me directly. My address until June 1, 1981 will be: c/o Colegio Bolívar, A.A. 4875, Cali, Colombia. After June 1, I may be reached at: P.O. Box 285, Athens, Ga. 30601.

Now is the time to begin looking for overseas jobs. Interviewing is usually done in late February until mid-March. It may not be too late at the time of printing to secure a position for September 1981 if letters are written directly to either the schools, or one of the placement services.

Incidentally, as of August 1, 1981, I will be married to another BSC graduate. Her name is Marjorie Ebbesen and she graduated in December, 1978. She is presently completing her master's degree in linguistics at Georgetown University. Following our wedding, we will be leaving for Yokohama, Japan, where I have accepted a position with St. Joseph College. The college is actually a small private boys' school and I will be teaching 4-6 elementary sciences, 7-8 general science, and 10th grade biology. We will be looking for employment for her once we arrive.

Meet the radio voice of the Huskies

Most of us at least once in our lives complain that there isn't enough time in a day to do all the things we want to do. We fume and fuss and gripe and wonder why the days aren't longer.

In most cases, our complaints aren't justified, because if we examine any day that transpires, we quickly realize just how much time we waste doing meaningless, worthless, trivial nonsense.

In Jim Doyle's case ('71, '77), he could legitimately complain that there isn't enough time in a day, but instead of griping, he makes use of the time he has.

Doyle by day is an English teacher at Southern Columbia Area High School, and by morning and night, he is the sports director for WHLM, Bloomsburg.

His day usually begins at five o'clock every morning. He walks or drives to WHLM from his home on E. 13th Street, and arrives at the station at 5:54. Doyle does a live three-and-a-half minute sports show at 6:30 a.m., tapes three-and-a-half minute sports shows for 7:30 and 8:30, and goes to his other job in a car pool.

From eight o'clock to two-thirty, he puts in seven-and-a-half-hours as an English teacher. As soon as school is over, he returns to the radio station and does live three-and-a-half minute sports shows at 4:30 and 5:30. If he must broadcast a local high school or BSC game that night, he tapes the 6:30 sports show. When he's not announcing a game, he does the 6:30 show live.

The remainder of the night he either goes home—which is not normally the case—or he announces a game.

"The secret is in budgeting time," says Doyle, who with his light-brown sweater-vest, tinted glasses, full blondish-brown mustache that hangs over his upper lip, dark blond hair and low-key, and laid back manner resembles Dr. Johnny Fever of the television show "WKRP in Cincinnati." "Every moment must be accounted for."

"Last year, I even got to the point where I didn't think I was reading enough about sports. So I propped up "Sports Illustrated" on the kitchen table when I came home at night to a story I thought I should read. Then, the next morning, the story would be ready, and I'd read a couple paragraphs with my English muffin. I stopped doing that when I thought it seemed it was becoming too much like an obsession, though," laughs Doyle.

"I also have a planning period at school, and then I decide what needs to be done. If grades are due, I plan for them to be done. I grade compositions for my English classes over the weekend—there would be no other way to do justice to the comps. Objective tests I can correct quickly," says Doyle.

"But the important part is that I try not to mix my jobs. If I take station papers to school, or comps to the station, I'm losing out, and those in concern are losing out," stresses Doyle.

"Also, because I leave for the station early in the morning, and get there early, I use that time to get things done. It's amazing how much time there is once you learn how to budget it," says Doyle while he leafs through the A.P. wiresheets, preparing his 4:30, 5:30 and 6:30 three-and-a-half-minute sports shows.

If Doyle is announcing a game, he has dinner at one of the local sub shops. "I've got eating down to a science. I can devour a whole hoagie and large soda in a maximum of five minutes. I don't know what it does for my health," laughs Doyle, "But you only have so much time, and you must eat." That is usually Doyle's dinner four or five nights a week.

Winter is the toughest time of the year for Doyle, because he normally covers three or four games a week as an announcer. Sometimes, when he must travel to an away game, he doesn't get home until the early morning hours.

"We did a BSC basketball game from Mount Saint Mary's (February 18) in Maryland, and we didn't get back until the a.m.," laughs Doyle, shaking his head. "I only had two hours sleep. But not all trips are that bad. Thank Goodness," he sighs.

"You really have to like it. Because there's no other way you can do what I do without liking it. If you look at it as a job, you're in trouble. I look at it as if I am going to a game and just happen to be announcing it, enjoying it, and getting paid for it at the same time. "I don't have to be a broadcaster. I'm single, I can easily live on what I make as a teacher, and I don't have to do it. I do it because I like it—that's the only reason," Doyle says.

The fall is also busy for Doyle, but the broadcasts, except for the six weekday sports shows, are during the weekend. Doyle does his daily broadcasts, then a high school football game on Friday and Saturday, plus a Sunday morning 15-minute sports wrap-up show which includes interviews.

lege basketball. "I live for those couple of hours when I'm doing live broadcasts. Sports on the radio gives me a chance to be a little creative, because I must set everything up for the audience. They can't see what's going on, so I must picture everything for the listeners. I like that creative aspect of broadcasting.

Does Doyle's radio job influence his students? "I think it might help students, because they find it fascinating. But on the other hand, it gets a little tiresome when I make a mistake on the air and hear about it a hundred times.

"That too is a two-way street. At least I know people are listening to my broadcasts, but like everyone else, there are times—like when I only get two hours sleep," adds Doyle, laughing, "when you just don't want to hear your mistake compounded so many times. But you must take the good with the bad."

From Doyle's low-key, laid-back manner, it's hard to picture him as the energetic, enthusiastic voice familiar to any radio sports fan. "I think people are sometimes surprised when they meet me for the first time. They can't see me doing the broadcast casually. But when the mike comes on, a transformation takes place."

On the radio, Doyle exudes an enthusiastic, interesting play-by-play. "The ideal game is to do it before a big crowd. Games like that you just keep control of yourself. If I start shouting—which I try not to do—the radio audience can't understand what's going on. So when the crowd is vocal, I try to consciously tone it down a little bit, but still keep the prospective. There is a line between being enthusiastic and just yelling!"

The hardest games to broadcast, Doyle says, are the dull, runaway games with a small crowd. "I consciously try to pick them up—not to look at it through rose-colored glasses and say it's a great game when it's not—but to be at least enthusiastic. At the very minimum, I think a sports broadcaster must be enthusiastic. And if you like the sport enough, there's no such thing as a dull game. All I want is a competitive game."

Doyle finds wrestling a harder sport for him to broadcast than basketball. "I don't know a great deal about the technical aspects of wrestling. So we have two people do the play-by-play: Ron Knoebel, who was a college division national champion at Lycoming College, and Jeff Prosseda, who wrestled at BSC and was a former wrestling coach at Bloomsburg High School. I do the color."

With his six weekday sports shows, Doyle relies on the Associated Press wire service printer for national sports news. The local items he handles himself.

"For the morning shows, I think the most important information is the previous night's scores. With three, three-and-a-half-minute morning shows, I can get all the major college and professional scores in, plus some local item," says Doyle.

"In all the shows, I always try to get a couple interviews. That way, it's informative, and the listener hears somebody else's voice."

Doyle also credits his background in English for helping him as an announcer. "Being involved with English has been a benefit. I can save precious time in writing up the local items."

Before Doyle came to WHLM in 1970, he worked as a part-time D.J. for WBRX radio, Berwick, while he was in high school. "I wanted to be a part-time sports announcer then, but I realized that I couldn't make any money at it, so I spun records. Because of my time there, I have my license, but you don't need a license to do what I do now."

While at WBRX, Doyle did the early morning show. "The whole time I did that show, I had a feeling that nobody was listening. When you think about it, you start thinking that you're talking to yourself."

Even with his previous experience as an announcer at WBRX, Doyle was nervous when he first came to WHLM in 1970. "I think even now, that a little bit of nervousness is good, because it means that you still care about what you're doing."

Doyle credits Tom Austin for his help when Doyle first worked at WHLM. "I owe everything to Tom. He gave me an occasional game to do, and from that, I caught on." When Austin resigned as sports director in 1977, Doyle assumed the position.

Doyle graduated from Berwick High School in 1968. Since 1972, the same year that he received his B.S. in education with a concentration in English, he has worked as both a teacher and an announcer. Immediately before he became sports director and adopted his present hectic schedule, he received his M.Ed. in the summer of 1977.

Away from school and the station, Doyle listens to other sports announcers. "There are so many tremendous announcers. I listen to them, and borrow a little bit here and there. I'm not blatant about it, because I think you must always be yourself. You must have your own style, which I think I do. What I usually borrow from other sports announcers is terminology. I especially like Joe Tate who does the Cleveland Cavalier basketball games."

Doyle finds no major problem doing basketball, because of the almost continuous play. Baseball, however, can be a problem, because of need for vast information. "You must fill in the gaps when action isn't going on."

At basketball games, WHLM keeps their own statistics. Tom Lynn does the statistics, and also serves as the color man. "What Tom does is difficult. I couldn't do it, and I don't think too many people can do as well as Tom," says Doyle.

All the commercials during a basketball game are taped and aired from the station. They are timed to be 30 seconds long. "At the games, I keep a stopwatch with me while I broadcast and time the commercials. Doing the commercials from the station gives me time to think, and also to talk with Tom."

There is an old broadcasting maxim which says that broadcasters should be objective. "I feel with high school games we go right down the line; I don't think there's any partiality at all. College games are a different story. Obviously, if you're listening to a college game you know that we're the announcers for BSC. But there's a line between blatantly rooting for them."

Doyle criticizes announcers who blatantly root for the teams they cover regularly.

He cites Bob Prince, who was the team announcer for the Pittsburgh Pirates, and Phil Russutto of the New York Yankees as blatant "homers." "I think you can represent one side without being a homer. When you start being a homer, I think it's bad."

"We also are very reluctant to criticize officials. If you get wrapped up in the officiating, you get away from the game. I see fans who do that. They get so mad at the officials that they forget the game's going on."

"But if the officiating is extremely bad, I feel I must say something about it to the listeners. You must say what you see. The audience wants and needs to know what's going on," says Doyle.

Doyle said the same principle is true when a fight breaks out at a game. He recalled a game he did a couple years ago between Danville and Northwest. "A fight broke out and took about 15 minutes away from that game. You must say what you see, but avoid dwelling on the issue."

"The only time where we saw something obvious and toned it down—with good reason—was when we did a football game a couple years ago. A man a couple rows down from us was having a heart attack, and he happened to be the father of one of the players on the field. We knew the man, and we could see that it was serious, and yet, we're not doctors. To say on the air that someone in the stands is having a heart attack would create general panic. Anyone who's listening and has someone at the game will think the worst."

"So we said there was a medical problem in the stands, and there would be a delay. That's all you can do. That's a situation where you see something and you must be diplomatic because of the seriousness of the situation," says Doyle.

Like most experienced announcers, Doyle has had his embarrassing moments while on the air. He recalled a golf tournament WHLM once broadcast. They were stationed on the last green and had been told that the top golfers would be coming to the green by two o'clock. Unfortunately, the top golfers didn't come in until five o'clock, and WHLM had gone on the air at two.

"I'm not a golf expert by any means—I don't even play. So there we were filling three hours of time. We broke for commercials every five or six minutes and did interviews with people standing on the green. That was the last time we ever put a golf tournament on the air," says Doyle.

Another embarrassing moment happened to Doyle during a broadcast of a Southern Columbia football game three years ago. "Late in the first quarter a fog rolled in. We couldn't see the field at all. All we could see were vague shadows on the field. We knew where the ball was by the group."

"All the time we sat there, we had a feeling that somebody would score and we wouldn't see it. And that's exactly what happened. Central Columbia scored, and the only way we knew was by the cheering across the way, and when we saw the team come back for the kick-off," remembers Doyle.

Doyle also did a football game from Mansfield and was kicked out of the press box by the information director because the radio station contacted the athletic director and didn't contact the information director. "There was some type of power struggle going on between the two men. After we were kicked out of the booth, we sat in the stands. No sooner did we get on the air then it started to pour, and I mean pouring rain. We had a garbage bag with us which we huddled under to announce the game. Midway through the first half, we had no commercials to read because the water had run the ink off the cards. We sat there in the cold rain and somehow managed to announce the game."

Another time, at Millville, WHLM forgot the transmitting line. Doyle ended up announcing the game from a phone at the end of the gym. "People who were working in front of me must have thought I had lost my mind," recalls Doyle, laughing.

"But instances like that are part of the job. At the time they are trying, but you end up laughing about it later on."

But even though Doyle is better at using time than most of us, there are still a few things which he cannot accomplish in twenty-four hours. "As far as my social life goes, well, that's got to be the games, at least during the season."

How long can Doyle continue this pace? "I'm planning to do it for a few more years. And though I enjoy doing both jobs, I would eventually like to branch out and do more announcing."

The Special Education Department cordially invites all Faculty, Friends and Farmer Students of DR. EMILY REUWSAAT to a reception in honor of her retirement on May 3, 1981, from 1 to 4 p.m. in the Presidents' Lounge, Kehr College Union. Light refreshments will be served. Please join us for this important occasion.

Writing festival held

Writers and teachers of writers from central and northeastern Pennsylvania met at BSC on March 21 for "The Written Word: A Festival 2." The day-long conference was sponsored by the college's English department and Arts Council.

Highlighting the program was an afternoon presentation by J. Saunders Redding, an author, critic and scholar, known for his writing on the American Black experience. Dr. Redding, a professor emeritus at Cornell University, is also a consultant for the National Endowment for the Humanities, a member of the Board of Fellows of Brown University, and a director of the American Council of Learned Societies. His appearance was co-sponsored by the BSC Human Relations Planning Committee.

The Bloomsburg Theatre Ensemble, a professional group, presented "Shakespeare's Clowns," a program of excerpts from both tragedies and comedies directed by Martin Shell and featuring Ron Ensel and Rand Whipple. This production is currently touring schools in the region.

Writers from several colleges led morning workshops. Robert Taylor, an editor of "West Branch" and a member of the English department at Bucknell University, discussed fiction writing. Also discussing fiction was Don Skiles, an essayist, poet and fiction writer currently affiliated with Williamsport Area Community College.

Leaders of poetry workshops included Gary Fincke, director of the writing center at Susquehanna University, and Richard O'Keefe and Harold Ackerman, both of the BSC English department. All three have published widely.

Advisors of secondary school magazines had several workshops from which to choose. Sandra Smith, an educational consultant and former English teacher, led a workshop on "Distinguishing Between Self-Expression and Art."

William Gallagher, advisor of the award-winning literary magazine at Shikellamy High School, Sunbury, shared his experiences in "Organizing the High School Literary Magazine."

Teachers of creative writing worked with William Eisenberg of the BSC English department who regularly teaches courses in this subject and is himself a poet.

Stuart Nagel of the BSC Art department and Walter Brasch of the English department addressed practical matters of publishing. Nagel, who recently devoted a sabbatical leave to the art of bookbinding, led a session on "Graphics and Literary Publications." Brasch, a widely published free-lance writer and former newspaper, magazine and book editor, shared his knowledge in the "Nuts and Bolts of Free-Lance Writing."

Margaret R. Lauer and Lawrence B. Fuller of the BSC English department coordinated the festival.

'Ahoy, mateys'

Sailing a Brigantine ship on Lake Ontario and canoeing on streams and rivers in Northeastern Pennsylvania are two outdoor experiences being offered this May by the Quest program of BSC for students and non-students. Credit can be earned for both experiences, but students and non-students may also register for the courses without credit.

Site of new building behind Bakeless Center

Planning for building in high gear

After years of working and waiting for the General Assembly to pass a capital appropriations budget, the college community was gratified by the passage of a bill in November which provides over $10 million for BSC projects.

The largest project, construction of a human services center, will cost over $6.4 million and will provide a home for the college's department of nursing. Funding is also provided for renovation of Sutliff Hall and Hartline Science Center.

Work on fine-tuning the occupancy and renovation plan for the three facilities virtually began with passage of the capital budget. Coordinating the project are Dr. Frank S. Davis, Jr., assistant vice president for administration; Kenneth D. Schnure, chairman of the space and facilities committee; and Dr. Raymond E. Babineau, a member of the faculty with expertise as a facilities consultant.

The new facility will be built in an area between the Bakeless Center for the Humanities and the Waller Administration Building. It is expected to provide space and facilities for a technology-media complex to serve the entire campus; and the departments of psychology, sociology, elementary education, secondary education, educational studies and services, as well as general purpose teaching areas.

The building is expected to have a total of about 73,000 square feet, somewhat larger than Bakeless but smaller than Hartline.

The renovation of Hartline Science Center will result in all dedicated space being assigned to the departments of biological and allied health sciences, chemistry, geography and earth science, mathematics and physics. General purpose classrooms and auditoriums will continue to be assigned with priority given to classes in the natural sciences and mathematics. In general, the project will result in renovated facilities to provide for biology laboratories and a greenhouse, chemistry laboratories, geography and earth science laboratories, improved faculty offices and improved safety in chemical storage areas.

The renovation of Sutliff Hall will result in all dedicated space being assigned to the School of Business and apportioned between the department of business administration and business education. The renovations are expected to provide two typewriting laboratories, a simulated office laboratory, a word processing/business machines laboratory, a retrographics laboratory (for duplicating, collating and copying), six to eight general purpose classrooms, a seminar room, a graduate assistants' area, and administrative and faculty offices.

The capital budget also provides $1.05 million for electrical renovations, $707,000 to rehabilitate the underground steam condensate distribution system on the lower campus, and $1.012 million for fire protection renovations.

Marathon benefits charity

The Seventh Annual 50-Hour Dance Marathon was held in Centennial Gym from January 30 to February 1. Over $9,000 was raised for Multiple Sclerosis, this year's charity.

Of the 157 people who began the marathon in pairs, 57 people finished. This is the largest number of people ever to finish since the marathon started in 1975.

Music was supplied by local bands and WBSC. The bands were the Kicks, who played at the beginning and end of the marathon, Harbor, Risk and Last Chance.

Special themes during the marathon included a Beatles' hour, pajama party hour, favorite hat and t-shirt hour, beach party hour, costume hour, oldies music hour, country and western music hour, toga party hour and New Year's party hour.

Costume contest winners were Georgia Will and Nancy Royer, who were dressed as dumbo, first place; Elaine Pelletier and Camille Strausser as Raggedy Ann and Andy, second place; and Mary William and Maureen McCanney as Pinocchio and Guipetto, Joanne Borski and Jon Shaffer as Donald and Daffy Duck, and Steven Lindemuth and Joanie Lander as Mickey and Minnie Mouse, tied for third.

Dance contest winners were Mary Williams and Maureen McCanney, the twist; Diane Langley and Michelle Bloszinsky, the rock; Kathy Hughes and Mari Conway, punk rock; Tom James and Linda Stuart, disco; and Cameron Smith and Karen Webb, the bunny hop.

Prize winners were as follows: $100 first place, Tom James and Linda Stuart; $40 second place, Lida Klingaman and Karen Keszkowski; $150 first prize and trophy for the 50-hour couple who turned in the most money, Tom James and Linda Stuart; $100 Bloomsburg State College Award for a 50-hour couple, Brian Karbin and Tammy Gibson; $75 first prize for a 50-hour individual, Cameron Smith; $100 first prize and trophy for a 12-hour couple, Lida Klingman and Karen Keszkowski; High School Trophy, Bloomsburg High School.

Boyd Buckingham to retire in December

The retirement of Boyd F. Buckingham '43, vice president for administration of BSC since 1974, was accepted by the College Board of Trustees at the quarterly meeting held on March 11.

On December 25, the effective date of his retirement, Buckingham will complete eight and one half years of service in teaching, public relations, development and fiscal administration and thirty-six and one half years in the field of education.

He joined the faculty in 1953 as an assistant professor of speech and was promoted to associate professor in 1954, a title he held until 1965. In 1955 he began his administrative experience as director of public relations, a position in which he served for ten years. He was a member of the Association of Pennsylvania State College and University Faculties from 1953-1979, served as president of the BSC Chapter, and for six years was its delegate to the state-wide executive committee.

In 1965, he was appointed director of development and public relations and in 1970 was named associate vice president for development and external relations.

He was named to his current position in September of 1974. During the previous nine-year period, he was involved in the greatest physical plant expansion in the history of the college when 19 new buildings or other projects were added at a cost of approximately $21 million.

In the past seven years, during stringent budget restraints, Bloomsburg has been cited for its efficient management of fiscal matters under his direction.

He also serves on several boards and committees at BSC, including the executive committee of Representative Assembly, the President's Council, the Planning Commission, the Legislative Liaison Committee and Budget Committee.

York native

Buckingham is a native of York, and a graduate of that city's schools.

After receiving his B.S. degree from BSC in 1943, Buckingham joined the Army Air Corps. He flew as a combat pilot in a B-17 aircraft in the European Theatre of Operations, was awarded the Air Medal with Oak Leaf Cluster, and was honorably discharged in October, 1945. He remained in the Air Force Reserve until 1955.

Buckingham received his Master of Science degree from Bucknell University in 1949. He taught in the Athens and Sayre public schools from 1945 to 1953. During this time, he also worked as a radio announcer and news editor at WATS in Sayre and as an announcer for WTVE-TV in Elmira, N.Y.

Buckingham is also active in church and community affairs. He serves as an elder, deacon and trustee of the First Presbyterian Church. A 33rd degree Mason, he is first lieutenant commander of Caldwell Consistory, Valley of Bloomsburg, and is a member of Chapter, Council, and Commandery in the York Rite.

He is a member of the advisory board of First Federal Savings and Loan Association. He served on the town planning commission and was chairman for several years. He was a member for 18 years of the board of directors of the Bloomsburg Area Chamber of Commerce and served as its president, is a member of the board of directors of the Bloomsburg Area Industrial Development Association, has served as either secretary or vice chairman of the Columbia County Housing Authority since its inception in 1970.

For more than a decade, Buckingham has been on the board of directors of the local chapter of the American Red Cross, having served a term as chairman, and is a past member and director of the Bloomsburg Junior Chamber of Commerce. He has also been a member of the Bloomsburg Elks for a number of years.

In 1973, the Alumni Association conferred its Distinguished Service Award on Buckingham.

In 1980 he was named Outstanding Citizen of the Year by the Bloomsburg Area Chamber of Commerce.

He is married to Joanne Fice Buckingham '43, a retired business teacher in the Bloomsburg Area School District. The Buckinghams have two children: Gail, a graduate of Susquehanna University, and Boyd Jr., a graduate of Davidson College and the University of Puget Sound Law School, Washington.

What's hiding behind that red door?

By BOB STILES
Publications Intern

One of the best kept secrets on campus can be found in the basement of Bakesless. There, below the clicking of heels of students walking to class, and in a corridor near the faculty lounge, the secret hides behind a red door, waiting to be discovered.

The secret is the college archive.

"I can't fault the college for our present location," said Roger W. Fromm, the part-time archivist who also works as a reference librarian. "With the high day-to-day pressures and costs, the college must choose its priorities."

He added that archives are often an after-thought. "BSC is like many other institutions which have just begun thinking about the history of the college."

Another potential problem is the presence of the main water pipe for Bakesless which runs across the ceiling of the archive. "Because of the water pipe, all items in the archives are raised at least eight inches from the floor. That way, if there's a water break, the articles might not be as badly damaged," Fromm said.

"With the construction of the new Human Services Building, I am hoping that other space will be freed as offices and classrooms normally held in present buildings are moved to the new building," said Fromm.

The archive is part of Andruss Library. "At many institutions, the archive is not a part of the library, but is attached to the Alumni Association or the resident dean's office. In other cases, the archive is a part of the library," noted Fromm.

Library personnel have compiled the history of the college in scrapbooks. These scrapbooks were first begun in 1910 and have been continued up to the present year, except for the time between mid-1919 and May, 1924. "I don't know why there's a gap," Fromm said. The scrapbooks contain articles which appeared in The Morning Press.

Before the archive was established during the mid-1970s, the scrapbooks were kept in the library vault. Now, library personnel assemble the scrapbooks and give them to the archive.

With the help of alumni association funding, the archive recently microfilmed scrapbooks dating from 1910 to 1919 and from 1924 to February, 1948. "The scrapbooks from that time were literally deteriorating. If we didn't microfilm them, they would have been unusable in a short time," Fromm said.

The scrapbooks contain a good compilation of the history of the college. "The older scrapbooks were constructed from a different viewpoint than they are presently. Then, the people who assembled them followed the activities of all graduates and the people who left school. Of course with the large number of graduates today, it would be extremely difficult to follow their activities after graduation," added Fromm.

One interesting period of time which can be studied by using the scrapbooks, is the World War II era. "BSC was a naval training center then. Just about everyone going here was a Navy person. At that time, war news dominated the clippings. College activities were placed in the background, and there was less reporting on what went on at BSC," Fromm said.

He added that it is sad to look at the scrapbooks compiled during World War II, and see people who did well in college later reported dead.

Contained in the archive are the flags from the naval units stationed here. "Navy Hall was called that because Navy personnel stayed there."

The scrapbooks have been extremely useful for those individuals who are interested in the college's history. Eda Bessie Edwards '41, who is writing the history of the college, used the scrapbooks extensively. She spent months in the archive, three or four days a week.

Another item of importance is Jerome T. Ailmann's diary. Ailmann attended BSC (then called the Bloomsburg Normal School) from 1869 to 1871. Fromm became aware of the diary when Ailmann's daughter, Mildred, visited BSC and mentioned to Fromm that her father kept a diary while he was a student.

The diary covers Ailmann's daily activities as a student. Ailmann was fond of walking, and as many of his entries reveal, he would take frequent walks over to Espy. On another occasion, he took a five-mile hike just for fun.

Alcoholic beverages were frowned upon by school authorities, according to Ailmann's accounts. "Drinking was a serious offense then, and students were immediately suspended or expelled. This view of alcohol applied to a good extent in almost all colleges in the nation," Fromm said. "However, that didn't necessarily mean that students didn't drink."

Ailmann's diary was one of Mrs. Edward's primary sources. "It would be nice to have at least one diary a decade for a good overview of the times," Fromm said.

Unfortunately, Ailmann's diary, along with other diaries and historical articles which may have been given to the BSC archive, will not be given. "When people give you an article, such as a diary, it is usually an item which means a great deal to them. Because of our location, I don't feel that I can tell them I have an attractive place to put their diary or other momento," Fromm said.

Most of the items in the archive are printed documents, but there are also photographs, plaques, non-sports trophies and the lions which once graced "Senior Walk." The Alumni Association has earmarked funds to restore and relocate these and other important historical objects.

Fromm credits his predecessor, James Watts, for many of the articles presently in the archive. During Watt's time as archivist, the archive was located in the basement of Hartline. "When the archive was created, attics and basements of campus buildings were emptied," noted Fromm. "A great deal of material—besides what was already in the library vault—came from the basement of Old Science."

Fromm became the BSC archivist two years ago, and works there 12 hours a week. "There's still a lot of stuff that hasn't been gone through," he said. "I do keep a system of records which tells where the items are."

About a year ago, Fromm met with archivists from the 14 state colleges "to get something going." He credited Millersville State College's archive, where they are well established. They have a full-time archivist and a special room designed for an archive."

Fromm has been a contributing writer for the Campus Voice, writing articles dealing with the humorous and unusual aspects of the college's history.

Fromm meets many interesting people from the past as he works in the archive. "A guy came in here—he was a rather large man—and he wanted to find out something about when he was a student. I asked him if there was anything in particular that he wanted to look at. He said that friends used to call him Peewee, and then he walked over to a picture of the track team. 'That's me there,' he said, laughing. 'But they don't call me Peewee anymore.'

What's in the future for Fromm and the archive? "Right now, my hopes hinge on getting a new location. Then, we'll be better able to preserve the materials, and we'll be able to go out and aggressively seek items."

Folk duo

The Psaltery, a traditional folk duo, performed in concert in the coffeehouse on February 8. Lil Labbe and Don Hinkley make up the duo.

They have developed a full sound with two voices and two guitars by using harmonies and fingerpicking. The music is contemporary and traditional folk with classical and jazz influences.

The duo has appeared at over 40 colleges and schools throughout the East and in Canada. They are members of the New England and Maine Touring Programs.

Veteran secretary retires; saw many things change

Mary Haggerty, a member of the secretarial staff, retired on February 6 after 31 years of service.

She began her employment at BSC in the office of the dean of instruction and worked there for eight years. At that time, admissions (a responsibility of that office) was Mrs. Haggerty's primary concern. She served in that capacity under Dean Emeritus John Hoch and the late Thomas North.

After transferring to the office of physical plant in 1957, she worked as a secretary under four directors—Jennings Knoebel, Thomas Gorrey, Charles Robbins and Donald McCulloch, who was appointed in December.

Mrs. Haggerty recalls that when she first came to BSC there were approximately 650 students, 50 faculty members, 12 secretaries and just a handful of maintenance workers. During her employment, 18 buildings plus the tri-level parking lot were added to the campus.

A native of Scranton, Mrs. Haggerty graduated from St. Ann's Monastery High School. She came to Bloomsburg in 1947 when her husband, Patrick, was assigned here by the Pennsylvania State Police. He retired from both the State Police, where he attained the rank of corporal, and from the Bloomsburg Police Department, where he served as chief.

The Haggertys reside on Country Club Drive.

Members of the college community honored Mrs. Haggerty at a retirement party in the coffeehouse and at a reception held in the maintenance building.

A good excuse to go to Hawaii

An article in the Bloomsburg Morning Press featured a mother and daughter who are both alumnae of BSC: Matilda Mensch Waples '24 and Sally Waples Ford '63. The article was written by Miriam Stephens of the Press-Enterprise staff.

Matilda and Russell Waples of Crabapple Lane in Bloomsburg are planning a spring visit to Hawaii. They are not joining a tour. In fact, they will not hit the usual tourist spots nor will they stay at one of the magnificent beach hotels.

It will be the 37th trip for Mrs. Waples, who estimates she has traveled 360,000 air miles across the U.S. and the Pacific to visit with her daughter Sally and her family. They live at Waianae on the leeward coast of Oahu, 42 miles from Honolulu.

The trips began in 1966 when their daughter first went to the islands. She had taught in New York state for two years after graduating from BSC. In Hawaii, she was hired to teach at Maili Elementary School on Oahu and soon decided to make the islands her permanent home.

In 1967, she and Donald Ford, a civilian employee at Pearl Harbor, were married. Formerly with the Seabees, he works as a foreman in submarine repair.

Like many Hawaiians, he has a varied ancestry. Through his mother, he has native Hawaiian and Chinese blood and through his father, he is American and East Indian.

For the local couple, whose forbears are English and Pennsylvania Dutch, the idea of having grandchildren whose ancestors were subjects of King Kamehameha took some getting used to.

"Hawaii is a mixing pot where nationalities, cultures and races mingle with very little friction," according to Mrs. Waples. One in three marriages crosses national or racial lines, she added.

"It takes a bit of doing to get used to seeing so much bare skin and what we easterners would term slovenly attire, especially in the rural areas."

She says the beautiful vegetation shields many unsightly dwellings but emphasizes the beauty of others. The white sands blaze in the sun and the giant palms continually wave in the breeze.

The islands are at the same latitude as Havana, Cuba, and their temperature range is only 14 degrees with the average about 75.

You would think the local couple would have chosen Pennsylvania's cold winter months for their visits to Hawaii.

"No," says Mrs. Waples, "I think I have been in the islands every month of the year and it's always beautiful."

Both Russell and Matilda are now retired—he from Bell Telephone Co. and she in 1969 from her teaching chores at Central Columbia Junior High School.

Albums filled with color photos of their many Hawaiian visits and of their three grandchildren attest to the fact that they have found the secret to an active and satisfying retirement.

Their grandchildren have native Hawaiian names. The oldest is red-haired Lehua (pronounced Lay-hoo-a) whose full name is Lehuani Kalaiana. She is the picture of her mother at age 9, says her grandmother.

The second girl is Malia Mokihana, 8, a dark-haired beauty, and the most recent arrival is Keoni Kekoa Kauike, whose first name is the Hawaiian equivalent of John.

Keoni, born last June, was named for his grandfather, whose first name is John.

Lehua attends a private school in Honolulu. Kamehameha, which is open only to children who have native Hawaiian blood. Malia is not yet old enough to apply.

Their mother currently teaches first grade at Makaha Elementary School where a pilot program in reading is being offered. Newspapers and magazines are used and there are no textbooks.

"The type of texts we use in Pennsylvania are not relevant to Hawaiian culture," says Mrs. Waples. "The Hawaiians murder the King's English perhaps worse than any other ethnic group."

Today, the majority of teachers in the islands is Japanese, she noted, and they are good teachers. There has been a flood of Japanese coming into Hawaii over the past few years.

Not until the missionaries came to the islands in 1820 did the Hawaiians have a written language. It contains only five vowels—ah, a, e, o and oo. The seven consonants are h, k, l, m, n, p, w. The result, says Mrs. Waples, is a very melodious and soothing language.

Mr. and Mrs. Waples found that many of the islands' population hold to the superstitious beliefs which have been handed down from early times.

"They are strong on bestowing blessings," says Mrs. Waples. Lava rocks taken from the mountains, which are all of volcanic origin, must be blessed because spirits in the mountains are unhappy when rocks are disturbed.

Sally's father-in-law is the tutu man for his Hawaiian church in Honolulu, bestowing the blessings where necessary. Sally's home is blessed annually in a special ceremony.

Those who visit Pearl Harbor may notice that the basin has been dredged out in an unusual shape. This is because workers will not go near areas inhabited by the white sharks, another superstition.

The ecumenical movement has reached its peak in the islands, says Mrs. Waples.

PROUD GRANDPARENTS—Matilda and Russ Waples with their three grandchildren: Lehuani Kalaiana, nine; Keoni Kekoa Kauike, now ten months; and Malia Mokihana, eight.

One Thanksgiving, she attended a service in a Baptist Church. The invocation was given by a Japanese Baptist minister, the anthem by a Samoan United Methodist choir, Scripture by a Catholic priest, prayer by a Lutheran minister, sermon by a Catholic sister and the doxology was sung in the Hawaiian language.

The 8 islands of Hawaii are about the size of Connecticut and Rhode Island. Pennsylvania is 15 times larger.

The great influx of visitors has brought many changes in the past 14 years, Mrs. Waples has found. "There used to be Japanese and Chinese gardens at the airport with coolers of pineapple juice for the travelers. Today, it is very congested and more and more highrises are being built in Honolulu."

What will the local couple do during the month-long visit this spring? An average day will mean rising very early because work and school start early in the islands to avoid the hot temperatures of late afternoon.

"I will probably do the dishes," laughed Matilda, "and I keep Sally's cupboards in perfect order." She also is doing some special embroidery which will eventually go to her granddaughters.

The beauty of the islands is something Matilda often finds breathtaking. "There is no lingering twilight," she says. "The colors at sunset send us rushing to get our camera. But when we get back, it is gone."

Alumnus in K-Mart Corporation returns for executive program

Edward J. Kreitz '50, director of advertising and marketing for the K-mart Corporation, returned to Bloomsburg on April 2 to participate in the fourth annual executive-in-residence program of the BSC Marketing Club.

In addition to delivering two lectures, Kreitz conducted question-and-answer sessions, visited classes and met informally with students and members of the School of Business faculty.

A native of Slatington, Kreitz graduated from high school in that community in 1945. After receiving his bachelor's degree at Bloomsburg, he earned his master's degree from New York University's School of Marketing in 1951. That same year he began his association with the S.S. Kresge Company in New London, Connecticut.

Two years later, he was appointed junior assistant manager in Detroit and in 1955 became the assistant to the sales director. He moved to Cleveland in 1957 when he was promoted to the post of advertising coordinator for the stores in that region. The following year, he became the senior assistant manager.

In 1959, Kreitz was appointed advertising manager for the central region with an office in Detroit. Three years later, he became the advertising manager for discount operations. In 1963, he was promoted to the position of advertising manager for K-mart stores. He was named advertising promotion director in 1968 and assumed his present position in 1979.

Kreitz is a member of the board of directors of NRMA, Sales Promotion Division; a member of the board of directors of the Better Business Bureau of Metropolitan Detroit; a member of the Adcraft Club of Detroit; a past president of the Detroit Retail Advertising Executives' Club; member of Pi Omega Pi business fraternity; and Phi Sigma Pi (president). He is also a member of the BSC Alumni Association.

He and his wife, the former Lynne Patterson, are the parents of three children: Coleen Susan, Jeffrey Daniel and John Patterson. They live at 810 Shady Hollow, Bloomfield Hills, Michigan 48013.

Other alumni who have been executives in residence include George W. O'Connell '58, vice president of sales and marketing, Brown Company; James M. Gustave '58, assistant national sales manager, Jack Daniel Distillery; and Joseph A. Rado Jr. '63, sales representative and consultant, Metropolitan Life.

Congratulations, teams!

Sports Information Director

The following is a summation of the BSC winter sports season covering events through Sunday, March 15, 1981. Sports summarized include men's basketball, women's basketball, men's swimming, women's swimming, and wrestling. The spring sports season is just beginning and will be covered in the next issue.

Men's Basketball (23-7)

Charlie Chronister's squad finished with most wins in BSC history topping the old mark of 22 set by the 1973-74 team which lost in the NCAA quarterfinals to eventual national champion Morgan State. The Huskies also captured the Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference and with it an automatic invitation into the national Division II tournament where they dropped a first round game to Cal-Poly (SLO). All-American candidates Mike Wenrich and Jon Bardsley turned in outstanding performances throughout the season and Ken Casey returned from an injury to add strength to the lineup in the final ten games.

The recently completed campaign also marked BSC's 15th winning season in a row, the last ten under Chronister! Chronister was rewarded for his leadership by being named "Coach of the Year" in both the Pennsylvania Conference and the Eastern Region of the NCAA which includes Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and New York. Both honors were a result of voting by fellow conference and region coaches.

BSC 73, BUCKNELL 72. The Huskies won their seventh straight on Terry Conrad's two free throws with eight seconds remaining. BSC led 35-27 at the intermission only to see the Bisons come back to take a short-lived lead and set the stage for Conrad's heroics which gave the Huskies a three-point lead. A Bucknell basket at the buzzer wasn't enough. Four players scored in double figures for BSC: Wenrich (18), Bardsley (15), Tillman (13), and Greenholt (10).

BSC 77, MILLERSVILLE 50. BSC moved into first place in the Pennsylvania Conference eastern division with this romp over the completely outmanned Marauders. The Huskies led from start to finish and showed why they moved into the #13 spot in the NCAA national Division II rankings prior to the contest. Tillman and Wenrich scored 12 points apiece and Ron Zynel added 11 as Chronister emptied his bench early in the game.

BSC 58, KUTZTOWN 57. Jon Bardsley's 18-foot jumper with 42 seconds left proved to be the winning shot as the Huskies averted a major upset with this win. The victory raised BSC's record to 15-2 overall and 7-1 in the PC eastern division. Bardsley and Wenrich helped overcome a 47-39 deficit with 12 minutes to go in the contest. Bardsley finished with 19 points and Wenrich tallied 18. BSC Alumni team scored a 93-84 victory over a team of current campus All-Stars. Mike Ognosky's ('73) 25 points led the Alumni followed by Jim Platukis ('71) with 17, Art Luptowski ('73) 16, and Tony DaRe ('74) 12 in the preliminary game.

BSC 76, SCRANTON 71. Wenrich (25) and Bardsley (22) combined for 47 points to lead the Huskies to their tenth straight win. The Royals, a perennial Division III power, came into the game looking for a big win and did pull to within one in the second half only to see BSC pull away for the victory and set up a big contest against Mansfield.

BSC 65, MANSFIELD 63 (2 OT) Bardsley does it again! This time a 25-foot jumper with six seconds left in the second overtime. It was the third game-winning shot "J.B." made this season. The win helped the Huskies pad their lead in the PC eastern division and ran the win streak to 11 games. Bardsley and Greenholt scored 16 while Wenrich added 12.

EAST STROUDSBURG 57, BSC 44. This was the worst effort of the season by far. BSC as a team shot only 35% and the loss not only ended the 11-game winning streak, but allowed Mansfield and Cheyney to pull to within one game of first place in the division. Greenholt and Wenrich scored ten points each.

before. BSC held a 19-point (43-24) lead at halftime, but let the Red Raiders pull to within four at 55-51 with 12 minutes to go in the game. The contest marked the return of Ken Casey to the lineup and he responded with ten points and eight rebounds. Bardsley led with 14 followed by senior tri-captain Dave Ogden with 13 and Conrad and Wenrich had 11.

CHEYNEY 73, BSC 54. It's always tough to win at Cheyney and the Huskies found out why! The Wolves led by All-American candidate George Melton's 25 points looked invincible by turning a 34-32 lead at the half into a rout. Casey, Greenholt, and Wenrich all had 10 points while BSC shot a horrible 39% from the field.

BSC 93, WILKES 79. The Huskies were never in serious danger against the weaker Colonels, racing to a 50-29 advantage at the intermission. Wenrich led 11 BSC players in the scoring column including five in double figures. The sophomore forward tallied 17 points, Bardsley and Casey had 15 apiece, Francisco chipped in 14 and Tillman added 10.

MT. ST. MARY'S 86, BSC 73. Chronister's squad entered the game rated #6 in the latest national Division II rankings, while the Mounties showed up in the #1 position with a 24-1 mark. MSM built an early 19-8 lead and held off a late BSC charge which saw the Huskies pull with six twice late in the contest. Free shooting proved to be the difference as the Mounties hit 16 of 23 free throws as opposed to the Huskies' 7 of 12 performance. Bardsley and Wenrich scored 22 and 20 respectively while turning in outstanding performances in the losing cause.

BSC 80, MARYLAND/BALTIMORE COUNTY 66. Big day for the Huskies. Casey returned to the starting lineup for the first time since the second game of the season and scored 18 points, including the 1000th of his college career (King's and BSC) and pulled down 18 rebounds to lead BSC to its 20th win of the year (20-5). The Huskies started hot and finished that way in one of the best offensive displays of the season. Wenrich also scored 18 and Bardsley had 13 and Tillman, 11.

MVP OF TOURNEY—Mike Wenrich, sophomore from Reading, earned the Outstanding Player trophy for his 45-point performance in the PSAC semi-final and final games. He scored 16 points in the Clarion game and 29 in the Indiana game, hitting on 19 of 27 shots from the field. He pulled down 14 rebounds in the two games. Mike is shown accepting the trophy from President McCormick.

BSC 80, EAST STROUDSBURG 57 (PC Preliminary Round). The Huskies entered this contest with a 21-5 record and ranked fifth in the Division II poll. This was the opening round of the Pennsylvania Conference playoffs with the winner advancing to the final four with Clarion, Indiana (PA), and Cheyney. Wenrich scored 23 and Bardsley 13 as BSC routed the Warriors who had ended the long winning streak just three weeks earlier. The Huskies shot 63% for the game and moved into the PC semifinals against Clarion.

BSC 76, CLARION 70 (PC Semifinal). Freshman Barry Francisco hit two free throws with 27 seconds left to guarantee this win over the Golden Eagles and a spot in the PC final game the next night against Indiana (PA), a 61-60 semifinal victor over Cheyney. Wenrich, Tillman, and Bardsley fought off colds to score 16, 14, and 12 points respectively followed by Casey with 11 and Francisco added 10.

BSC 72, INDIANA (PA) 63 (PC Championship) This had to be the Huskies biggest win in many, many years. Playing before 3,000 fans and a regional television audience, BSC showed muscle, finesse, and just about everything else necessary to down the Big Indians. The win gave the Huskies a 23-5 record and put them in the NCAA tourney with a first round game against Cal-Poly from San Luis Obispo, California, to be played in Monmouth, N.J. Mike Wenrich turned in the top offensive performance of the year scoring 29 points, which along with his 16 against Clarion the night before earned him the tournament's Most Valuable Player award presented by the event's sponsor, Luden's of Reading.

Success

Let's do it again

1980 was a good year for your Alumni Association. We surpassed our annual giving goal of $50,000 by $20,000, and our ranks of active members swelled to over 5,100 from 1,972 members the previous year.

Nearly 25 percent of all alumni on the mailing list contributed to the 1980 campaign; the national average for alumni is only 17 percent.

In the tabulated report on this page is a breakdown of contributions by classes. Winning special recognition are the Class of 1977, the largest number of contributors (233); the Class of 1922, largest percentage (58.1 percent); and the Class of 1923, largest amount of money, ($5,882).

Other classes with a participation rate of 40 percent or more also deserve special recognition: 1930 (50 percent), 1943 (48.4 percent), 1935 (46.7 percent), 1928 (43.7 percent), 1915 (42.9 percent), 1944 (42.9 percent), 1929 (42 percent), 1945 (41.6 percent), 1942 (41.2 percent), and 1931 (40.9 percent).

Included in the $70,604 total for 1980 was nearly $15,000 pledged during the national phonathon conducted on 12 nights in October and November.

Since 1974, more than $278,000 has been contributed by BSC alumni and friends. The annual dollar total and number of contributors are as follows: 1974-75 (18-month campaign) — $51,998.36 pledged by 1,653; 1976 — $41,073 pledged by 1,815; 1977 — $32,852 pledged by 1,263; 1978 — $35,166 pledged by 2,015; 1979 — $46,733 pledged by 1,972; 1980 — $70,604 pledged by 5,129.

The 1980 total includes a $5,000 scholarship given by Dr. Margaret Bittner Parke, of Brooklyn, N.Y., a member of the Class of 1923.

In 1980, the top 12 counties in Pennsylvania in number of contributors were Columbia, 528; Luzerne, 442; Northumberland, 202; Montgomery, 199; Bucks, 183; Lackawanna, 146; Schuylkill, 146; Lehigh, 143; Northampton, 116; Berks, 115; Dauphin, 112; Lycoming, 108.

The top 12 states were Pennsylvania, 3,353; New Jersey, 257; New York, 203; Maryland, 127; Florida, 112; Virginia, 104; Delaware, 72; Alabama, 72; California, 67; Connecticut, 37; Ohio, 34; Texas, 34.

In this 20-page report are listed all alumni, by class, who contributed to the 1980 annual giving campaign. We tried very hard to prevent omissions and errors in listing the 5,100 names. If the list isn't perfect, please accept our apology and let us know so we can make a correction in the next issue.

This 20-page report on the annual giving campaign is printed in such a way that you can pull out this section, leaving the regular section of your QUARTERLY intact.

Again, thanks for caring about your Alma Mater.

SCHOLARSHIPS—One of the most important functions of the Alumni Association is the support of the scholarship program. Recipients of nearly $6,000 in alumni scholarships for the 1981-1982 academic year were recently selected. There were several hundred other deserving students to whom scholarships could have been given. Your Alumni Association is committed to increasing the number of scholarships each year—with your help.

PRESERVING THE PAST—Another alumni project for 1981 is the microfilming of college scrapbooks in the archives which cover the periods from 1910-1919 and 1924-1948. Containing over 6,000 pages of information, the scrapbooks will soon be unreadable because of yellowing newsprint and brittleness. The information consists primarily of local newspaper clippings that tell much of the Bloomington story not revealed in other sources. It is one of the major records of our college's history, according to Roger Fromm, archivist. The Alumni Board of Directors has designated $1,000 to fund this project. Fromm is shown with the boxes of material which he hand-delivered to the Bell and Howell facility in Wooster, Ohio.

art department; Grace Foote Conner '34, alumni representative; (standing) Kim Gobora, Levittown, and Tom Gombert, Northumberland, student representatives. Other members of the committee are Lois Bryner '44, Elizabeth Huhler '31, and Millard Ludwig '48, alumni representatives; Sue Eberly and Tom Wright, student representatives; Jennie Carpenter, director of residence halls; Dr. Jerry Griffiths, vice president for student life; and Bruce C. NEXT PLANTING PROJECT—The beauty of our campus has traditionally attracted prospective students and has pleased returning alumni. Several years ago a masterplan for landscaping the campus was developed, and each year the Alumni Association has funded a phase of that masterplan. Last year the area around Carver Hall was replanted, and this year's project is the area adjacent to the Bakeless Center for the Humanities, a classroom building located near Navy Hall and Andruss Library. Cost of the project is expected to be about $5,000.

UNOFFICIAL HISTORIAN—As we reported in the Winter QUARTERLY, Eda Bessie (Beilhartz) Edwards '41 has taken on the awesome and challenging assignment of writing a history of the college. The writing is proceeding very well, and she hopes to have the manuscript ready for the printer later this year. Your Alumni Board of Directors, recognizing the significance of this project, has earmarked at least $2,500 for the "up-front" publishing costs. Copies of the history will then be sold, with proceeds going to the Alumni Association. Mrs. Edwards is shown in the college archive, flanked by the two lions that once graced the foot of Senior Walk.

SPECIAL OFFER—If you have visited the campus in recent years or if you have read your ALUMNI QUARTERLY, you know that our campus has changed a great deal. This year we are offering an 8x10 black-and-white aerial photograph of the lower campus, suitable for framing or for placement in your yearbook. This photograph will be sent to all alumni who contribute $19.81 or more to the 1981 Annual Giving Campaign of the Alumni Association. If you have already sent your contribution of at least that amount, you will receive your photograph in the near future. The supply of photographs is limited, so don't delay!

Your contribution will provide scholarships

head football coach

The Husky Football program was elevated to Division II of the NCAA in the summer of 1980, after PSAC college presidents voted to become members. This move will allow our conference to be equal in all respects. The equality in the opportunity to raise money for its athletic programs is the greatest of the new allowances.

With inflation and budget cuts, it's time for everyone to share the responsibility of doing what they can financially (and in other ways) to build a Division II football program. The program needs a minimum of $20,000 from its 1981 fundraising efforts.

The present coaching staff have dedicated themselves to turn the football program into a winner, but help must come from external sources as well as internal sources. The football program has already started raising money by selling fruit bags and "Back the Pack" T-shirts (50-50 cotton-polyester shirts for $5 each). The shirts are still on sale. But the total profits of both projects are very minimal and cannot support the type of program we would like to build.

Contributions will support immediate projects such as (1) meal tickets for athletes, (2) books, tuition or room for athletes, (3) team jackets/sweaters for travel, (4) overnight accommodations for games over hours from BSC, (5) an annual football banquet and outings, (6) non-budgeted equipment, (7) assistant coaching salaries, secretarial help, recruiting, etc., (8) Football Hall of Fame, and (9) other worthy endeavors.

The football program needs alumni to help develop related projects: (1) spurring interest locally, state-wide and nationally, (2) developing fundraising events or soliciting funds from your area to benefit the football program, and (3) aiding in recruitment of athletes and otherwise generating interest in the football program.

I am pleased to support BSC Football. Enclosed is my contribution of:

$5-$99 $100-$299 $300-$499
 $500-$999 $1,000-$2,999 $3,000 or more

BSC has always had character, now it has caricature, too.

When Jim Hollister '78 assumed his duties last year as sports information director, he noticed that many colleges have caricatures of their mascots which are used in connection with their sports programs. So Jim launched a "Draw the Husky Contest."

"We had drawings of huskies and heads of huskies, but we didn't have a caricature," Hollister said. "We were looking for something toward the comic side, yet tough."

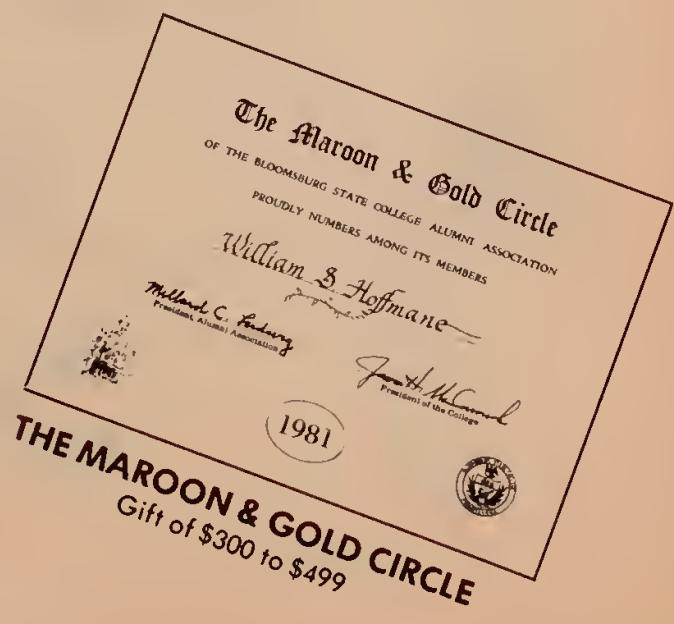

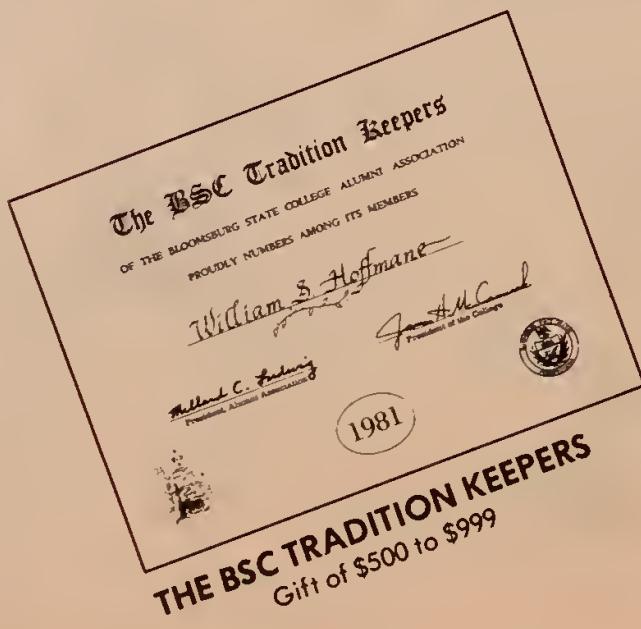

Well, the contest paid off when Steve Crawford, a freshman from Woolrich, Pa., submitted what turned out to be the winning entry. In addition to winning two smorgasbord dinners at Hotel Magee (provided by the Alumni Association), Steve landed a work-study job in the public information office. He is now at work drawing the caricature in different athletic garb so it can be used year-round on various news releases, letterheads, brochures and programs. Some samples of his work are shown on this page.

In recognition of your contribution to one of the top five gift categories, the Alumni Association will send you a handsome certificate which you can proudly display in your office or home. Your name will be hand-lettered on the gold parchment-like paper. You will be able to update your certificate each year you make a similar gift by adding a new gold foil seal on which that year is printed.

(standing) Ron Zynel, Wilkes-Barre; Ed Nichols, Williamsport; Dave Kiersnowski, Shamokin; Ken Casey, Nanticoke; Randy Colone, Woodbury, N.J.; Bill Tillman, Cranford, N.J.; Mike Wenrich, Reading; Doug Greenholt, New Oxford; and Tom Mason, Langhorne.

Pa. Bardsley, who ran the BSC offense all year long, was rewarded for his two-day performance with an All-Tournament berth. He was also a PC eastern division first team selection, while Wenrich was named to the second team.

CAL-POLY 71, BSC 43 (NCAA East Regional). The Mustangs picked the ideal time to play their best game of the year, and the Huskies picked the worst time to play their poorest of the season. Cal-Poly entered the game ranked #14 in the nation, but first in defense and showed why by holding the Huskies to their lowest total in 17 years. The Californians shot 71% from the field and moved into the final four since their win over BSC with two more victories. Casey scored 17 points and Wenrich had 10.

MONMOUTH 79, BSC 64 (NCAA East Regional). Last game of the season, win or lose. This was one of the Huskies poorer performances as they lacked the needed enthusiasm after the previous night's stunning loss to Cal-Poly. BSC fell behind early and stayed there. It was sort of a bad way to end an absolutely outstanding season. Casey finished off a fine two-day tournament with 16 against Monmouth and Greenholt added 15.

Women's Basketball (6-11)

The Huskies finished with a dismal 6-11 mark, but some underclassmen got important playing experience which will prove valuable in the next few years. Senior Kathy Palubinsky ended the season as the team's top scorer averaging 13.6 points per game followed by Mindy Lerit, another senior, who averaged 12.4 and sophomore center Hilarie Runyon with an 11.9 average. Runyon was the squad's top rebounder, pulling down an average of 11.8 per game. Palubinsky and Lerit are the only two players who will be lost to graduation.

BSC 68, KUTZTOWN 50. The Huskies boosted their record to 3-4 with this win over the Golden Bears. Hilarie Runyon led three BSC scorers in double figures with 15 points followed by Deb Thom with 14 and Mindy Lerit with 12. The win gave BSC its third win against no losses in the Nelson Fieldhouse, but Hibbs' charges showed an 0-4 mark on the road.

EAST STROUDSBURG 73, BSC 53. BSC trailed by two (31-29) at halftime but an effective full-court press by the Warriors in the second half proved to be the difference. The Huskies were short of experienced ballhandlers due to injuries and it showed as the game wore on. ESSC's Karen Woods scored 22 points for the winners while Palubinsky, Lerit, and Trina Knittel tallied 12, 11, and 11 in the losing cause. First home court loss of the year.

BSC 55, LUZERNE C.C.C. 50. The home team almost blew a 27-17 lead at the intermission, but held off a late LCCC charge for win number four on the season. Maureen McDonald scored 16 points and Runyon chipped in 13 to lead the Huskies to the win.

LOCK HAVEN 83, BSC 59. Teresa Derksen and Sandy Miller combined for 43 points to lead the Bald Eagles to the win. The loss dropped BSC's record to 4-6 overall and 0-5 on the road. Palubinsky scored 21 for the Huskies who had a disastrous first half and fell behind 45-19 at half-time.

SCRANTON 85, BSC 50. The Royals entered this game ranked #3 in the country among AIAW Division III schools and showed they deserved it. Coach Mike Strong substituted freely throughout the contest and had three players score in double figures led by Fran Crossin's 16. Knittel and Runyon scored 14 and 12 respectively for the Huskies.

SHIPPENSBURG 81, BSC 75. BSC trailed by 14 at the intermission, then had a frantic second half comeback attempt thwarted and fell short in this one. Third loss in a row and the slow start proved to be the downfall for Hibbs' squad. Palubinsky had a great game scoring 22 points while Lerit added 13 and Runyon 11.

MILLERSVILLE 64, BSC 55. Fourth loss in a row dropping overall record to 4-9. Slow starts were getting to be the team's trademark and it happened again as BSC fell behind 20-2 before regrouping. Lerit tallied 16 and Palubinsky added 12, but it wasn't enough to offset four Marauders in double figures.

BSC 58, WILKES 52. Slow start again, but this time the Huskies had enough to overcome early 28-16 deficit and ended four-game losing streak. Palubinsky and Runyon scored 18 points each while BSC outscored the Colonels 42-24 in the second half.

INDIANA (PA) 79, BSC 69. BSC lost this one at the foul line where the Big Indians converted 17 of 25 charity tosses. Each team had 31 field goals, but the advantage at the line was too much to overcome. The Huskies rallied from a 39-27 deficit at halftime to take a short-lived three-point lead. Palubinsky led the way with 19 followed by Lerit with 17 and Knittel with 16.

BUCKNELL 79, BSC 61. The home-standing Bisons proved to be too tough for the 5-11 Huskies. Palubinsky scored 18 points and McDonald and Knittel combined for another 21, but it couldn't match BU's Jill Henry who scored 28. The Huskies fell behind 46-29 at the half and stayed there.

BSC 80, KINGS 69. Palubinsky set a new BSC single season scoring record by scoring 16 points and breaking the mark of 222 set by Julie Ludrof ('78). The new mark of 231 wasn't the only standard to fall, Runyon broke P.C. Lyons' ('80) rebounding mark of 190. Lerit was the Huskies' high scorer with 20 points and Runyon added 14.

Men's Swimming (3-8)

Internal strife which plagued Coach Eli McLaughlin's squad throughout the first semester and eventually forced the postponement of one meet and cancellation of another continued into the second semester. The Huskies finally ended up with just five swimmers for the Pennsylvania Conference Championships which saw BSC end up in seventh place. For the first time in many seasons, the Huskies did not have a swimmer qualify for the national meet.

EDINBORO 83, BSC 30. The strong Fighting Scots proved to be too tough for the Huskies. Edinboro's Bob Wright, who finished third in the nation a year ago, set a new BSC pool 3-meter diving record with 289 points. The Scots captured 11 of the 13 events enroute to the victory.

BSC 59, EAST STROUDSBURG 41. The Huskies registered their best times of the season on eleven individual occasions in this close win over the home-standing Warriors. The win would prove to be BSC's last of the season. East Stroudsburg had nine personal best times of its own. Carl Helstrom looked good in winning the 100-yard freestyle in 52 seconds flat.

TEMPLE 74, BSC 36. The Division I Owls were a solid, well-balanced team and it paid off as they captured 12 of 13 events on their way to the rout. Brian Shoap continued to improve his time in the 200-yard butterfly. The Huskies lost diver Tom Grazioli for the year when he suffered a broken nose in the one-meter event.

SHIPPENSBURG 59, BSC 37. The Huskies only won four events against the powerful Red Raiders, who finished second in the Pennsylvania Conference. Tim DiMarco, Carl Helstrom, Matt Thran, and the 400-yard freestyle relay team of Phil Spampinato, Shoap, DiMarco, and Tim Briddes got individual wins for BSC.

captured 10 of 13 events on their way to the win. They won the first five races to take an early lead and coasted on to the romp. Phil Christian continued to improve his time in the 100 yard breaststroke.

CLARION 57, BSC 47. This wasn't as close as the score indicates. The Golden Eagles have won the conference championship 11 times in a row and had enough firepower to drown the young Huskies. Later in the month, Clarion waltzed through the PC meet.

WEST CHESTER 61, BSC 35. The Rams prepared for the upcoming East Coast Conference meet by clobbering McLaughlin's squad at West Chester. WC won 11 of 13 events and the outcome was never in doubt.

BUCKNELL 60, BSC 28. This meet was postponed from the first semester and after it started, the Huskies wished it would have been postponed longer. The Bisons won the first eight events and like West Chester were also preparing for the ECC meet.

INDIANA (PA) 67, BSC 36. The Huskies only won three events, but Matt Thran in the 100-yard breaststroke and the 400-yard medley team set personal best times in the last dual meet of the season. This matchup was in preparation for the upcoming Pennsylvania Conference meet.

PC CHAMPIONSHIPS. This turned into the Clarion Golden Eagles show after the first day of competition. For the eleventh year in a row Clarion captured the team title, while the Huskies placed a distant seventh.

This turned out to be the finest season ever for Mary Gardner's squad. The Huskies who finished tenth in the nation last season among Division III schools, bettered that effort by placing seventh in this year's national event. Captain Sue Brophy, Linda Smith, Tina Klamut, Cathy Sheridan, Kelly Reimert, and Sue Boyer earned All-American honors for their performances. The team finished the dual meet season with a fine 7-3 mark and tied Shippensburg for second place in the Pennsylvania Conference Championships behind Division II national champion Clarion.

CLARION 85, BSC 54. The Huskies ran into the defending Division II national champions in this meet. The Golden Eagles showed great overall strength and balance allowing BSC to win only four of sixteen events. Sue Brophy (100-yard butterfly), Linda Smith (50-yard freestyle), Lee Ann Pietrzyski (100-yard breaststroke), and the 200-yard freestyle team were the only winners.

BSC 81, GLASSBORO 48. BSC took out its frustrations following the Clarion meet on the much weaker Profs. The Huskies captured 11 of 16 races led by freshmen Tina Klamut and Cathy Sheridan who both won the three events in which they competed. The win ran BSC's record to 4-1.

BSC 82, LEHIGH 55. Sue Boyer led the effort by becoming the sixth Husky swimmer to post a national qualifying time this season. Boyer swam a 1:04.77 in the 100-yard individual medley which earned her a trip along with five others to the national meet. BSC captured 15 of 16 events enroute to the romp and upped its mark to 5-1.

SHIPPENSBURG 67, BSC 64. The Red Raiders touched BSC out by three seconds for third place in the 200-yard breaststroke and that proved to be the only difference in this meet between two evenly matched teams. The teams would later tie for second place in the Pennsylvania Conference championships. Cathy Sheridan set two new pool marks and Linda Smith one, to lead the way to victories in seven races while Shippensburg won nine.

BSC 90, WEST CHESTER 43. The Huskies won 14 of 16 events and in the two they didn't win, they swam as exhibitions allowing the much weaker Rams to score extra points. Sue Brophy and Cathy Sheridan looked great in the 50 and 100-yard freestyles and Kelly Reimert had a fine showing in the 200-yard individual medley.

BUCKNELL 80, BSC 60. In the 11 events in which BSC didn't place first, the Huskies placed a close second and were barely touched out for the top spots. The loss dropped Gardner's squad to 6-3 for the season with one meet remaining. Cathy Sheridan and Linda Smith were double winners for BSC.

RSC 82, INDIANA (PA) 64. Tina Klamut set a new pool and team record in the 50-yard breaststroke (:33.48) to lead BSC to this romp over the Big Indians. This ended the dual meet season with a 7-3 mark and got the Huskies ready for the upcoming Pennsylvania Conference Championships.

PC CHAMPIONSHIPS. Tina Klamut was the only individual winner for BSC, but numerous place winners helped the Huskies to their highest finish ever as they tied with Shippensburg for second place.

Defending Division II national champion Clarion scored a record breaking 833 points to outdistance the Red Raiders and BSC with 400 apiece. The next closest team was Slippery Rock with 281 points.

AIAW DIVISION III NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIPS. This event produced BSC's finest swimming show ever as Gardner's squad placed seventh in the country among AIAW Division III schools. The finish bettered last year's tenth place showing out of 117 schools. All six national qualifiers, Sue Brophy, Linda Smith, Tina Klamut, Cathy Sheridan, Kelly Reimert, and Sue Boyer turned in excellent times including a few personal bests as well as team records. The Huskies progressed higher in the team standings as the event went on starting in tenth after the first day, moving to ninth after two days, and finally ending up in seventh at the end of the three-day event.

This year's wrestling season was like night and day. The first part of the season was plagued with injuries and the Huskies looked like they were going to suffer one of their worst seasons since Coach Roger Sanders came to BSC in 1972. But, like all good teams, they rallied and turned the campaign into a success, which included the school's first-ever Eastern Wrestling League crown and a school record five qualifiers to the NCAA Division I tournament. The wrestlers also finished second in the Pennsylvania Conference tourney. In the final six dual meets of the season, the first five weight classes (118-150) compiled an incredible 29-0 record and led the team to big victories over Penn State and Temple. The Huskies who were bumped out of the national ranking early in the season moved back into the final "top-twenty" poll in the No. 17 spot when the season ended.

BSC 36, WEST CHESTER 15. Todd Cummings upset Jorge Leon, the country's eighth ranked 118 lb. wrestler in the opening bout of the night and led BSC to its "best team effort of the year." The Huskies used five falls and two decisions to knock off the home-standing Rams.

CLARION 31, BSC 18. This was a toss-up until BSC forfeited at 177 and heavyweight and the Golden Eagles' Mark Downing clamped Butch Snyder at 190 lbs. In the first seven matches, BSC won three and Clarion won three, and there was a draw at 118. Don Reese built on to his impressive individual record with a fall at 134 lbs. The Golden Eagles were ranked 17th in the nation at the time.

Chronister wins honors

BSC basketball coach Charles Chronister has received another post-season honor after directing the Huskies to a 23-7 record in the recently completed campaign.

Chronister, who was voted "Coach of the Year" by his fellow Pennsylvania Conference coaches in March, received word that he has been chosen as the National Association of Basketball Coaches Eastern Regional "Coach of the Year" for NCAA Division II. The recipient of this award is chosen by basketball coaches in the NCAA Eastern Region area comprising New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania. Chronister was honored at the NABC banquet on March 29 in Philadelphia in conjunction with the NCAA Division I basketball championships.

The 23 wins this season set a new BSC school record breaking the old mark (22) which was set by the 1973-74 squad that lost in the national Division II quarterfinals to eventual national champion Morgan State. This year the Huskies captured their first-ever Pennsylvania Conference crown and with it an automatic berth into the NCAA tournament, where they lost to Cal-Poly (SLO) in the first round.

Chronister commented, "This award is very meaningful coming from my fellow coaches. Anytime a player or coach is honored in a team sport like basketball, it is obviously a credit to the entire program and everyone involved with it. Burt (assistant coach Reese), 'Doc' (assistant coach Mike Herbert) and I have been together for ten years, and I don't feel we've done anything different this season than in previous years, but our players responded well and that obviously helped to make this award possible."

continued their domination of the Bald Eagles over the past few years with this win. BSC wanted to win one of the first two bouts to have a chance, but Cummings (118) and Ed Fiorvanti (126) did better, they both won along with four other Huskies.

CLEVELAND ST. 24, BSC 18. Again forfeits in the upper weights proved to be the difference. Bucky McCollum (177) and Tyrone Johnson (HWT) both suffered injuries and were forced to stop, giving the Vikings 12 points they might not have gotten otherwise. The lightweights won four of five bouts again.

BSC 25, WEST VIRGINIA 19. Butch Snyder's 6-5 win at heavyweight helped the Huskies hold on for the win. The first five weights went to BSC before the Mountaineers won the next four and got right back in the match. Tom Fiorvanti's pin at 150 was the only fall of the evening.

BSC 41, INDIANA (PA) 10. Roger Sanders' 100th coaching win since coming to BSC in 1972. The romp over the Big Indians was led by Don Reese, who moved into the 4 spot in the 134 lb. weight class national rankings. The Huskies won eight of the ten matches.

BSC 30, PITTSBURGH 12. This was the first of a triangular meet which included Navy. The Panthers proved to be no match for a BSC team that was improving with each match and looking forward to the post season tournaments that were coming up soon. Don Reese pinned his second opponent in as many nights and the first five won again.

NAVY 27, BSC 17. The Huskies won four of the first five (118 was a draw), but ran out of gas in the upper weights and watched as the Midshipmen coasted by for the win. BSC held a 17-2 lead going into the 158 lb. match, but it was all down hill from there.

PC CHAMPIONSHIPS. Ed Fiorvanti (126) was the only individual titlist, but the Huskies placed enough wrestlers to hold onto second place behind a strong Clarion team. Fiorvanti tipped Clarion's Tom Diamond 8-5 in the final, while Al McCollum (142), Gibbes Johnson (158), and Butch Snyder (190) all placed second.

BSC 20, PENN STATE 18. The Huskies' Greg Sacavage lost his 190 lb. bout, but the loss made BSC winners. PSU's Joel Johnson needed to pin Sacavage for the Nittany Lions to win the match, instead he had to settle for a 10-0 major decision, and that along with the six points BSC forfeited at heavyweight weren't enough to overcome the lead the Huskies had built. Mural for master's

By BOB STILES '81
Publications Intern

This is a year of celebration for Dorothy Masom. Not only will she be receiving her master's degree this spring, but she has created a mural which is on display at Susquehanna University, where she teaches fine arts.

The five-by-five foot mural was one of the project requirements for Masom's degree in studio art-painting at BSC. The mural depicts various activities in the library at the University—studying, reading, writing, researching, daydreaming, sleeping—activities that can be observed in any college or university library. The mural decorates a wall on the second floor of the library—the Roger Blough Learning Center.

"I have always found the library personnel to be very helpful," said Masom, "so I wanted to do my mural for a library."

But what makes the mural especially noteworthy is the medium that Masom used. Encaustics, the medium, was used by both ancient Egyptian and Greek artists, but has been almost totally ignored by modern artists.

Encaustic painting entails the application of hot, bleached bees wax mixed with pigment onto a canvas. The creation is then fused with heat lamps (torches were used in ancient times) and polished with a soft cloth. The result is a painting that looks as if globs of paint were administered in layers rather than the smoother appearing surface of an oil painting.

Three advantages of encaustic painting are that the image dries instantly, the encaustic painting does not need to be reworked or polished periodically like oil paintings, and encaustic paintings are extremely durable. Masom has tested her encaustic paintings in all types of backyard weather, and they have withstood it.

Masom's mural was constructed in four sections which were fused together on plywood. She did the work in her studio at her home in Selinsgrove.

"I worked on the mural without anyone seeing it—except for my dog," she added, laughing. "He would wander into my studio and lie on the mural when I wasn't there. It wasn't unusual to find dog hairs sticking out of the painting," she said, still laughing.

"I did show my preliminary drawings to Ken Wilson (her advisor at BSC), but only my dog saw the mural while I was creating it."

The people depicted in the mural are actual Susquehanna University students and library personnel. "I sketched the students while they were in or around the library," said Masom. "Now students look at the mural, trying to guess the identities of the people."

The mural has also become a regular stop for prospective Susquehanna students. "I have been told that the mural has helped enrollment," she said.

As a critic, Wilson said the mural embodies a sense of the library's purpose. "Students are shown studying in an atmosphere of contemplation, and librarians are found intent upon their respective duties within this center of learning. The mural fits into the architectural space of the library wall, and Masom's style is suited to the contemporary pace of the University."

There is only one source for Masom's supplies, the Torch Company in New York City. Jasper Johns, a famous encaustic painter, also buys his supplies from the same firm. "John's encaustic painting, 'Three Flags,' was recently sold for the highest price ever paid for a living artist's work," noted Masom.

Masom has had years of study at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Art, where she was a scholarship student. She also studied at the Art Student League in New York, and at the Trenton (N.J.) Industrial Art School.

But Masom favors the BSC art professors over her previous professors. "I've never found a more giving faculty than at BSC," she said. She described the BSC art faculty as willing to share all their knowledge with their students. "It's like finally having someone to talk to at last."

Masom also supports the idea of having undergraduate students working side-by-side with those working towards advanced degrees. "Everyone learns from everyone else."

BSC's M.A. in art studio offers four options: painting, graphic art, ceramic art and drawing. Two other graduate students, Jean Smith and Sandy Kessler, also have murals on display. Smith's mural is at the Evan's Memorial Elementary School in Bloomsburg, and Kessler's is at Line Mountain.

Before Masom moved to Selinsgrove with her husband, Richard, who is an associate professor of business administration at Susquehanna, she owned and directed the Woodside Art Studio in Sussex, N.J. There she taught classes in drawing, painting, print-making, portrait and life drawings.

Masom has painted portraits of such notables as Richard Hughes, former governor of New Jersey; Princess Sukanya of Thailand; Deputy U.S. Attorney Robert Solan; and the optical scientist, Dr. Harry S. Newcomer.

Masom has exhibited her artwork in such galleries as the Hicks and Griest Agencies in New York, Morris County College and Montclair College, both in New Jersey, The Golden Door in New Hope and the Brown Library in Williamsport.

A show by Masom and Kessler will be on exhibit in the Haas Gallery from May 3 to May 15.

After Masom receives her master's degree, she plans to continue painting and teaching.

Retired editor reminisces about Litwhiler

The following article about Danny Litwhiler '38 was written by Edward F. Schuyler '24, retired editor of The Morning Press, for the weekend edition of the Press-Enterprise.

Did you ever wonder what the reaction is when an award is made for an accomplishment of almost two score years earlier?

If we wish the answer we'll have to ask Danny Litwhiler, now enjoying a long tenure as baseball coach at Michigan State University. He is a former major league performer—for 10 years—and a BSC graduate and holder of the College Alumni Association's Distinguished Service Award.

When Danny was with the Phillies at the start of his career and they were a rag-tag outfit in contrast to the World's Champions of today, he compiled a record of accepting 426 chances without an error from 1941 to early in the 1943 season.

At the annual winter meeting of the college baseball coaches at Miami Beach, Rawlings presented him with a Golden Glove in recognition of the feat. Overall it was a fine gesture, for the sporting goods firm hadn't started the practice of making the awards until 1957.

Mention of the feat revived a number of memories. The year it was in full bloom, Bart Trescott, son of the late Paul H. and Stella P. Trescott and a recognized authority on the international monetary system, was the office cub.

The following summer he was a copy boy on the Evening Bulletin where his father was long a member of the editorial board and author of the popular column, "Dateline Anywhere." It was during that period that the Phils were involved in a game in which rain was the demon. Danny's handling of a ball in that contest raised some questions. The official scorer got the hit, Danny and others in key positions together and after deliberation it was decided to give the batsman a hit. Bart followed through on the checkup and so informed us.

Bart, by the way, is the author of a number of books on the monetary system. He sent me a couple of volumes and the gesture was much appreciated. The trouble was I'm one of those folks who figures ten bucks is capital—well, maybe $20 in this age of inflation—and I wasn't too far into the book until I was lost.

Getting back to Danny, I'm sure he will always be grateful to the Phillies, for without their help there would have been no big league career. He was called into organized baseball by the Detroit Tigers. In spring training he ran into a gopher hole and seriously injured an ankle. He was released and that summer he played on the town team with a gimp equally as bad as the one I possess as a result of an abrupt meeting with a car.

The Phils were then a shoestring operation headed by a fellow named Cox. They decided Danny was enough of a prospect to invest in the cost of an operation and it paid off handsomely. In his career in the majors he played with the Phils, the St. Louis Cardinals, for whom he performed in a WWII World Series against the old St. Louis Browns; the Boston Braves (now the Atlanta entry in the National League) and the Cincinnati Reds, where he completed his career as a third baseman and coach. During his career he was in one All-Star game and laced out a single in his only official time at bat.

His glove, used in compiling the remarkable streak of errorless games, is at Cooperstown in the Baseball Museum. Tommy North, once a colleague on The Morning Press and later public relations director and now a journalism professor at Clarkson University, Potsdam, N.Y., had a role in getting the trophy in the museum.

Danny was a native of Ringtown but after his affiliation with the "Friendly College on the Hill," made Bloomsburg his residence. After his retirement from the majors he managed the Wilkes-Barre team in the Eastern League for a season. One summer he and Bobby Rhawn operated a car cleaning business with emphasis on cleaning the interiors of automobiles.

He purchased a home on East Main St., which was later sold to the college for expansion.

At the time Danny was making his start and going great guns for the Phils, the color man on the club's radio broadcasts was George (Stoney) McLinn, son of a former pastor of the now First English Baptist Church on East Third St., and spent much of his boyhood in town where he was active in sports and a high school teammate of the late Reginald Hemingway, long a leading barrister in the Commonwealth.

McLinn, who earlier in his career had been a sports columnist for the old Philadelphia Public Ledger, really pushed Danny and Bloomsburg over the airways and immediately got much protest from Ringtown residents, who reminded him Danny was a native of their community.

Litwhiler has had an outstanding career as a college coach, first at Florida State and then, for more than a decade, at Michigan State. Joe Falls, a Detroit sportswriter a year or more back, did a piece on Danny and at that time mentioned he had coached over 600 collegiate games.

Many of his boys have gone into the big leagues, including Dick House, recently deposed Yank manager, and Woody Woodruff, former Cincinnati shortstop from Florida State, and a number from Michigan State.

Huskies won the first six bouts and Penn State took the final four.

BSC 27, TEMPLE 15. Superior decisions by Todd Cummings (118), and Don Reese (134) helped BSC build another big lead and gave the Huskies their fifth win in the last six outings. Coach Sanders forfeited 190 and heavyweight which made the final score look much closer than it actually was. BSC won seven of the ten bouts.

EASTERN WRESTLING LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIPS. BSC turned out to be the surprise of the event and before the other teams got a chance to brace for the Huskies' barrage, it was too late. Sanders' troops won the first three weight classes, settled for second place at 142, and topped it off with another win at 150. Todd Cummings, Ed Fiorvanti, Don Reese, and Tom Fiorvanti all won individual crowns while Al McCollum lost in the finals and Gibbes Johnson (158) and Butch Snyder (190) captured thirds as the Huskies bumped off favored Clarion for the team laurels. By finishing among the top two in their respective classes, five Huskies qualified for the national tournament.

NCAA DIVISION I CHAMPIONSHIPS. Coach Roger Sanders wasn't overly pleased with the overall team performance at this event. Ed Fiorvanti got to the quarterfinals of the main draw at 126 lbs. but ended up in 10th place at that weight. BSC scored 5.25 points and finished well down in the team standings.

Mrs. Wilson commended for 30 years as landlady

By G. Wayne Laepple '69

"Oh, I've always had wonderful boys," is the way Mrs. Catherine Wilson sums up her 30 years of housing BSC students in her home at 720 East Second Street, right across from Centennial Gymnasium.

Mrs. Wilson, whose sprightly manner belies her 87 years, recently received the Landlord Appreciation Award from the college. The award, presented by Housing Director John Abell, commends her for "fine accommodations, humane management, and general concern for her students." She was recommended for the award by Scott Pino, Alan Parker, and Frank Jacoby, her present "boys."

When asked what changes she's seen in her tenants over the years, Mrs. Wilson emphasized that the young men who have lived in her home have all been gentlemen. "The boys years ago didn't have those big stereos and speakers like they do now, and they didn't play that sort of music, you know," she said, "but I've never had a problem with anyone."

Another change noted by Mrs. Wilson is in the way students dress. "There really has been an improvement over the past few years, I must say. They really looked awful there for a few years. . . . And of course, they used to dress for dinner. They always looked so nice."

Mrs. Wilson and her husband, Professor S. L. Wilson, retired head of BSC's English department, opened the second floor of their home to students in 1951. At first they had six boys, two to a room, but a town fire escape ordinance led them to reduce the number of tenants to three.

"We always had a very pleasant relationship with the boys," she stated. "We would often set up a card table in the parlor and play games, and my husband would sometimes correct their English themes for them. We always wanted the boys to feel this was their home."

She told of one student who was going to be on campus for only one semester, and who wanted to live in her home. When she pointed out that she had already rented the three available rooms, he said he'd sleep in the laundry room. "And he did just that!" she chortled.

Another senior took a room elsewhere, but after just a few nights, he stopped in to ask if they would possibly accommodate him. "He didn't like that place downtown; and he was almost in tears as he spoke to Mr. Wilson," she recalled. The Wilsons finally agreed to move a day bed into the study room and the lonely student was home.

"I hear from a lot of the boys," said Mrs. Wilson. "I've visited their homes and been to their weddings. I knit for their babies, and when they come back here, like for the Fair, they all stop in." She could hardly suppress a giggle. "One time, I went to a boy's wedding in Shamokin, and we got lost on our way back. It was midnight and pouring rain. We ended up in the middle of Knoebels Grove and had an awful time getting out."

Quite a few of the former residents of the Wilson home have gone on to successful careers. One is a school principal in suburban Philadelphia, and another manages a janitorial service firm in Chicago. Several others are in the business world around the Nation's Capital, and of course many have teaching careers.

The Wilsons came to Bloomsburg in the mid-1920s from Harrisburg and moved to the Second Street home in 1929. Mrs. Wilson related that her house was the first one on that part of the street.

"It was a country road and we were surrounded by cornfields," she recalled. Professor Wilson died some 15 years ago, and since then, Mrs. Wilson has continued to rent to students. She declares emphatically, "It keeps me young."

LEE MULLER AND MARTA HERR

First music degrees

Bloomsburg State College will award the bachelor of arts degree in music for the first time at May commencement. Recipients of the degrees will be Marta E. Herr and Lee F. Mueller.

Marta is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Herr, 38 Orchid Rd., Macungie, Pa. She graduated from Milton Area High School in 1977.

At BSC, Marta has been involved in numerous activities, including the Concert Choir, Madrigal Singers, Women's Choral Ensemble and the Community Arts Council. She performed the female lead in the musical, "Finian's Rainbow."

She has been the recipient of numerous awards: Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, the eastern division honors choir, and a music scholarship from the music department.

Lee, a graduate of Methacton High School in 1976, has been involved in many activities: Madrigal Singers, Husky Singers, Concert Choir (assistant conductor), Community Arts Council (subcommittee chairman), Church choir, intramurals and hall council. Lee attended honors choir and collegiate choir and sang the lead in the musical, "Finian's Rainbow," and the operetta, "Die Fledermaus."

He plans to do graduate work in the fall in choral conducting.

Professors retire

The college trustees recently accepted the retirements of faculty members Dr. Emily Reuwsatt, professor of special education, and Dr. Thomas Martin, associate professor of business.

Reuwsatt, on sick leave, will retire during the summer, and Martin will retire at the end of the current academic year in May.

Reuwsatt joined the faculty in August 1965 as associate professor of special education and is completing 30 years in the field of education, 15 of which were at BSC.

In 1968 she became a full professor and was named chairman of the department of mental retardation. She held the position until 1972. Reuwsatt has been a sponsor of the student chapter of the Council for Exceptional Children for several years.

The Iowa native received her bachelor and master degrees from the University of Northern Iowa and her doctor of education degree from the University of Nebraska.

Martin, associate professor of business education/office administration, has been on the staff since August 1980 and previously served at BSC from 1954 through 1962. The Missouri native is completing 38 years in the field of education, nine of which were at BSC.

A graduate of Northeast Missouri State College, he earned his master's degree at the University of Tennessee and his doctor of education degree at Indiana University. He is the author of more than 22 publications.

Festival on Alumni Day

Renaissance/Jamboree '81, the joint project of Bloomsburg State College and the Town of Bloomsburg, will dance, sing, cook, stomp, fiddle, and frisbee spring into town on Saturday, April 25. The '81 version of the festival will become the fourth in a line of celebrations that is becoming a BSC-Bloomsburg tradition.

This year's festival will feature a fusion of entertainments from past spring celebrations along with talents new to the area.

At press time final arrangements were still being negotiated, but prospects look good for a championship frisbee team to demonstrate its manual dexterity and athletic prowess aided by a canine team member. Also, new musical groups from the bluegrass tradition for which the festival has become known are to be performing. And a possible new feature—hot tub stuffing (the logical '80s sequel to the telephone booth packing of days gone by.)

From past Renaissance/Jamborees the Green Grass Cloggers will return along with the most popular featured events from past years—a fiddlin' contest, a five-mile run for charity, crafts, food, a cast of

Famous singer to speak at May commencement

Rise Stevens will be the guest speaker at commencement exercises on May 17. Miss Stevens has enjoyed one of the great careers in modern American musical history.

She was born in New York and, as a young student, studied at the Juilliard School under Anna Schoen-René. While there she was offered a contract at the Metropolitan Opera, but elected to continue her studies in Europe at the Salzburg and Mozarteum with Marie Gutheil-Schoder.

Engaged by George Szell for the Prague Opera in Czechoslovakia, she made her debut at the age of 22 in the title role of MIGNON. Her debut as Octavian in ROSENKAVALIER soon followed at the Vienna State Opera and the Teatro Colon in Buenos Aires under Erich Kleiber, as well as appearances at the Royal Opera in Cairo. Her Metropolitan Opera debut was once again MIGNON. Her success was such that she was engaged for England's Glyndebourne Festival by Fritz Busch.

In Hollywood, Rise Stevens starred in several films, "The Chocolate Soldier," "Carnegie Hall," and the Academy Award-winning "Going My Way" with Bing Crosby. Her concert, television and radio appearances, as well as her recordings for RCA Victor and Columbia, made her one of the most popular "box office" stars on the American scene.

In addition to singing the first ROSENKAVALIER ever at the San Francisco Opera, she made her debut in the same work at the Paris Opera. She gave an historic performance in the title role of ORFEO in the shadow of the Acropolis at the Herod Atticus Festival in Athens. Certainly one of the highlights in her career was her debut in Milan's La Scala, when she created the role of Herodias in Martini's LA FIFILO DEL DIAVOLO.

Miss Stevens' artistic home for 25 years, however, has been the Metropolitan Opera, where she has sung 15 starring parts in four languages. The roles which left the most indelible impression on the public were the title parts in ROSENKAVALIER, ORFEO, SAMSON ET DALILA, and most particularly, CARMEN. Her complete recording of CARMEN for RCA Victor remains the biggest seller in that company's operatic catalogue.

Having declined many invitations to go to Broadway, Rise Stevens finally agreed and opened the Music Theatre of Lincoln Center in a new mounting of "The King and I," produced by its composer, Richard ministration and faculty, bringing to the staff such luminaries as Vladimir Horowitz, Judith Raskin, Young Uck Kim and the brilliant young conductor, Semyon Bychkov, earning a Mayor's Citation for her contributions to the cultural life of New York.

After serving a three-year term on the Music Panel of the National Endowment for the Arts in Washington, D.C., Miss Stevens is now chairman of the Music Panel of the New York State Council on the Arts. She is an advisory director of the Metropolitan Opera Board, as well as a member of the board of the Metropolitan Opera Guild, the Richard Tucker Foundation and the Bagby Music Foundation.

She is an honorary member of the Wagnerian Society of Buenos Aires and the national music fraternity, Sigma Alpha Iota, as well as the recipient of honorary degrees from Smith College, the College of the Senecas, Russell Sage College and Rider College.

Rodgers.

Because she has always been a champion of the American singer, Miss Stevens accepted Sir Rudolf Bing's invitation to become general manager of the Metropolitan Opera's National Company. Many of that company's singers went on to careers in the major opera houses of the world, a fact of which she is most proud.

In 1975, she accepted the post of president of the Mannes College of Music, and in two years she wiped out a staggering deficit, opening up new avenues of revenue to the school. She reorganized the ad-museums, artisiania museums (arts and crafts), the monastery of Monserrate, various churches and statues as well as the government buildings.

Country club

I also went to Santa Marta on the Caribbean coast of Colombia for another week. I stayed in a decent hotel and played on the beach during the whole time. The rest of the summer I spent around Cali, going to the country club that I joined, reading and riding city buses (one can really become acquainted with a city through its public transport system). The club provides swimming pools, tennis courts, racquetball courts, and soccer courts as well as a food service. I also taught in summer school program aimed at aiding returning and new students prepare for the fall with extensive English lessons and programming. I also spent a number of hours recording Beta-Max video cassettes for use in our school library AV room.

Apart from the good of the country, there is also the bad. Latin American countries seem to be ruled by paper governments. One needs more ID papers here than anywhere I have ever heard of.

Jail for no I.D.

In early February last year, I was walking home from a restaurant with a female friend when the police (military) were having an ID spot check. A resident is always supposed to carry a cedula, which is the national ID card. I was not carrying my cedula or passport as I always fear being pickpocketed. Since the government is in the state of siege, and has been for about two years, the military police can enforce their own rules. I was searched (as are all men when stopped by the police) and requested to show my ID. Since I had none, they led me into a paddy wagon and carted 98 other men and myself to the police hold.

During the route, I was asked several times if I wanted to bribe my way out. Some of the men were released after paying the head guard 200 pesos ($5.00). I was asked for 500. I refused to pay, and was even told that if I wouldn't bribe the guard,

I would have to pay a fine of 500 pesos anyway. As I knew this to be untrue, I reckoned that I could be released as soon as my female friend showed up with my passport. (Women are considered insignificant here and are rarely checked for ID. Thus my friend was allowed to leave.) She returned to the station, but they refused to release me until the commandant arrived. The commandant finally came the next morning and after 12 hours in the jail, I was released. I felt the whole episode to be extremely unfair, but what can one do?

Another weekend (the very next, in fact) while I was out enjoying the day, my tape player was stolen from the house of some friends who were vacationing. Seven hundred dollars of jewelry was also taken. We figured the thief climbed down a drainpipe into the interior patio of the second floor apartment and then broke the door leading into the house. He filled two suitcases with everything electrical that he could, then he filled it with jewelry. Another lesson learned... it doesn't matter what you do, you'll get robbed sometime while you're here.

The third weekend, I took 16 students on a field trip to a nearby sedimentary rock deposit. As we sat down to eat lunch, a lone robber with a gun stole a wristwatch, two geology hammers, 200 pesos and a lunch. Luckily I had warned the kids about bringing money and jewelry, and as they were from wealthy families, they were easily marked as valuable victims. None brought a lot of money or jewelry, but nevertheless it was a scary and unnerving experience.

This year I am teaching seventh and eighth grade earth science. Class size is about 15 students. Normal class load is six periods per day, five days a week. A school day is seven periods with an after-school extra period.

I have pretty well filled you in on the past year here. If you want other information concerning any area of this minor novel, let me know and I will gladly fill you in.

puter center, is shown signing the contract with Thomas Brady III, Univac branch manager. Looking on are Univac representatives Harry Conaway, senior buyer, and John J. Leshinski, attorney.

Software system sold

The software computerized system developed at BSC, recognized as one of the most sophisticated and integrated computerized student data bases available on UNIVAC computers, has been purchased by Sperry UNIVAC for resale to Ithaca College.

The BSC system has been developed to handle student registration, scheduling, financial aid, grade reporting, admissions, advisement, housing and cost accounting in an integrated manner. "We've developed this system and its procedures over the years through a great deal of hard work by a number of people," states Doyle Dodson, BSC Computer Center Director.

UNIVAC's purchase of the BSC system is for resale to Ithaca College as part of the sale of a new UNIVAC computer to that college. As stated by Ithaca College officials to BSC, "The deciding factor turned out to be the availability of an excellent Student Data System on the UNIVAC 1100, developed at Bloomsburg State College."

The BSC system has been tested and benchmarked by UNIVAC at the Research and Development Center in Egan, Minnesota.

"This one sale of the BSC system has allowed the college to recapture a significant portion of the cost the college incurred in developing it," commented Dodson. "There is also the possibility of additional sales to other colleges and universities, meaning additional revenue."

Within the last year, delegations from Edinboro, Kutztown, West Chester, Franklin and Marshall, Williamsport Area Community College, Williams College and the Pennsylvania State College Systems Council came to BSC to see demonstrations of the Student Data Base system. Interest has also been expressed by Bridgeport University in Connecticut, Bentley College in Boston, East Carolina University and Maricopa Community College in Phoenix.

Computer session at BSC

The State College and University Systems Council held its bi-monthly meeting on the BSC campus on Feb. 18.

Following welcoming remarks by Dr. Frank S. Davis, assistant vice president for administration at the college, Doyle G. Dodson, BSC computer services manager, spoke on "Overview—An Integrated Approach to Information Management." He explained the BSC hardware configuration of the Univac 1100 computer recently installed in the Ben Franklin Building. Dodson also covered implementation and current and future activities of the system.

Robert H. Rankin, BSC data base manager, explained implementing application software at the college including the areas of admissions, registration, scheduling, advisement, student accounting, housing, financial aid, student reporting, complement control, and budget/encumberance.

Other presentations were given by Gloria J. Glitz, the college's transaction interface package coordinator, and Charles Erdley, the query language coordinator. The group enjoyed a tour of the computer center conducted by C. Donald Housenick, production manager. They also visited offices in Ben Franklin and Waller Administration Buildings to observe terminal operation.

The activities concluded with a "Salary Projection Model" presentation, which covered calculating anticipated salary and fringe benefit costs for all salaried faculty, staff, and other state employees, and a look at "The Univac 1100 Family in Education—New Developments" by the Univac staff.

Science Day

Approximately 100 students from ten regional high schools attended the 10th Annual Science Day at BSC on March 14.

A slide presentation featuring some of the latest NASA astronomy slides was shown. Students and teachers participated in several demonstrations and experiments in geography, earth science, chemistry and physics.

The department of geography and earth science offered a demonstration entitled "Geological Diversity" and "Meteorology Today."

The department of physics offered "Split Seconds," and "Milking the Radioactive Cow."

The chemistry department offered a workshop entitled "Flavors to Plastics: The Surprising World of Organic Chemistry," and demonstrations entitled "Sizing up Vitamins and Proteins" and "Gas Chromatography: A Perfumed Detective Story."

BSC offers Elderhostel

Three unique and enriching programs will be offered on campus by Elderhostel from May 31 to June 5 and from August 2 to August 8.

Elderhostel is a network of over 400 colleges, universities and independent schools in all 50 states, Great Britain, Canada, Denmark, Sweden, Finland and Norway, which offers special low-cost, short-term residential academic programs for older citizens.

Elderhostel combines the best traditions of education and hosteling. Inspired by the youth hostels and folk schools in Europe, but guided by the needs of older citizens for intellectual stimulation and physical adventure, Elderhostel is for older citizens on the move—not just in terms of travel—but in the sense of reaching out to new experiences. It is based on the belief that retirement does not mean withdrawal.

One of the three programs offered at BSC will be "Israeli-Palestinian Conflicts: United States Foreign Policy." This program examines the forces that gave rise to Zionism, Arab reaction to it, the impact of Hitler's genocide policy and the attitude concerning the establishment of Israel in 1948. There will also be an assessment of American foreign policy and the prospects of resolving the Palestinian issue.

The second program is "Visual Arts of the Western Culture." This slide-oriented course will focus on the Ancient World, Greco-Roman Culture, the Renaissance, Impressionism and Post-Impressionism and the Modern Arts.

The third program, "Shakespeare: Rhyme and Reason," studies a selection of Shakespeare's sonnets and his romantic comedy, "As You Like It," in terms of Shakespeare's views of love, aging and eternal beauty.

The programs are open to participants over 60 or to those whose spouse or companion qualifies. Most programs begin on Sunday evening and end Saturday morning and are limited to 30 to 40 people.

The Elderhostel experience provides an informal and human atmosphere where the individual is important, making new friends is easy, and learning can be a truly liberating experience.

The cost for a week's stay and the programs is $140. The cost for commuters who wish to participate in the program is $40.

Applicants for on-campus living at Bloomsburg State College can register by calling (617) 426-8056 when telephones will be staffed between 2 p.m. and 9 p.m., Monday through Thursday. Commuters can obtain applications from the Office of Extended Programs, Waller Administration Building, Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Alumni band 'huge success'

The first alumni band's participation in Homecoming 1980 has been termed a "huge success" by those who took part during the football game at Redman Stadium. A similar activity is planned for this year's Homecoming celebration on October 10.

In the meantime, an alumni band picnic is planned for July 18 at the Bloomsburg Town Park, beginning at noon.

CHESTER HAUSKNECHT

Retired business manager dies

Chester M. Hausknecht, retired educator and business manager of BSC, 295 W. Eleventh St., Bloomsburg, died at home on Feb. 24, 1981. He was 94.

Born in Moreland Township, he was the son of the late Hiram and Mary Jane Reese Hausknecht. He graduated from Lycoming Normal School, Rochester Business Institute, and received his bachelor's degree from Occaloosa P.E.D.

Mr. Hausknecht was a former principal of Lock Haven High School, and had been business manager of Kutztown State College. He served for 25 years as business manager of BSC.

He was the oldest living member of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Bloomsburg, and was a member of the Vestry. He was past junior warden of St. Paul's, and served as lay reader, usher and lay delegate to the Susquehanna Convention and Convocation. He was a church representative to Community Ministries.

A former director of the Bloomsburg Chamber of Commerce, he was the oldest living member and a past president of Bloomsburg Rotary Club, which he joined in 1938. He was the oldest member and had been a treasurer for 10 years of the Torch Club, and was a past treasurer of the Columbia County Historical Society.

Mr. Hausknecht also served as past president of The Columbia County Child Welfare Board. He was a member of Blue Lodge 106 F&AM, a 60-year member of Williamsport Consistory, Acacia Club, National Retired Teachers Association, a member of Bloomsburg Hospital Corp., and a past president and honorary board member of the Red Cross.

Surviving are his wife, the former Lucy Bert, to whom he was wed 27 years; a daughter, Mrs. Earl D. (Rose Mary) Brown, Swedesboro, N.J.; a step-son, Dr. James Bert McCandles, Mayaguez, Puerto Rico; six grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Rock-a-thon

A 30-hour Rock-a-thon (rocking in a rocking chair) to benefit the mentally retarded children of Special Olympics and St. Jude's Hospital was held in Kehr Union on the BSC campus from 6 p.m. on March 20 until midnight March 21.

The event, under the theme of "Visit BSC in 50 Years," was sponsored by social sorority Alpha Sigma Alpha, social fraternity Tau Kappa Epsilon, and the Kehr Union Program Board.

Mystery alum

When Walter F. Dormack died in January 1980, he left behind several bank accounts on which he had listed Bloomsburg State College as a beneficiary. When the estate was settled, the total of the accounts was over $14,000.

Yet Walter Dormack remains somewhat a mystery alumnus.

Dormack, a member of the Class of 1920, came to Bloomsburg from the Mt. Carmel area. He died in Brooklyn, N.Y. Nothing is known of his life in the 60 years that intervened.

Attempts to contact members of his family were unsuccessful.

An advertisement placed in the Mt. Carmel-Shamokin area newspaper drew no response.

Dormack's photograph is not even included in the 1920 edition of the Obiter.

If classmates or anyone else knows anything about Walter Dormack, the mysterious benefactor, please contact the Alumni Office so this information can be shared in the next issue of THE ALUMNI QUARTERLY.

In the meantime, the bequest will be used to fund alumni-related projects in his name.

Three honored

Distinguished Service Awards were presented to three alumni during the Alumni Day Luncheon on April 25. Recipients for 1981 were Paul C. Foote, Class of 1927, New Haven, Conn.; Elizabeth H. Hubler, Class of 1931, Gordon, Pa.; and Millard C. Ludwig, Class of 1948, Millville.

Professor's son

Paul Foote grew up in a Bloomsburg "faculty family," for his father, Professor Jacob C. Foote, was a member of the English faculty from about 1905 to 1922. Professor Foote's other children, Dorothy Foote Pihlblad

'30, Grace Foote Conner '34, and Richard H. Foote '41 are also Bloomsburg alumni.

After leaving Bloomsburg, Paul took courses at the University of Chicago and was tutored in optics from 1930 to 1935 by A.W. Warmisham, optical director of Taylor, Taylor & Hobson, Ltd., of Leicester, England, during the latter's stay in Chicago. There were no graduate schools offering degrees in optics at that time.

As chief optical engineer at Bell and Howell Co. for over 20 years, Paul supervised the design and development program for all optical requirements on Bell and Howell equipment. His broad experience included work with all types of optical systems with particular emphasis on photographic and projection optics.

Of special interest were such projects as development and utilization of tolerance analysis in lens design, high quality zoom lenses, studio and television lenses, high aperture lenses, militarized and special lenses for high and low temperature operation, high efficiency projection systems, evaluation of competitive equipment, collimators, autocollimators and optical aides for laboratory and production control.

After leaving Bell and Howell, he was senior optical engineer at Perkin-Elmer Corp. from 1956 to 1957; senior research engineer in optics at Fairchild Camera and Instrument Corp., 1957-1960; senior optical scientist at Singer, 1960-1961; consultant in optics for Edward J. Miller Associates, Inc., 1961-1963; optical designer engineer at Farrand Optical Co., Inc., 1963-1966; and consultant in optics, 1966-1967.

During his career in optics, he: —promoted and developed "projection inspection" of lenses, a technique that gave significant performance information im-

Alumna gives $1,000 in will

Mary D. Comerford, a member of the Class of 1913 who died on April 25, 1981, left a bequest of $1,000 to the BSC Alumni Association. The bequest is to be paid in 20 monthly installments of $50.

Miss Comerford was a teacher in Philadelphia for 50 years, retiring as head of the business department at West Philadelphia High School.

A native of Mahanoy City, she was a daughter of the late James P. and Winifred Loftus Comerford. She received a bachelor of education degree at Bloomsburg and earned a master's degree in business at the University of Pennsylvania.

Miss Comerford returned to Mahanoy City in 1970 and was a guest at the Broad Mountain Manor Nursing Home in Frackville for several years.

She was a member of St. Canicus Church, the parish guild, Catholic Daughters of America (Court Kateri) and the Philadelphia and National Retired Teachers Associations.

Surviving are a niece and two nephews.

Reimard gift buys piano

A gift of $1,730 was recently presented to the Alumni Association by Miss Grace M. Reimard of Bloomsburg in memory of her sister, Miss Catherine A. Reimard, Class of 1919. Miss Reimard specified that the gift be used by the department of music to purchase a much-needed piano.

The piano will be placed in one of the sound-proof practice rooms which were placed in two residence halls last year for the benefit of music majors and other students interested in music. The practice modules give students an opportunity to practice without distractions and without disturbing other students in the lounge area of the residence hall.

A native of Bloomsburg, Catherine A. Reimard graduated from the local high school in 1917 and from what was then Bloomsburg State Normal School in 1919.

Her teaching career began in the elementary schools of Bound Brook and Dunellen, New Jersey. She then returned to Pennsylvania to teach in the elementary and junior high schools at Sunbury and at the high school in Danville.

She began her teaching career in higher education at Juniata College and then accepted a position on the faculty of East Stroudsburg State (Teacher's) College, from which she retired in June 1964 as an associate professor.

Miss Reimard received her bachelor of science degree at what is now Pennsylvania State University. She earned her master of arts degree at Bucknell University and completed additional graduate work at New York University and at Teachers College of Columbia University.

Miss Reimard enjoyed traveling, and visited Europe three times. She participated in an International Soroptimists convention in London and a Rotary International convention in Nice, France. Miss Reimard and her sister also took a number of trips together in this country.

CLASS GIFT. During its class meeting on Alumni Day, the Class of 1931 contributed $300 to the Alumni Association to be used for a scholarship. This class gift is in addition to many individual contributions from class members.

The 50-year celebration began Friday evening, April 24, for the early arrivals. They enjoyed an informal reception in the Presidents' Lounge in Kehr Union.

After participating in the annual luncheon on Saturday, the class held a brief meeting and then went on a bus tour of the campus and the town.

Class members were guests of the Association at the 50-year dinner on Saturday evening in Scranton Commons. Speakers included Frank Golder, class representative, and Orval Palsgrove, active member of the class. Lewis Creveling led group singing with Howard Fenstermaker, Class of 1912, playing the piano.

Representing the college were President McCormick and Vice President Boyd Buckingham.

Helen Altheria (Banta) Weaver '31 resides at 3023 Colony Lane, Springfield, Ohio 45503.

For people who care

The following article about Dr. John F. Magill Jr. '48 was written by Laurie Creasy of the Press-Enterprise staff.

Some kindergartners going to school with radiant faces in September will end up as convicts. Former Bloomsburg superintendent John F. Magill Jr. knows: he's seen it happen.

He's concerned, and feels the transformation can be prevented with better schools.

That concern led him to write and publish a book on saving American education—which he believes can be done with care, love, and much smaller schools.

One person who cared might have made a difference, Magill thinks. "Either we were too busy or too impersonal," he notes. "They were labeled quickly as trouble makers and no one would take the time to determine why."

He uses the word "casualty" for children who didn't make the public school grade.

"I watched the little 5-year-olds coming in, and they were so excited—their faces say 'I'm going to school!'—and yet, by the time they complete third grade, 25 to 40 percent have been turned off," Magill says of the kindergartners' first day.

Patterns emerge, but not many teachers, counselors, or administrators catch them: a twice-flunked child with a low reading level, problems at home, and problems at school may be the child who winds up in reform school or prison.

Caring teachers would spot the pattern, says Magill, and may be able to stop the child's downward slide.

That's the type of school and teacher he wants to encourage with his book, "About Public Education in America: A Cause for Panic, A Recipe for Its Revival."

Teaching and administrative experiences in public and private schools for 35 years gave him a wide background for the work.

They also gave him a close view of educational illness symptoms—high taxes, strikes, discipline problems, and a mass exodus of students from public to private schools.

"The student is a pawn in an adversary role that has crept into school," Magill states.

Parents fear schools, Magill believes, and don't know where to go for information on the best program.

He felt some kind of "easy road map" was necessary, especially after his own daughter came to him asking what she should look for in a school.

"If she didn't have a way of going in and assessing the openness, the receptivity of a school—if she couldn't sense that, what about the vast majority of parents?" Magill asks.

To help parents, he includes lists on every aspect of school—teachers, administrators, curricula; and health services—that parents should check for.

The book also stresses possible changes in school life to help the student.

DR. JOHN F. MAGILL JR. '48

To bring about the changes, Magill advocates:

"—a caring and competent staff. "The principal has to be more than a keeper of the schools, he has to develop the climate for learning," Magill says.

—a small school. "If possible, a school where a single principal knows all the kids to the point of gauging their involvement in learning." The ideal school would contain about 500 students.

—a school where children are involved in activities and feel someone cares. Magill contends about 78 percent of children in schools nationwide feel they aren't involved with the school, that their ties end with the final bell.

—a school open to parents, even when the parent is angry. Parents should feel indispensable in education, "that the school is not the sole dispenser of knowledge," Magill states. The community must be brought into the school and the school taken into the community.

—cooperation between school, parents, and community to establish a set of rules "in which the primary emphasis is respect," he believes, "in which the youngster from the moment he enters kindergarten is both intentionally and incidentally taught that the respect for another person's body and property is an absolute necessity."

Teachers, counselors, and administrators must assess youngsters without labeling them, and provide experiences children may lack, he believes.

Educators must forget about salaries and benefits, he states, and concentrate on what schools are for—children.

Once he thought higher salaries would automatically increase teacher interest and productivity.

Now he realizes "back in the poor old days, people were in education because they were dedicated to the proposition that was their life's work." They accepted lower salaries because they were interested in children, he believes.

Magill thinks taxpayers and parents, as well as educators, will be interested in the book. He began marketing the book in lower Luzerne county, and has stocked copies with Arline Johnson at Friends-in-Mind in Bloomsburg.

It won't be a one-shot affair. Interested buyers can get a newsletter with information on testimony about special education, teacher training laws, and other educational concerns.

Magill plans another book, but on a totally different subject.

He and his daughter, Susan, a 1971 Bloomsburg State College graduate, plan a Revolutionary War love story revolving around Daniel Morgan, an unknown figure in America's fight for freedom, and Benedict Arnold—a patriot Magill sees destroyed by a web of political intrigue and provincial jealousies.

They have a "pipe dream" of building a trilogy around the same theme in different American periods, he says, and have kept a license as researchers in the Library of Congress for four years to that end.

Magill's wife, Anna, said the family has collected information on the novel from Winchester, Va., Connecticut, and England.

"It's been winding in his head for 30 years," she says. "It's not something that just snapped out overnight."

Joyce Steinman, in reviewing Dr. Magill's book, says it "reads like a manual on 'Everything You've Wanted to Know About Public Education but Were Afraid to Ask.'"

For a copy of the comprehensive handbook for parents and educators on "how to save our schools," send a check for $6.99 (including 36 cents sales tax if Pa. resident and 63 cents postage) payable to Magill Publications and Services, R.D. 3, Bloomsburg, Pa. 17815.

If you mention that you read this article in The Alumni Quarterly, Dr. Magill will contribute $1 of the purchase price to the BSC Alumni Association.

Student loan policies revised

Several changes in student loan policies and procedures were approved by the Alumni Association board of directors at its April meeting. The changes, recommended by committee, anticipate a greater demand on the alumni loan fund as a result of less money being available through federal programs.

The board earmarked up to $25,000 per year for emergency short-term loans to be administered and guaranteed by the Community Activities office of the Community Government Association.

In addition, $30,000 will be available each year for long-term loans, generally repayable after graduation. Putting a ceiling on this amount will prevent the loan fund from being exhausted in one year. It will allow time for loan payments to replenish the fund as the years go by.

A student may borrow up to $250 per semester in four different semesters, a total of $1,000. Minimum monthly payments of $30 begin on the 15th day of the second month after graduation.

For the first time, interest (seven percent) will be charged on the remaining balance after the date of the first monthly payment. The board believes this will provide the borrower with incentive to repay the loan as quickly as possible, while at the same time helping the fund to grow.

A collection agency is being used to collect delinquent accounts, and the two endorsers of promissory notes are being notified when accounts become delinquent.

JOUNIOR EDDINGER '50

Walter G. Scheipe '51 has been appointed to the Pennsylvania Board of Probation and Parole. He assumed his duties on January 5.

The board is an independent state correctional agency, authorized to grant parole and supervise all adult offenders sentenced by the courts to a maximum sentence of two years or more; to revoke the parole of technical parole violators and those who are convicted of new crimes; and to release from parole those persons under supervision who have fulfilled their sentences in compliance with the conditions governing their parole.

On a regular basis, board members conduct face-to-face interviews with eligible inmates at each of the state correctional institutions and the county prisons in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

In fulfilling its responsibilities, the board makes approximately 13,000 to 14,000 board actions or case decisions each year. The board also supervises special probation and parole cases at the direction of the courts. At any one time, the board has under supervision between 14,000 and 15,000 persons.

From 1969 to 1981, Scheipe served as warden of the Berks County Prison, one of the Commonwealth's larger county prisons with a daily average population of 195 inmates. It is one of the top ranking institutions employing officers with college degrees or equivalent training.

During his tenure, a number of programs were initiated: inmate work release program, educational release program, furlough program; an institutional Jaycee chapter, an extended public relations program (staff/inmate speakers in the community) and guest lecturers in various college level law enforcement and corrections programs.

In addition, Berks County Prison became the first county prison to establish a working liaison and treatment base at the prison between the county Mental Health/Mental Retardation professionals and troubled inmates. This was a direct result of recent changes in Mental Health laws. It also became the first county prison to utilize a counseling program incorporating outside community agencies and staff, thereby allowing inmates to continue with their rehabilitative program after release and saving the county the salaries involved in employing counselors as part of the prison staff.

From 1961 to 1969, Scheipe served as chief probation and parole officer for Berks County. This position included supervision of the County Domestic Relations Division. He instituted a special program for reducing the backlog on the County dockets in this area. He implemented a procedure for the informal adjustment of domestic and non-support cases without necessitating court appearances in each instance.

Scheipe was also instrumental in establishing a council of chief county probation offices, encompassing 10 counties whose purpose was to improve intercounty cooperation and to solve mutual problems.

His prior experience included service as a parole officer for the state board from 1958 to 1961, a school administrator and instructor in the Iron Mines Company of Venezuela in San Felix from 1952

ALUMNA HONORED—Betty L. Fisher, Class of 1948, is shown accepting plaque acknowledging the presentation of a $250 scholarship in her name by the H & C Sales and Manufacturing Company of Bloomsburg. For the second year, the firm presented the scholarship to a BSC student in the name of an alumna or alumnus who has contributed to the business life of the community. Last year, the firm presented the scholarship in the name of one of its own employees. This year the entire business community was invited to nominate individuals. Betty Fisher was selected from a list of nine nominees. She was nominated by her employer, Duy Hutchison of the Hutchison Insurance Agency. The plaque was presented by Odean Campbell '79, left on behalf of John A. Gummo, president of the firm. Campbell is assistant comptroller at H & C Sales.

to 1957, and a part-time correctional officer in the Schuylkill County Prison from 1945 to 1952.

Scheipe has completed a number of seminars and professional development programs and has been active in a number of professional organizations, including the Pennsylvania Prison Warden's Association (third vice president), the American Association of Wardens and

Retired alumnus a natural for Amish school

The following article about Irwin R. Klinger '49 was written by Dick Sarge of the Harrisburg Evening News.

When the Amish community, which has resettled in northern Dauphin County, needed a schoolmaster to teach their children, Irwin R. Klinger was a natural choice.

Klinger, 60, speaks the Pennsylvania German dialect fluently, is a veteran educator in the elementary schools of this preponderantly Pennsylvania Dutch region and had just retired as elementary principal of the Upper Dauphin Area School District.

Having retired from the public schools to escape the growing pressure, Klinger said he at first rebuffed the efforts of the Amish leaders to recruit him. Finally relenting "just to help them get started," he's just completed his third term and finds his new career most rewarding.

This is not too surprising, since Klinger began his own academic career in a one-room schoolhouse at Erdman and has roots in Germany just as deep as the Amish themselves.

Now, while discipline is seldom a problem, Klinger finds that a sharp "Was geht ab datt hinne?" has a more immediate effect than if he said in English, "What's going on back there?"

That's because, he said, discipline is strong in the Amish home and the working language at home is the Pennsylvania German dialect, so Johnny reacts more promptly and positively to the schoolmaster when the admonition is given in the vernacular.

Starting in the fall of 1978 with 12 children in one small building, the Amish parochial school system here now reaches 41 pupils at two locations, and there are plans to open a third facility as the migration from Lancaster County continues.

Amish children need complete only eight grades, although those not yet 15 years of age at that time must continue with vocational training by working on the family farm and keeping journals of the things they do for grading.

While in earlier times the children didn't start the term until the harvesting was done and finished in time to help with the spring plowing and planting, now their terms nearly coincide with those of public schools. Mandated to have 180 days of school each term, the Amish term finishes about two weeks early in the spring because their Christmas and Easter vacations are shorter.

The courses are taught in English and most Amish children, Klinger said, have a good foundation in the language as well as retaining the old tongue. On occasion, however, Klinger said he will use the dialect for greater understanding. One little girl was deficient in English in the first grade and Klinger depended on the dialect to get the child off to a solid start by teaching the subject matter first in Pennsylvania German, then in English.

Born in Erdman in the far northeastern corner of Dauphin County, Klinger said he was the first of his immediate family to finish high school. The custom into the 1930s for boys, in particular, was to quit after the eighth grade and go to work, many of them as coal miners.

In the first place, Klinger said, the children of Erdman had to walk 3½ miles to Gratz to attend a two-year high school there, then finish at the former Hubley Twp. High School at Spring Glen, about six miles farther east.

Klinger never worked in the mines. But he recalls as a child going with his father, Gurney Klinger, through the long tunnel that pierced Bear Mountain on the way to pick up his pay at Williamstown Colliery. Each workday, his father walked about 12 miles to and from his work as a contract miner.

His father died in 1936 of miners' asthma, Klinger said, and his mother, the former Sallie Rabuck, was left to raise the family. A brother, two brothers-in-law and "several" uncles succumbed to the same insidious ailment—now called black lung.

With this kind of family experience, Irwin Klinger took a job as a Goodyear rubber sole stitcher in Muskin's Shoe Factory, Millersburg, when he graduated from high school in 1938. As a youth, he had wanted to be either a school teacher or a Lutheran minister, but he couldn't afford to go to college.

The GI Bill came along to lift him to a satisfying career. He served in World War II with the Ninth Infantry Division in North Africa, Sicily, England, France and Germany, notching nine campaigns. Much of his battlefield experience involved interviewing German prisoners because of his fluency with the language.

Discharged in 1945, the next year Klinger finally was able to attend college, gaining a degree in education at Bloomsburg State College in 1949. After teaching at Royalton, he went to the Lenkererville district as teaching principal in 1953, remaining as elementary principal when Lenkererville and Upper Paxton Twp. merged with the Millersburg district in 1956. He moved to the Upper Dauphin Area district in 1962 as elementary principal, remaining until 1978, when he retired.

During the Bicentennial observance, Klinger helped preserve the Pennsylvania German dialect in the region by conducting courses in the language in several localities and still presents adult education course on the subject for area school districts.

It was his knowledge of the language that attracted the attention of Amishman Johnny Stoltzfus when both were attending a sale of household goods on a farm north of Rife and conversing in Pennsylvania Dutch.

After learning of Klinger's educational background and his recent retirement, Smoker said tersely, "I believe you're the kind of person we're looking for here in the valley."

Working with Amish youth, Klinger finds that most of them apparently desire to cling to the old traditions of farm work, shunning the faster-paced world with its pressures and distractions.

"When I retired from the public schools, the last thing I wanted to do was teach," Klinger said.

Now, it's pretty clear, he's never derived more satisfaction from his work in the classroom—and the bounty from farm pantries that finds its way to his kitchen is only one of the joys.

mediately and, over the full field of coverage, showed whether the lens was acceptable; —converted (in lens design) the old logarithmic method of ray tracing to the electrical calculating machines. This subsequently went into the electronic computers as they were developed.

—devised tolerance analysis in lens design to determine optimum lens performance and to set limits on tolerances for production. This has become the standard technique for "automatic design" of lenses in computers.

—introduced "Reflector Sight" designs for World War II gunsights, which used a minimum amount of glass in the system without loss of quality, providing greater production capacity in severely limited manufacturing field.

—did the optical calculations for A. W. Warmisham's design of the first zoom lens for use in Hollywood productions. He set, tested and supplied the first zoom lenses to be used in professional motion picture production in the 1930s, even before Hollywood was ready to change techniques and accept them.

—developed the autocollimator and the techniques necessary to check the position of film running in motion picture cameras and to focus the lenses on the film.

—proposed use of double zoom lenses in the Apollo flight trainer to get image size changes over a greater range to simulate space travel.

—handled technical liaison between NASA, Westinghouse and Angenieux for lenses used on Apollo flights to the moon and for improved lenses for Skylab.

—selected and/or provided lenses for many expeditions and special applications, including those of Martin and Osa Johnson, Byrd's expedition to the Antarctic region, Marlin Perkins' trips for the "Wild Kingdom" television programs, and Sir Edmund Hillary's expedition on Mt. Everest.

Paul has had several articles published, and he holds patents for a picture projection apparatus and adjustable condenser lenses for projection systems. He is a member of several professional organizations, including the Optical Society of America, the Society of Motion Picture and Television Engineers and the American Physical Society.

Veteran member of board

Elizabeth Hubler has faithfully served her Alma Mater as a member of the Alumni Association's board of directors since 1948. During those 33 years she has served on various committees which have planned and implemented important projects for the Association.

Miss Hubler began her career in education as a teacher at New Milford, Pa., and after two years returned to teach in her native community of Gordon. She was a classroom teacher for 15 years before she was appointed principal of the Gordon School in 1948. From 1958 until her retirement in 1975, Miss Hubler served as director of elementary education in the North Schuylkill School District.

In addition to her undergraduate work at BSC, Miss Hubler completed courses in evaluation and administration at Penn State University and at Shippensburg State College.

Always active

As an undergraduate from Millville, Millard Ludwig participated in numerous activities, including athletics, publications and other campus organizations. His interest in his Alma Mater continued after graduation, and he joined the Alumni Association board of directors in May 1962. From May 5, 1973, to April 25, 1981, he served as president of the Alumni Association.

Millard earned his master of science degree at Bucknell University in 1954 and completed additional graduate work at Rutgers University (1955 and 1963), University of Rhode Island (1962), and the University of Maine (1967).

Millard is a teacher, athletic director and federal programs coordinator in the Millville Area School District. He has served on Millville Borough Council since 1967 and has been active in the Millville United Methodist Church and many other community organizations.

He is married to the former Sandra Jean Laver, a graduate of Houghton (N.Y.) College. They are the parents of three children: Mark, 13; Michelle, 12; and Maria, five.

The three Distinguished Service Awards were presented by Dr. C. Stuart Edwards '41, a former recipient of the award. Serving on the committee which reviewed nominations and made recommendations to the alumni board were Betty Fisher '48, chairperson; Editha Ent Adams '24, Clayton H. Hinkel '40, Frank Furgle '52, Curtis English '56, and Elizabeth Hubler '31 (who did not participate in the selection process).

ELECTED TO BOARD—

Elected to three-year terms on the BSC Alumni Association Board of Directors at the annual meeting in April were (from left) Carolyn Carr '74, Doug McClintock '73, Lois Lawson '33, Alfred Cyganowski '53, Eva Mekeel

Mack '76, and Stephen Andrejack '74. Not present for photo was Joan Havard Kilroy '54.

New faces on alumni board

A number of new faces are serving on the board of directors of the Alumni Association as a result of the election held at the general membership meeting on Alumni Day (April 25).

Elected to three-year terms were Lois Lawson '33, Bloomsburg; Alfred J. Cyganowski '53, Randallstown, Md.; Joan Havard Kilroy '54, Morrisville; Douglas F. McClintock '73, Berwick; Carolyn L. Carr '74, Alexandria, Va.; Stephen A. Andrejack '74, Mechanicsburg; and Eva Mekeel Mack '76, Bethlehem.

Retiring board members were Clayton H. Hinkle '40, Bloomsburg; Lois C. Bryner '44, Danville; John W. Thomas '47, Hamburg; Betty L. Fisher '48, Bloomsburg; Millard C. Ludwig '48, Millville; and Glenn E. Halterman '68, Bloomsburg. Together, they served a total of 67 years. Ludwig will serve as an ex officio member of the board for one year because he is the retiring president.

A new provision in the Association's constitution and by-laws, approved several years ago, took effect this year. It limits a director's tenure to two successive three-year terms, after which a person must leave the board for at least one year. Individuals are eligible for re-election to the board after one year.

In selecting nominees, the nominating committee considered many factors: (1) BSC graduates are spread throughout the state and nation, with concentrations in certain areas; (2) more than half of BSC alumni are women; (3) more than half of the alumni have graduated since 1970. Interest in their Alma Mater and a willingness to serve were other important criteria.

Alumni who are interested in serving on the board of directors or on the various important committees should contact Dr. C. Stuart Edwards, president of the Association, or Doug Hippenstiel director of alumni affairs.

New directors

Lois Lawson received her bachelor's degree in 1933 with a major in English and French. She completed additional studies at the University of Pittsburgh School of Social Work and at the University of Pennsylvania School of Social Work.

In January Miss Lawson retired from her post as supervisor of the Columbia County Board of Assistance. She served with that agency for nearly 47 years.

Al Cyganowski '53 is a technology engineer for Bethlehem Steel Co. at Sparrows Point, Md. He is a member of the Chesapeake Gem and Mineral Society.

He and his wife, the former Mary Ruth Steiner, are parents of two daughters, Patricia and Jean. Patricia graduated from BSC in 1979.

Joan Havard Kilroy '54 is a substitute elementary teacher in the Pennsboro Schools in Fallsington. She and her husband, Thomas G. Kilroy, are parents of three children: Lois, 25; Tom, 23; and Joy, nine.

Doug McClintock '73 is deputy director of the Columbia County Redevelopment Authority in Bloomsburg. He has been with the authority since 1973. Doug grew up in Doylestown, where his father, Donald (Class of '53), is an elementary school principal.

Last fall Doug contributed over 40 hours of his time to help with the 12-night alumni phonathon.

Steve Andrejack '74 was re-elected to a three-year term after serving an unexpired term for one year. He is a teacher in the East Pennsboro School District. Steve is married to the former Stephanie L. Buela, and they are expecting their first child this fall.

Carolyn L. Carr received her law degree at the University of Virginia in 1977. She recently accepted a position as an accountant/lawyer with Coopers and Lybrand in Washington, D.C. Carolyn is originally from Forty Fort.

Eva Mekeel Mack '76 is a teacher of the physically handicapped in the Allentown School District. She expects to complete her master's degree in special education at Lehigh University this summer. She and her husband, Bob, also a member of the Class of 1976, are expecting their first child in October.

Past presidents return to campus

Five former presidents of the Community Government Association, the current president and the president-elect met on April 11 to hear updated reports on the college and to exchange ideas with college administration and with each other.

Returning to campus were Stephen Andrejack (1973-1974), Charles Bender (1974-1975), Stan Toczek (1975-1976), Tom Mulhern (1976-1977), and Willard Bradley (1979-1980). Jeff Ringhofer (1980-1981) and Karen Chawaga (1981-1982) also participated.

During the afternoon the guests heard reports on the Human Services Building, admissions, academic programs, financial aid, sports, public relations and all phases of alumni activity.

The group was hosted by President and Mrs. McCormick for dinner at Buckalew Place, and the evening concluded with a performance of "Guys and Dolls" in Haas Auditorium.

He received the B'Nai B'Rith "Americanism Award" from the Reading Lodge in 1975 and was also the recipient of the Andrew G. Mungenast Founders Award of the United States Jaycees.

He served in the U.S. Coast Guard from January 1943 to June 1945. He is a member of the American Legion in Tremont, the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks, and the Swatara Lodge No. 267 of F. & A.M.

Scheipe was honored at a testimonial dinner in Reading on May 3 at which Frederick Edenharter, president judge of Berks County Courts, was the speaker. Proclamations from the Berks County Commissioners, the Berks County Prison Board, and the state House of Representatives were read.

His son, Richie, began his studies at BSC last January.

His home address is R.D. 1, Box 634, Leesport, Pa. 19533.

Gloria Dawn (Long) Whitney '51 received the Ed. D. degree in community college education from Nova University in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., in November 1980. She is a professor of Behavioral Sciences at Brevard Community College, Melbourne, Fla.

Dr. John J. Ryan '51 has been named deputy state superintendent of the Delaware Department of Public Instruction. Dr. Ryan had been assistant state superintendent for administration since 1971 and acting deputy since June 1980. Dr. Ryan earned a master of education degree at the University of Delaware and a Doctorate at Temple. He is past president of the Delaware Association of School Administrators and a lieutenant colonel in the U.S. Army Reserves.

Dr. Emory W. Rarig Jr. '51, dean of the School of Business at BSC, was given the Outstanding Trustee Award by Lackawanna Junior College in Scranton.

Rarig has been a member of the board of trustees for 12 years and is presently serving as chairman of the academic affairs committee.

Joseph V. Mudrock '52 died on March 30, 1981. He was a retired postal clerk; a member of Church of the Good Shepherd, Camp Hill; the American Postal Workers Union; American Legion Post 583, Barnesville; a charter member of Harrisburg Civil War Round Table; a Navy veteran of World War II; and an Army veteran of the Korean Conflict.

1957

Walter A. Prokopchak '57 was honored with a party held at Pinebrook Inn, Dallas, Pa., on November 2, 1980, upon his retirement as elementary principal in the Dallas School District.

To commend his nearly quarter of a century in the educational service, Prokopchak received a letter and citation from Senator Frank O'Connell and a citation sponsored by State Representative Frank Coslett and Congressman Ray Musto. While impressive in their appearance the citations held special meaning for Prokopchak who considers the years he spent in the educational system exceptionally meaningful.

He imparted some of his feelings to the group in attendance when he said, "Some things which affect your life drastically, happen but once. In my case it was my first day of teaching and my last. From that first day, nothing was the same. I became totally absorbed with teaching, and for all these years my life has revolved around the kids and my colleagues."

Prokopchak further called the students "habit forming," and said, "To work with them, and dedicated, cooperative teachers has to be the ultimate in fulfillment." He indicated the experience has been enjoyable for him, at least for the most part, and expressed the desire to do it all over again. "To misquote a phrase," he said, "it is better to have loved your job than never to have loved at all."

Prokopchak ended his career with the Dallas School District

when a job-related accident forced his retirement. His final ten years were spent as a fulltime elementary principal. Prior to that he spent his years as a teaching principal.

A life-long resident of Franklin Township, he jokingly calls his primary education an "experience in the open class room." He attended a one-room schoolhouse in the township for the first eight years. From there he went on to Kingston Township High School. He received his B.S. degree in elementary education from Bloomsburg State College. His master's degree and principal's certificate are from Bucknell and Pennsylvania State University. His principal's certificate qualifies him for positions at the elementary, junior and senior high school levels. Twenty-six additional graduate credits were completed at Scranton and Penn State Universities, where he extended his education by studying innovations in mathematics, science and curriculum development.

With the district for almost a quarter of a century, Prokopchak initially taught in the Beaumont Elementary School and his other assignments included Trucksville, Shavertown, Westmoreland and Dallas Elementary Schools.

Prokopchak has always been active in sports, hobbies, gardening and farming, although his disability will curtail many of these activities.

While he admits he will dearly miss the activity and challenge of his position with the district,

Alumnus in state higher education post

William D. Kautz '57 has been appointed acting commissioner for higher education in the Pennsylvania Department of Education. He had been director of the Bureau of Academic Programs at PDE since 1978.

As director he supervised 60 professional and support staff members engaged in leadership, regulation and evaluation of higher education institutions and activities in Pennsylvania. He was responsible for a personnel operation budget of about $1,400,000 and about $6,500,000 in state and federal projects funds.

A graduate of William Penn High School (Harrisburg) in 1947, Dr. Kautz received his B.S. degree at BSC in 1957, his M.S. in education at the University of Pennsylvania in 1961, and his doctorate in education at Penn State in 1970.

Prior to beginning his studies at Bloomsburg, Dr. Kautz worked for Welsh Brothers Printing Co. in Harrisburg (1947-1959) and the Pennsylvania Railroad (1949-1951). He served in the United States Air Force from 1951 to 1954.

After receiving his degree at BSC in 1957, he was an English and social studies teacher at the Centennial School District in Johnsville until 1959. In that year he became chairperson of the social studies department and coordinator of student activities at Woodrow Wilson High School in Levittown, where he also supervised curriculum development and a teaching staff of 30.

In 1965 he left Woodrow Wilson to continue his studies as a graduate assistant at Penn State. From 1966 to 1969, he was an instructor of secondary education for Penn State and coordinator of student teaching in Bucks, Montgomery, Chester, Delaware and Philadelphia counties.

In 1969-1970, he was assistant professor of education and representative of the dean of the College of Education at Penn State's York campus.

From 1970 to 1973 he was higher education associate at PDE, responsible for evaluation of teacher education programs.

DR. WILLIAM D. KAUTZ '57

From 1973 to 1978 he was chief of the division of teacher education in the Bureau of Academic Programs.

Dr. Kautz received the BSC Service Key Award when he graduated and was selected as the "Teacher of the Year" at Woodrow Wilson High School, Levittown, in 1963-64. He is a past president of the Pennsylvania Association of Teacher Educators, Central Region.

Active in professional organizations, Dr. Kautz has been involved in the development of pre-service and in-service education programs for continuous professional growth of teachers, self-observation techniques for professional personnel using the video tape recorder and systematic observation, competency-based performance criteria for evaluation of pre-service and in-service professional personnel, and the development and evaluation of academic, vocational, and first professional degree programs in institutions of higher education.

He co-authored an article, "Closed Circuit Television as an In-Service Aid," for AUDIOVISUAL INSTRUCTION. He supervised the development of the "First Year Teacher Survey," a longitudinal research activity to ascertain the validity of competencies being developed in pre-service programs. He also developed a competency-based training program for the preparation of teacher education program approval team chairpersons.

Dr. Kautz supervised the development and publication of "Pennsylvania CBTE" and "More from Pennsylvania CBTE," reports on a variety of programs generated through bureau and division leadership.

He also supervised the development of five experimental models for evaluating teacher education programs in a variety of institutions such as small liberal arts colleges and large universities. He chaired the teams and developed the written reports for program approval visits at 45 Pennsylvania colleges and universities. This included the evaluation of every type of program for which Pennsylvania offers a certificate or letter of eligibility. He managed the development of all standards for the approval of teacher education programs in Pennsylvania.

Dr. Kautz has served on various NCATE and Middle States Association evaluation teams, as well as other committees and task forces.

He has traveled widely and enjoys golf, racing, hunting, ice hockey, football, camping and family activities. He is married to the former Gladys Greider, and they are the parents of two sons: Frank Jacob and Tobias Lester. Their home is at 340 Oak Drive, New Cumberland, Pa. 17070.

Frequent questions asked by alumni

What's the enrollment? and How much does it cost?

Those are the two questions most frequently asked by alumni when they return to campus or when they get together at chapter meetings.

This fall's enrollment won't be known for certain until after registration, but Tom Cooper, dean of admissions and records, reports that the freshman class should number about 1,100. There were 4,531 freshmen applications for 1,080 spaces. Deposits have been received from 1,141 of the applicants to whom admission was offered. About 40 will probably cancel before the fall semester begins, leaving the 1,100.

The admissions stopped distributing applications on March 23 this year.

In addition to the freshmen applications, 714 applications were received from students wishing to transfer to BSC. There are 220 spaces allotted for transfers in the fall semester.

This summer 275 students are taking classes in hopes of doing well enough to return as freshmen in January.

Dean Cooper expressed his appreciation to alumni who have assisted the admissions office by referring students. He is hopeful this kind of cooperation will help to avoid projected enrollment declines.

This year's enrollment should approximate that of last fall, when there were 4,940 full-time undergraduate students, 807 part-time students and 756 graduate students.

For the 1981-1982 academic year, Pennsylvania students will pay $1,250 for basic fees, $774 for room and $540 for meals (on the 19-meals-a-week plan), for a total of $2,564. By comparison, last year's figures were $1,100 for basic fees, $670 for room and $528 for meals, a total of $2,298.

Out-of-state students pay basic fees of $2,190, but the cost of room and meals is the same as for state residents.

The actual cost of a student's education at BSC is considerably more than $2,564, however, when the Commonwealth's share is added to what the student pays.

Dates for chapters set

Alumni chapter meetings are tentatively scheduled for this fall and next spring in 17 Pennsylvania locations. The get-togethers will cover 27 counties in which 100 or more BSC alumni live.

In addition, we hope to hold chapter meetings in nine out-of-state locations: Washington, D.C., Baltimore, New Jersey (three locations), Florida (three locations) and New York City.

Chapter meetings provide alumni with an opportunity to receive updated information about the college through face-to-face discussions with representatives of the college who are anxious to tell the Bloomsburg story. They also provide a social setting for alumni to renew old friendships and to make new ones. At the same time, they can learn of many ways in which alumni can help their Alma Mater.

Alumni chapters can:

- Provide BSC alumni with opportunities to get together for a common purpose.

- Promote BSC in the local community.

- Aid the college in local area functions.

- Encourage BSC alumni to become active.

- Help parents of BSC students to stay in touch with the college.

- Serve as a liaison between alumni and the college.

- Encourage alumni and friends to participate in the Annual Giving Campaign of the Alumni Association.

- Inform the Alumni Office of changes of address, deaths, etc.

- Inform the Alumni Office of outstanding alumni.

- Assist in identifying and recruiting outstanding scholars and student athletes.

- Assist BSC students in finding summer jobs.

- Assist BSC students with internships and graduates with jobs.

- Assist BSC alumni new to the area.

Format of meetings

In most cases, the chapter meetings will begin with a social hour at 5:30 p.m., followed by dinner at 6:30 and the meeting at 8 p.m. Alumni may choose to come for the social hour and dinner or they may come in time for the meeting and program. (Some chapters prefer to have luncheon meetings, so their format will vary.)

Details for all the meetings have not been finalized. They will be publicized by geographical notices which will be mailed at least six weeks prior to the meetings.

Volunteers are needed in each area to help make the local arrangements.

The tentative schedule for 1981-1982 is as follows:

DATE	CHAPTER	LOCATION
September 10	Northumberland	Sunbury
September 17	Chester-Delaware	Media
September 26	Bradford-Tioga	Lunch in Mansfield before game.
October 15	Lehigh-Northampton	Dinner in Towanda after game.
October 17	Lancaster-York	Bethlehem
October 22	Wyoming Valley	Calumia
October 29	Lycoming	Wilkes-Barre
November 7	Dauphin	Williamsport
November 12	Lackawanna	Harrisburg
November 14	Lower Luzerne	Scranton
SPRING 1982

Over 800 graduate

The arts that feed the human spirit are also an important ingredient in the nation's economy, said Rose Stevens, internationally famous mezzo soprano, as she addressed the graduating class on May 18 at the Bloomsburg Fairgrounds.

Approximately 763 seniors and 63 graduate degree candidates were presented by Dr. Barrett W. Benson, interim vice president for academic affairs. The degrees were conferred by Dr. James H. McCormick, president of the college, and awarded by Joseph M. Nespoli, chairman of the board of trustees.

McCormick elected

Dr. James H. McCormick, president of BSC, has been elected chairman of the Pennsylvania Association of Colleges and Universities for the 1981-82 term. McCormick served as vice chairman during the past year.

PACU is comprised of 115 public and private colleges and universities located throughout the Commonwealth. Each member institution is represented by its chief executive officer.

New administrator

Dr. Adrienne S. Leinwand assumed the post of affirmative action/desegregation officer and Title IX coordinator on July 13. She was appointed by the college board of trustees after a national search to fill the position. She replaces Deborah E. Chiodo, who resigned effective September 5, 1980.

Study in Europe

"Art and Culture of France," a course co-sponsored by the department of art and the department of languages and cultures, will be offered in the summer of 1982.

The study-tour will emphasize Normandy and Brittany, including the Norman influence in England. It will visit England and France from June 13 to June 30, 1982, under the direction of Kenneth Wilson and Dr. Mary Lou John. Students may enroll for either undergraduate or graduate credit.

Free concert

A free public concert will be presented by the United States Army Field Band in Haas Center for the Arts on September 21 at 8:15 p.m.

Dr. Stephen C. Wallace, chairperson of the music department, said the concert will feature a 20-piece ensemble, "The Jazz Ambassadors" which is one of three separate and distinct touring components of the field band.

There will be no charge for admission, but tickets will be required.

Summer totals

An unofficial total of 4,044 students attended classes at BSC this summer. That number includes 3,023 undergraduates and 1,021 graduates.

The official tally is expected to be higher.

manager, Hotel Magee; E. H. Alkire, Air Products and Chemicals, Inc.; Dr. Norman Hilgar, faculty; Dr. Samuel Marcus, Pennsylvania Department of Education; Dr. Harvey A. Andrus, president emeritus of BSC.

To teach in Poland

By DEBORAH SMITH

Public Relations
Student Assistant Central Missouri
State University

Some once told him, "To be an American in Poland is a wonderful thing," but for Dr. Thomas Gladsky '62, assistant professor of English at Central Missouri State University, it will be "like traveling to outer-space . . . guaranteed to be exciting."

Dr. Gladsky, his wife Rita, and daughters Kristen and Jennifer, will leave in August for Lublin, Poland. There he will teach in the American Studies Department at Mare-Curie Skłodowska University under a Fulbright Senior Lectureship, while taking a year's leave of absence from CMSU.

Being of Polish descent was not the only reason Dr. Gladsky chose Poland for his lectureship. "I wanted to go somewhere exotic, but not too exotic, while experiencing life behind the Iron Curtain," he said.

Although Americans are well-respected in Poland, according to Dr. Gladsky, being behind the Iron Curtain could have its political pitfalls. The Polish Communist Party is currently deciding on demands made by the Worker's Union, Solidarity. If demands are not met, there could be trouble, possibly causing the award to be cancelled.

If things go well, Dr. Gladsky will teach American History and literature in English. When inquiring about teaching limitations in the Communist country, Dr. Gladsky was told that "Polish instructors say anything they want."

While their father is teaching, Kristen, 14, and Jennifer, 11, will attend public schools and study Polish, Russian and English. Mrs. Gladsky will teach conversational English. Currently, the whole family is studying Polish.

Housing will be provided by the Polish government, but the Gladskys, along with the Polish people, will have to deal with food shortages this winter, forecasted by the government. Food, though, will not be the only thing in short supply. The family was given a list of common items, difficult to find in Poland. Items include coat hangers, band-aids, tape and can openers.

These things are not impossible to find, though, according to Dr. Gladsky. Occasionally the Polish market is flooded with a product, only to disappear from the shelves shortly. Also, almost anything is available at Dollar Stores, catering to American tourists with American dollars. When times get rough, the Gladskys expect many "care packages" from home.

Despite political brewings and food and product shortages, the family expects it will be a wonderful thing to be in Poland.

Adding to his list of accomplishments, Dr. Gladsky has been notified that his article, "Good Neighbors: History and Fiction in the Sot-Weed Factor," has been accepted for publication in Mississippi Studies in English, a scholarly journal published by the University of Mississippi. A shorter version of the article will appear this summer in "Publications of the Arkansas Philological Association".

Dr. Gladsky received his M.A. degree in 1967 from the University of Arizona, and his Ph.D. from the University of North Carolina in 1975.

New vice president for academic affairs appointed

Dr. Larry W. Jones, academic vice president and dean of the faculty at Eastern Montana College, will become BSC's new vice president for academic affairs on August 22. He succeeds Dr. James V. Mitchell, who resigned effective August 15, 1980.

Dr. Jones' appointment by the college board of trustees came after a year-long national search. Dr. Barrett W. Benson, professor of chemistry, filled the position on an interim basis.

Following the board meeting at which Dr. Jones was appointed, President McCormick noted the new vice president has the strong support of the various campus constituencies and brings with him a wealth of experience in higher education. "I am certain he will be contributing much to the continued growth and development of Bloomsburg State College."

Responding to his appointment, Dr. Jones stated, "I look forward with both anticipation and enthusiasm to joining the management team at Bloomsburg State College. During my visit to the campus I was favorably impressed by every group with whom I had the opportunity to meet. The institution shows evidence of excellent planning and has clearly set its direction for the future. Although higher education in general may face some difficult times during the decades ahead, those colleges and universities that have anticipated the future should emerge even stronger than before. I believe Bloomsburg State College will be one of those."

"I am also looking forward to becoming a member of the Bloomsburg community. The few days I was in town left me with very positive feelings about both the people and the area. I hope to become involved in a variety of activities on the campus and in the community."

After receiving his bachelor of science degree in mathematics at North Dakota State University in 1962, Dr. Jones earned a master's degree in administration at the same university in 1964. He completed the requirements for his Ed.D. degree in curriculum at the University of Oregon in 1971.

He completed post-doctoral studies at Western Michigan University, Oregon State University and Harvard University.

Dr. Jones' career in education began as a mathematics instructor at North Dakota State University in 1962. From 1963 to 1965 he taught junior high mathematics in Los Angeles. He then moved to Eugene, Oregon, where he taught senior high mathematics from 1966 to 1967 and junior high mathematics from 1967 to 1968.

During the latter year he was also department chairman.

In 1968 he entered the executive training program of the First National Bank of Oregon and served as a general loan officer from 1969 to 1970.

In 1970-1971 Dr. Jones filled a number of roles in the College of Education at the University of Oregon, including those of clinical supervisor of student teachers, department of curriculum and instruction; lecturer, student council; lecturer, student activities; and graduate teaching fellow, department of curriculum and instruction. In 1971 he served as an instructor in the department of curriculum and instruction at the same university.

The next six years were spent at Moorhead State University, where he served as assistant professor (1971-1973), director of in-service education (1972-1974), director of secondary education (1973-1974), director of continuing education, Title I coordinator (HEA) and director of community services (1973-1977), acting chairman of the department of education (1974), director of evening session (1974-1977), and acting dean of education and regional services (1976).

From 1977 to 1978 he was director of development at Moorhead State University and assistant to the president of Oregon State University.

In 1978 Dr. Jones moved to Billings, Montana, to become academic vice president and dean of the faculty at Eastern Montana College. From 1979 to 1981 he also served as acting dean of the school of business and economics.

Dr. Jones is married and the father of two children.

Were you a Resident Advisor at BSC?

The Student Life staff is trying to compile a list of all alumni who served as resident advisors at BSC. A reunion of RA's may be planned for Homecoming Day on October 10. Please complete the following questionnaire and return it to Jennie H. Carpenter, Box 4013, Kehr College Union, Bloomsburg State College, Bloomsburg, Pa. 17815.

Take a fling!

If you'd like to take a fling in a warm and sunny place, we may have just the holiday you're looking for. During the rest of 1981 and through 1982, your Alumni Association is offering a variety of Fling Vacations arranged by Wainwright's Travel Service of Bethlehem, Pa.

The following trips will be offered, many of them on a weekly basis, throughout the next 18 months:

Hawaii Fling—One-week vacations from $569 to $789. Two-week vacations also available.

Jamaica Fling—Three, four and seven-night vacations from $309 to $569.

Aruba Fling—Seven-night vacations from $359 to $599.

Orlando Fling—Three, four and seven-night vacations from $239 to $319.

Freeport Fling—Three, four and seven-night vacations from $219 to $459.

All flights leave from Philadelphia. Aruba and Freeport Flings also depart from Baltimore/Washington Airport.

For details, contact the Alumni Office by letter or telephone (717) 389-3613.

Alex J. Dubil '66 has been elected superintendent of the Bloomsburg Area School District, where he had served as high school principal since 1975.

A 1963 graduate of Berwick Area High School, Dubil earned his B.S. in business education (accounting sequence) at BSC in 1966 and his M.Ed. in secondary school administration from the University of Delaware in 1970. He has completed all the course work and has passed the written comprehensive examination for a D. Ed. degree in educational administration at Penn State. He is currently working on his dissertation.

Dubil began his teaching career at the Conrad Area School District (now New Castle County School District) in Wilmington,

ALEX J. DUBIL '66

Delaware, in 1966. From 1970 to 1972 he was vice principal of the Chestertown Middle School in Kent County, Maryland.

From 1972 until coming to Bloomsburg in 1975 he was high school vice principal and intermediate school principal in the Pottsgrove School District, Pottstown.

His educational affiliations include the National Association of Secondary School Principals; the Pennsylvania Association of Secondary School Principals, and the Central Susquehanna School Administrators Association. He is a member of the Bloomsburg Kiwanis Club and the Civil Service Commission for Bloomsburg.

The Dubils and their three children live at Bloomsburg R.D. 4.

James L. Johnson '66 has been elected secretary of the Student Association of the Graduate School at Drew University. Jim is in his third year at the graduate school.

Nancy (Smith) Walls '66 lives at 10433 Sternwheel Pl., Columbia, Md. 21044. She is a "retired" elementary counselor. She married Attorney George R. Walls in 1974. They have two children: Scott, four, and Brian, 21 months.

Sheldon W. Grasley '66 has been elected to the board of directors of the Pennsylvania Association of School Business Officials. He will serve a three-year term. He is active in the community and he and his wife, Florence, are parents of two sons, Aaron, seven, and Brian, five.

His job is to 'think small'

The following article about George Ritter '64 was written by Jack Kliebenstein of the Press-Enterprise staff.

The business of making things smaller is getting bigger everyday, and quartz crystal engineer George Ritter, formerly of Bloomsburg, has been part of that growth ever since the first moon flight.

Astronaut Neil Armstrong's "one giant leap for mankind" proclamation might not have been flashed triumphantly back to earth if it hadn't been for the "miniaturization" data gathered by Ritter and a team of researchers.

From 1963-66, Ritter was one of a 10 to 12-member engineering team developing quartz crystal technology for the Reeves-Hoffman division of Dynamics Corporation of America in Carlisle. He said he saw an application of that research become part of the first television camera to go to the moon.

Ritter, now manager of a Timex research group in Middlebury, Conn., said he is also working with "thin film" engineering in which atoms are stacked up, in a vacuum, into sheets of metal an atom or less thick."

The sheets can then be used in a "micro-world" that includes conductors and transistor materials. They may also be used for decorative purposes.

Because the process is performed in a vacuum, there are no effluents to pollute the environment, Ritter noted.

He said the "super environmental compatibility of thin-film processing" may even make electroplating an obsolete process within a few years. The latter has effluents which must be treated, Ritter added.

Ritter, a graduate of the Bloomsburg schools in the 1950s, the Pennsylvania State University in 1958 and Bloomsburg State College in 1964, also took advanced studies at the University of California.

He was employed in the lab of Merck and Co. from 1958-63, where he analyzed semiconductor materials for transistors, until that operation was shut down.

Ritter said he later worked for several other engineering firms developing such items as frequency control timing devices for commercial and military applications.

With Collins Radio in Southern California from 1966-71, the technology was directed toward communications satellites which were just starting to be used for commercial purposes.

Ritter also branched into management with Collins.

With Hughes Aircraft in Newport Beach, Calif., in the early 1970s, Ritter's research involved timing devices for missile application and "watch-shrinking," with tiny tuning fork-shaped crystals capable of being placed in watch mechanisms.

Ritter is the son of the late Edward and Jean Scott Ritter. His father worked for the Reading Railroad and had a popular area dance band from the early 1920s to the late 1950s.

He is married to the former Ruth Ann Davis '59 of Lightstreet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Davis, who operate a grocery store in Lightstreet. His wife is a former elementary teacher in the Bloomsburg school district, and now a teacher in Connecticut. They have two sons.

Four chapters hold meetings in spring

Since the last report in the Spring issue of The Alumni Quarterly, four alumni chapters have met: Philadelphia, April 6; Baltimore, April 9; Pennsylvania Dutch (Reading), April 23; and Montgomery-Bucks April 30.

Philadelphia

Dorothy Schmidt, a member of the Class of 1929 and a recipient of the Distinguished Service Award of the BSC Alumni Association, spoke to fellow members of the Philadelphia chapter at the April 9 meeting in Wanamaker's.

Miss Schmidt spoke of her experiences—rewarding and harrowing—as a missionary in Japan when World War II erupted. After fleeing from Japanese soldiers, she and others were eventually captured in the Philippines and interned. She nearly died of malnutrition before the group was liberated.

Alumni attending the meeting were Charlotte F. Coulston '23, Lucy Keeler Ennis '30, Harry J. Gobora Jr., Constance Stanko Gobora '51, Emily Nikel Gledhill '12, Geraldine Hall Krauser '23, Sadie Zapp Mayernick '27, Grace Kishbach Miller '19, Marie Parrish Morgan '54, Orval C. Palsgrove '31, Harold Reader '27 and Dorothy L. Schmidt '29.

Guests were Margaret Burick, Antoinette Colofimo, James Gledhill, Betty Palsgrove, Viola Reader and Margaret Wilson.

The group also met on June 13 at the Lakeside Inn, near Pottstown. A July outing at the summer home of Orval Palsgrove was also planned.

Baltimore

A group of alumni living in the Baltimore area met for dinner at Peerce's Plantation, near Towson, on Thursday, April 9. Attending the get-together were Peter J. Eshmont '41 and his wife, Mildred; Leo J. Lehman '41; Dr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Lewis '48; Joseph J. Gieda '50 and his wife, Cissie; Paul P. Plevyak '50 and his wife, Mary; Frederick D. Young Jr. '50 and his wife, Bernadine; Elizabeth A. Walters Meiss '51 and her guest, Linda M. Glenn; Alfred J. Cyganowski '53 and his wife, Mary Ruth; Jean Levan Morrow '54; Thomas and Mary Shurman Regan '61 & '62; Nancy Smith Walls '66, Jerry and Linda Oehler Miller '69 & '70; Stanley and Beth Ann Schmidt Werkheiser '78; Greg Heaps '79 and his guest, Darlene Latham; and Al and Liz Marsilio '52 & '53. Doug Hippenspiel '68, director of alumni affairs, represented the college.

Pennsylvania Dutch

The fourth annual alumni dinner of the Pennsylvania Dutch Chapter was held on Thursday, April 23, at the Reading Motor Inn. Serving on the central committee were Donald B. Hawthorne '63, president; Michael L. Mehle '67, vice president; Sandra Kern '67, treasurer; Francis D. Sell '35, Barbara N. Faust '65, and Edward B. Kern '67.

Elected as officers for the next year were Michael L. Mehle '67, president; Roy E. Hoglund II '70, vice president; Barbara Nicholls Faust '65, secretary; and Sandra Burkhardt Kern '67, treasurer.

Business Education marks 50th year

One of the highlights of this year's Alumni Day was the 50th anniversary celebration of the business education department.

The department was organized in 1930 by President Emeritus Harvey A. Andruss, who served as its director until 1937 when he became dean of instruction. Ten persons have served as either directors or chairmen of the department since its beginning. The department of business education grew into the current school of business which is comprised of the department of business education/office administration and the department of business administration.

Dr. Ellen M. Clemens '62, the current department chairman who directed the anniversary activities, said, "Our past accomplishments have brought us satisfaction, but we cannot rest on our laurels. The challenge of the future is for adequate preparation with a sense of purpose for those men and women whom we teach."

Dr. Emory W. Rarig, dean of the school of business, stated, "On this auspicious occasion, we reflect on the thousands of our business education graduates who have not only dedicated themselves to service of distinction in teaching, but who have also entered the business world and have attained the pinnacle of success within their respective fields."

Remarks were also made by Dr. Andruss; Dr. James H. McCormick, president of the college; Joseph Nespoli, chairman of the board of trustees; Dr. Charles H. Carlson, dean of the school of graduate studies; and others.

Walter A. Brower, education professor and dean of the school of education at Rider College, also spoke on the future of business education and the business world in general.

Students who are planning for the future had an opportunity for one-on-one discussions with a number of BSC alumni who participated in the Career Fair conducted in the spring by the career development and placement center. The returning alumni included (seated, from left) Dawn Reed '79, Gelsinger Medical Center; Barbara Williams '80, Gelsinger Medical Center; Gail

Golden '79, Drexel University Early Childhood Center; Connie Beard Jennings '73, Milton Hershey School, Hershey; Woody Sanders '79, Kawneer Company; Otis Johnson '66, attorney with the Federal government; Franklin (Ed) Jones '54, personnel administrator at Northwestern Institute of Psychiatry, Philadelphia; Keith Lawson '76, manager of a residential and social programs at Keystone Job Corps Center, Drums; Frank Maloney '80, Beneficial Management Co.; Howard Sheppard '73, newscaster for WGAL-TV, Lancaster. Participating in a program when the photo was taken were Cathy Spera '78, Burroughs; and Bill Johnson '72, Gelsinger Medical Center.

Corrections to the Annual Giving Report—with apologies

As we promised in the spring issue of the Alumni Quarterly, which contained the 1980 Annual Giving Report, we would like to correct several errors and omissions in the list of contributors.

Joseph D. and Sandra Vuksta Fimiano, Class of 1973, should have been listed under the BSC Club gift category.

Frank M. VanDevender Jr., Class of 1939, was incorrectly listed with the Class of 1938.

Stella J. Hill, Class of 1968, was mistakenly listed as Wanda J. Hill.

The following individuals were omitted from the list of Century Associates:

Bob Casey pursues full-time acting career

The following article about Bob Casey '72 was written by Susan Brook of the Press-Enterprise staff.

Actor Bob Casey's back in the area, on stage full time and glad of it. And as a bonus, son Jamie is getting into the act, too.

When Casey opened in "Annie Get Your Gun" at Gus Genetti's in Hazleton recently, son Jamie was there in the role of Little Jake. His new job with Prather Productions has been especially gratifying, says Casey, because there's also work, usually as a dancer or on the technical side, for his wife, Michelle Baker.

In "Annie Get Your Gun" Jamie has about 25 lines as Little Jake, and he gets to sing "Doin' What Comes Naturally." As he mugs and plays during an interview with Dad, Jamie's already stealing the scenes with a story or two about backstage life.

"I want to be a science man, a football player, an actor and a baseball player, those four!" says the child actor.

"He's been raised in it, since he was always with us," says Casey. "His mother played Nance in 'Oliver!' three months after he was born." From then on, there's been hanging around rehearsals and finally working into parts in his parents' shows. At six, he's enough of a pro to be recreating the part of the king's youngest son in "The King and I," August's show at Hazleton, where his father will be the King.

For Casey, the kingship is a long way from his first public appearance singing a solo at the Lightstreet Methodist Church (he was four.) "Then in college is I guess when I really got the bug."

The 30-year-old, who starred in musical and dramatic productions at Bloomsburg State College when he was a student in the early 70s. He says the three directors at BSC, Bob Richey, Bill

Acierno and Jim McHale, were all helpful to him, each in a unique way. He had the opportunity to play great parts—like Don Quixote in "Man of La Mancha."

Then came a 10-year stint teaching English and theatre in the West Shore School District, Harrisburg. Always active in amateur theatre there, he has now turned pro.

That's when the real education started. This is far harder work than the classroom, harder even than hard physical labor, Casey claims.

"It's nothing to work 14 hours a day," he claims. "In a professional production, you put it together in 8-9 days and it's constant work," he says.

"The energy—it's gearing your mind up and your body. It's a strenuous job. It's a matter of becoming someone else and all your concentration has to be right there."

"Actors have to be either running, swimming or in acting and movement classes to stay in shape," he says.

Casey and Baker recently starred in "Same Time, Next Year," a pinch-hit appearance for Bloomsburg State College director Bill Acierno, who had had troubles casting a production of "Any Wednesday," but didn't want to leave the stage dark when a play had been promised.

"It's a play we were both familiar with. We very seldom get cast opposite each other, because she looks so much younger than me," he says.

"It's a risk to go from a stable thing like teaching to acting," he says. "A lot of times you're hired for four weeks. I've been lucky because I've been almost full time with Prather. Many actors in New York are not that lucky."

(Prather also runs theatres at the Host Inn, Harrisburg, where the Caseys were in "King and I" last fall); the Host Corral, Lancaster; and the Brookside Playhouse, Selinsgrove.

Prather, he says, is a para-professional company. Though dinner theatre and so do its audiences. "They get a lovely buffet dinner and see a show for $15-$18," he says.

He says dinner theatre is catching on all over the country. "This is good not only for people, theatre-goer answered, "No!"

The format most frequently chosen is either a musical, which sells well, or a small cast comedy, which, says Casey, is cheap to stage. The one-set plays are inexpensive, usually set in the present, and actors use their own clothing for costumes. Shakespeare? Never!

"A lot of times the actor will double as stage manager, he'll be wound up doing sound cues and light cues," he says.

"I think most people think acting is a very glamorous career, but it's very hard work."

There is a good side to the semi-nomadic experience, says Casey, especially in Hazleton. "I feel we get the best treatment at Genetti's. They really make you feel at home there," he says. The family will occupy a suite on the pool level. "Besides, the food's great," says Bob.

Most of his co-workers are young, struggling actors just out of college. They live in New York, officially, but are out on the road most of the time, he says.

Having a car distinguishes him somewhat from his younger friends on the tour. Having a wife, child and mortgage payments makes him even more different.

But that wife is one of the reasons Casey's even tried to fulfill his dream. "We've talked and talked before I made the change. I was apprehensive about leaving teaching because of owning a home, etc., but she was very supportive."

"A lot of people find it very difficult to understand how you can give up that security, but I feel any job has to be rewarding for you," he says.

actors are paid, they are non-union. It is still difficult to break into Actors' Equity union, he says.

"The only way to get an Equity card is to be in an Equity production. And the only way to do that is to go to an Equity call. But only an Equity member can go to an Equity call."

"Well, every once in a while, they have an open call. It's not impossible to get in, but it is difficult," he says.

Casey says he likes the idea of but for actors, because it gives us a chance to perform in places where before there was no theatre."

But there are some unique problems. "Well, you have some older people who book junkets and they're so used to TV they'll talk back to you sometimes," he says. Here's Bob Casey, as The King in "The King and I!" The line goes, "Am I King or am I not?" The question was rhetorical, but one night a

New food service

M.W. Wood, Inc., Food Service Management, has returned to the BSC campus after an absence of over 20 years. The company, which services institutions throughout Pennsylvania, was the first food service to be contracted when the college decided to bring in an outside concern for the 1957-58 school year. Current vice president Wilbur Blew was the manager of the local operation during that initial year.

Wood replaces Saga Foods in the Scranton Commons dining hall and ARA Slater in the snack bar of the Kehr College Union. Saga had the contract for the past 5½ years, and Slater leaves after more than 20 years service. Slater replaced Wood in the college dining hall in 1958.

Wood will provide meals for nearly 200 students during the summer sessions and will serve orientation and special groups throughout this period. During the regular college year, meals are served cafeteria style to nearly 3,000 students. At that time, nearly 150 students are employed by the food service along with 55 regular employees and about 15 part-timers.

Joseph Duke is the manager for Wood at BSC, and Dean Robert Norton is the college administrator for food service.

Your Alumni Association is in the midst of a very exciting project — creation of an alumni reception room in historic Carver Hall. The reception room will provide a center for alumni activities and is immediately adjacent to the Alumni Offices.

In completing the project, the college, today's students, and the alumni are working together to provide just the right blend of ingredients which will produce the spirit of tradition and quality that is Bloomsburg. The room's basic structure has been fashioned from an area which previously served as the Office of Institutional Planning and Research and earlier as the college Business Office.

It will feature raised wood paneling, wall-to-wall carpeting, as well as lighting fixtures and furnishings in the colonial style. Queen Anne, Chippendale, and Federal periods will be incorporated to produce a room which is both formal and functional.

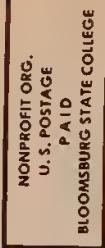

Completing a project like this appropriately is not inexpensive, yet we are trying to be good stewards of the money that is available. You will be pleased to know that current students have earmarked a substantial amount for the project from the Husky Contingency Fund, an account which contains student money originally provided for Kehr Union but not used when that building was furnished in the early 1970's.

Although these funds will provide a significant portion of the resources needed to construct and furnish the Alumni Reception Room, we want you to have an opportunity to share in this project in a meaningful way. Monetary gifts are needed to provide additional furnishings or accessory pieces and would make a fitting tribute or memorial to a favorite faculty member, someone in your family or a very special classmate.

Still another way for you to participate in the project would be to donate a fine piece of furniture, clock, oriental carpet or other accessory piece that would be appropriate for the room. Because of the nature of the project, a selection committee will review each of the proposed gifts and make a judgment on its appropriateness for the project. The selections pictured here are a few of the items which could be utilized in furnishing the room and represent styles of the period prior to 1820.

Craftsmen from the Physical Plant Department are presently hard at work installing the raised paneling which was chosen to complement that used in the 1953 restoration of Carver Lobby and adjacent offices. They will be followed shortly by college painters, and then by electricians who will be installing several lighting fixtures. We hope to have the room completed and partially furnished by Homecoming Day, October 10.

We would be pleased to hear from you at your earliest convenience if you would like to share in this meaningful and lasting project.

Come home to BSC

Mark Saturday, October 10, on your calendar right away! That's the date for HOMECOMING 1981, with the theme, "I Am Music."

Following the colorful parade in the morning, the Huskies will host West Chester State College at Redman Stadium on Mt. Olympus.

The Alumni Homecoming Dinner and Dance will be held at the Sheraton Inn at Danville, a beautiful spacious facility. At least six classes are planning reunions on Homecoming Day: 1951, 1956, 1961, 1966, 1971, and 1976. Details on the reunions will be forthcoming in a separate mailing to each of the classes.

Start planning now. Don't take a chance on your roommate or best friend showing up; you'll likely be disappointed. Call or write to that special person and make a date to meet in Bloomsburg on October 10. If you've lost touch with the person, contact the Alumni Office, and we'll try to provide you with a current address.

You can have a really great time on Homecoming Day if you take a few minutes today to plan for it.

Cultural programs scheduled

Six cultural events have been planned by the Community Arts Council for 1981-1982, according to Dr. Ted Shanoski, cultural affairs director.

The programs will include the Fitzwilliam String Quartet on September 23, A Pavlova Celebration on October 12, the McClain Family Band on October 25, the Branko Krsmanovich Chorus on January 20, "Grease" (the musical play) on March 3 and "The Canterbury Tales," a one-man show by Rob Inglis on April 1.

For brochures giving times and additional information, contact the Alumni Office.

The Arts Council begins its selection process each fall, working in separate committees for music, dance, and theater, lectures and art. By January or February, the entire council meets to negotiate the final choices. The council includes 20 elected members from the student body and the faculty. There are two representatives from the community. The council's budget is about $40,000 a year, with much of it coming from community activities fees paid by students, faculty and staff.

The Fitzwilliam String Quartet, favorably reviewed in the New York Times after a Carnegie Hall concert this year, will be at BSC and Bucknell University for several days on a shared basis.

In "A Pavlova Celebration," ballerina Starr Danias, who danced in the film, "The Turning Point," will evoke the era of the famous dancer Anna Pavlova, in the 100th anniversary year of her birth and the 50th anniversary year of her death.

Her presentation includes restagings—which she calls interpretations rather than imitations—of ballets such as "Dragonfly," "The Dying Swan," "Polka Pizzicato," "Idyll," and "Autumn Bacchanale." The second half of the program, as danced in New York, was devoted to a concert version of "Giselle."

The McClain Family Band, a bluegrass group, will appear in a matinee performance in conjunction with Parents' Weekend.

The Branko Krsmanovich Chorus is a group from Yugoslavia which first presents a formal concert and then a folk song-folk-dance presentation.

"Grease," the popular musical, will be presented by a 21-member cast from Daedalus Productions.

"The Canterbury Tales" satisfies the literary portion of the cultural schedule. Don Ingilis comes from England and somehow manages to switch gears often enough to enact many of Chaucer's characters in costume.

"It's the council's goal to make

Bloomsburg the cultural center for the region," says Shanoski.

An exceptional student

'A symbol of high ideals'

By BRENDA FRIDAY
Information Writer Intern

Since 1969, BSC has awarded more than 12,000 baccalaureate degrees, but Tony Brennan, who has been on the campus regularly during those years, has never received one. That's not one of his goals. For Tony, who has cerebral palsy, BSC has been a source of knowledge, growth, and self-improvement for the past 12 years of his life, and he's loving every minute of it.

Now 31 years old, Tony is neither a full nor part-time student. His attendance is not compulsory; it is simply an act of enthusiasm and determination with the desire to learn. While taking advantage of the college's resources, he has, over a period of time, established a great personal intimacy with faculty, students, and other members of the college community.

His visits to campus are special. Despite his handicap, he has become the perfect role model of a person who truly believes that the pursuit of knowledge, as a goal in itself, is a life-long process and with reward well worth the extra, and at times physically painful effort.

Tony and his father, a retired salesman, travel to Bloomsburg from their home in Pottsville twice a week for "classes," but the 45-minute drive doesn't discourage them. The support of his parents and his sister, Kay, is based on their love and commitment and pride in Tony's personal achievements and growth since he began his studies in July of 1969. Yet, the family's love does not shield him from the world and everyday experiences.

In encouraging Tony to visit BSC so frequently, his parents let him cope with crowds and people, and the challenge of making his way around the campus. Tony has grown accustomed to relating to students and faculty, and to using Bloomsburg's facilities as best he can—on his own.

Two hundred seventy-seven students from 22 campus organizations manned the telephones on 14 nights in October and November to raise nearly $20,000 during the annual alumni phonathon. Last year's phonathon pledge total was just short of $15,000. The phonathon is held each fall during the "clean-up" phase of the Alumni Association's annual giving campaign. A complete report on the phonathon, including winners of team and individual awards, will be printed in the winter issue of The Alumni Quarterly.

Speaking to August graduates, Boyd F. Buckingham, vice president of administration at BSC challenged 134 seniors and 110 graduate students to make the most of their potential by creating a "class of their own."

In his speech at graduation exercises on August 20, Buckingham said in developing such a class, the graduates should pay back part of the debt owed to the society that created and nurtured them.

Buckingham asked the audience to look at each person receiving his diploma.

"Try to visualize each of those people ten or twenty years from now," said Buckingham, "when they have become an excellent teacher, a successful businessman, an author who can help his readers expand their mental horizons, a clergyman whose love and understanding can heal emotional wounds of others and start them on the path to a happier tomorrow.

"The list of worthwhile things which can be done well in today's world is a long one. There is a crying need in every part of the world for people willing to do more than just a good job in their chosen occupation or profession," declared Buckingham.

The vice president, who is retiring soon after 28½ years of service, singled out BSC graduates and their accomplishments.

Buckingham said these alumni have created a "class of their own" through their love and concern for their fellow men, their time and energy and especially their education.

College president James H. McCormick, who conferred the degrees, praised the graduates by telling them they are the reason for the college's existence.

"Your in-depth study of a single discipline," said McCormick, "will enable you to deal effectively with many kinds of people throughout life."

He predicted the college would emerge from the decade as a stronger institution because of improved academic programs, excellent placement records, sound management and active alumni.

McCormick concluded by acknowledging those trustees present at the graduation, LaRoy G. Davis and Frank M. Fay, and President Emeritus Harvey A. Andrus.

Student remarks were given by Karen Chawaga, Community Government Association president, and Douglas Taylor, senior class president.

Presentation of candidates for degrees was by Barrett Benson, interim vice president for academic affairs, and degrees were awarded by LaRoy Davis.

Stephen Wallace conducted the singing of the national anthem and the BSC alma mater, with organ music provided by Keith Kull.

The BSC Alumni Association sponsored a reception after the ceremony in the Kehr Union.

Dr. Frank J. Furgele '52, a member of the BSC Alumni Board of Directors for many years, has been appointed superintendent of the new Brandywine School District in New Castle County, Delaware.

The Brandywine School District and three other new districts were created when the former New Castle County School District was divided into four smaller districts, effective July 1, 1981.

The district has a student population of 12,000, divided among 19 schools, including four high schools, three junior highs, 10 elementary schools and two special schools.

Dr. Furgele is a graduate of Conyngham Township High School in Aristes, where he was an all-around athlete. He is married to the former Mildred Pliscott of Exeter, BSC Class of 1953, and they have three children: Dawn, 24; John, 20; and Jim, 12. His mother, Mrs. Frances Furgele, still resides in Shamokin.

Dr. Furgele received his master of education degree at Temple University in 1955 and Claymont (Delaware) School District.

The merger of the Wilmington School District and 10 suburban school districts, including Claymont, into the New Castle County School District was necessitated by a Federal court order resulting from a long-standing suit against racially segregated schools in the area.

Dr. Furgele assumed administrative responsibility for the area of the new school district comprising the northern sector in 1978. He continued as Area 1, New Castle County School District superintendent until he assumed his new position in July 1981.

In 1970, he was named "Delaware Administrator of the Year" by the Delaware State Chapter of Distributive Education Clubs of America.

If you like music:

The Department of Music has announced its schedule of concerts for the year, which will feature a wide variety of styles and selections.

In September, the U.S. Army Jazz Ambassadors performed a concert featuring the "big band" sound, and the annual Homecoming Pops Concert was held on October 11, highlighting the Concert Choir, Women's Choral Ensemble, and Husky Singers.

The College Community Orchestra will present its Fall Concert on Sunday, November 15, in the Haas Center, with Debra Reeder, of the Philadelphia Orchestra, as cello soloist. John Master will be conducting a program which includes selections from Offenbach, Mendelssohn, and Saint-Saens.

There will be a student recital in Haas on Sunday, November 22, featuring advanced music students, and on Tuesday, December 1, the college's resident pianist, John Couch, will perform a faculty recital in Carver Hall.

Always a popular event in the Christmas season, the Madrigal Singers' Banquet will be held on the evenings of December 2 to December 5. This year's presentation is "An Elizabethan Feast," with food, music and decor of that era.

The final performance of the fall semester will be "The Joy of Christmas" on December 10 and 11 in Carver Hall, with the Concert Choir, conducted by William Decker, featuring yuletide carols and choral masterpieces.

Upcoming events for the spring semester include a string recital on February 7 by Helen Hagensick-Heaton, Hester Hufnagle, and Suzanne Hufnagle. February 16 features a High School Choral Festival, and the Symphonic Ball will be held on the 19th in the Danville Sheraton Inn.

Faculty appointed

Three faculty members who had previously been employed in part-time positions on campus were appointed to full-time spots for the fall semester of the 1981-82 academic year.

Elizabeth Gensemer was appointed to the position of instructor of business education/office administration. She had been employed in that position as a temporary instructor during the second semester of the 1980-81 academic year.

Wallace Mitcheltree re-assumes the position of assistant professor of business administration, after having previously held that post during the second semester of the 1977-78 academic year and the first semester of the 1980-81 academic year.

Marlene Vallin continues as an instructor of Speech, Mass Communications, and Theatre, serving in the same capacity during the second semester of the 1980-81 academic year.

Hunsinger gets award, trustee post

Elton Hunsinger, who served BSC in several administrative roles before his retirement in December 1979, has been appointed to a six-year term on the BSC board of trustees by Gov. Dick Thornburgh. His term starts immediately.

The following article recounts another honor which was recently accorded Dean Hunsinger.

Elton Hunsinger, retired BSC administrator, was enshrined in the Jerry Wolman Chapter Sports Hall of Fame at the tenth annual awards dinner in September 1981.

Hunsinger, who came to Bloomsburg in 1961, retired in 1979 as administrator for federal grants and associate vice president. At various times, he was also dean of men, dean of students, associate vice president for student affairs, director of placement, and associate vice president for campus services, which included supervision of the college's health program and food services.

A native of Geneva, N.Y., he attended the Hazleton public schools and graduated from Conyngham Township High School in 1938. He received a B.S. degree in physical education at East Stroudsburg State College, with added qualifications to teach English and social studies. He earned a master's degree in administration at Bucknell University in 1952.

Hunsinger had the unique privilege of being appointed the first research consultant to the Senate Education Committee of Pennsylvania's General Assembly, a position he held concurrently with his duties as dean of men. He also served as a member of the National Commission for Accreditation of Teachers Education which covered a 25-state area.

His 25 years of teaching public schools include 12 years at Conyngham Township High and 13 years at Ashland public schools. During that time he served as an athletic coach in several sports as well as athletic director. He holds one of the most impressive records in basketball in Pennsylvania, having never posted a losing season in a quarter of a century.

A highlight of his career was serving as a PIAA official for 35 years. During one of those years, he had the distinction of officiating in five different college sports, one of the few in the state to have such an accomplishment. He officiated in four Eastern Conference football championship games as well as one eastern final PIAA Class A basketball contest. He also served as a professional baseball umpire for three seasons.

After playing in an exhibition baseball game against the Hazleton team of the Eastern League in 1935, Hunsinger tried out with the Hazleton team for two weeks and was invited to spring training by the Philadelphia Phillies the following year, but decided to finish college instead.

A member of various social and fraternal organizations, Hunsinger is one of the most sought-after public speakers and emcees in Pennsylvania. He annually appears at approximately 100 engagements including sports banquets, high school assemblies, commencement exercises, and social, fraternal and civic affairs. He has emceed at banquets for such national figures as Rev. Bob Richards, Joe Paterno, Jim Brown, Pete Carlissimo, Danny Litwhiler, Robin Roberts, and many others. His unique approach to humor has been enjoyed by many during his speaking engagements.

Hunsinger umpired professional baseball in 1945-46-47 and retired due to a knee injury suffered at Hamilton, Ontario, in 1947. He worked in the Pony, Ohio State and North Carolina leagues. In the middle 1940s Hun-singer ran a baseball school in this area for the New York Giants. In this capacity he worked with the immortal Carl Hubbell and Hans Lebert. Several area boys were signed to professional contracts through his efforts.

In 1947, Hunsinger and Pennsylvania Sports Hall of Famer Danny Litwhiler aspired to establish a professional baseball team in Hazleton. The team was to be backed by the Boston Braves but the $100,000 project fell through when expenses rose out of proportion.

At Conyngham Township, where he coached from 1936 to 1948, his basketball teams won 237 games and lost 54 while in all sports his teams had a record of 483 wins, 156 defeats, and six ties.

During his coaching tenure his teams consistently were champions or leading contenders. In Columbia County League play Conyngham Township had a consecutive string of 47 league victories; 83 out of 85 in the loop and not a defeat on their home court in over six years. During this time they captured five Columbia County titles.

In 1947, Conyngham Township joined the Class A Keystone League and won the second half title in its initial season. In 1948, Conyngham Township defeated Coal Township for the league crown, 49-24.

When Hunsinger inherited the Ashland Black Diamonds, they had a record of one win and 18 defeats. In his first year at Ashland his team tied for the second half championship of the North Schuylkill League.

In spite of the fact that in 1952 only one veteran returned from the previous season, the Black Diamonds surprised everyone by winning the championship with 18 consecutive victories including wins over powerful Mahanoy City, and Pottsville, then of the East Penn League. During the same year they won the Ashland Rotary Holiday Tournament by soundly thrashing Harrisburg John Harris for the championship. Hunsinger's record over a three-year period in the early 1950s at Ashland was 66 victories and only seven losses.

Hunsinger also coached the professional Ashland Greens.

Hunsinger received the 1977 Outstanding Service Award from the Pennsylvania Basketball Coaches Association for his achievements in the coaching field. For more than five decades he has made athletics a major part of his life.

On Nov. 3, 1979, Dean Hunsinger was given a testimonial dinner on his retirement. Six hundred friends packed the college dining hall to pay their respects. At this affair, he was presented awards from the U.S. Congress, as well as the Pennsylvania House and Senate.

Hunsinger has been married to the former Grace Kostenbauder for the past 42 years. They have two children: Carol, a registered nurse, wife of Ted Maurer; and Dale, an administrator in the Maryland public schools. Dale and his wife, Debra, have four children, and Carol is the mother of two daughters.

In 1953 he received the Levittown American Legion Post citation for "Meritorious Service and Cooperation to the Community and Education." He also received the Bloomsdale-Fleetwing Estates Civic Award from the Bristol Township civic organization.

He is a member of numerous academic and professional organizations.

(The following article about Allan Maurer '72 was written by Susan Brook of the Press-Enterprise staff, Bloomsburg.)

The writer returns—the folded-over galley proofs a trophy in hand. Here's Allan Maurer, fresh from completing a book on lasers and back for a recent visit in his own home town.

This is the place where he got his start, during and after his college years, as a Morning Press reporter. The start came close to being the finish when former Morning Press editor Ed Schuyler gave him an ultimatum: improve his spelling or find another line of work. The writer crammed "Six Weeks to Better Spelling" into one week, and survived.

His first book, "Lasers, Light Wave of the Future," will be issued by ARCO publishers in October, as part of their "How It Works" series.

For the graduate of Southern Columbia High School and Bloomsburg State College, son of Mildred Steinruck, Bloomsburg, the book job has been a tough challenge, far longer and harder than anything he's written before.

But there are rewards—the permanence of a book and its long term financial payoff. The book will be issued in hard back, then as a trade paperback, later as a mass market paperback.

He's happy to be one of a small number of science writers reaping the rewards of an increasing demand for information. "Last year Einstein outsold sex," he says.

When he started on the book, says Maurer, he knew next to nothing about lasers. "I thought lasers were just pretty lights. I knew they were a modern tool, but little else. My major contact with them was the James Bond film, 'Goldfinger.'"

He took the basic fascination he had in science, added the inquisitiveness he'd nurtured as a reporter, mixed in the skills he'd been practicing as a writer for shiny-papered magazines and applied them all to the task.

Lasers are being used for many mundane functions, like cutting clothing and boring the holes in baby bottle nipples for example. "They're everywhere, being used to save art work . . . they're just a wonderful measuring tool because you can't get any thinner."

Assigned the topic in October, he had to have the manuscript done by March. The fastest way, he said, was to hire a researcher to do preliminary library groundwork.

"Libraries are very dangerous to a writer's time because you go to look up aardvark and you wind up spending hours and hours studying cockroaches or something," he says, waving the first of several cigarettes.

After making his way through the references the researcher dug up, he prepared for two 45-minute telephone interviews with Arthur Schawlow, principal developer of the laser, who lives in California.

"He gave me a real fine interview. You know he used to put one balloon inside the other and explode the blue inner one to show the laser can select its target," he says. Other interviews with other scientists followed.

The general public doesn't really understand what lasers and can't do, says Maurer, which is the reason for his book. In the earth's atmosphere, their fabled "ray gun" capacities don't exist, he says. "So I did emphasize the difference between what's futuristic and what's realistic."

Maurer had been writing short pieces for magazines such as Omni and Playboy, usually off-beat items about science or science fiction. Like the one about the man who invented the "space passport."

His freelancing began at 30, when he says, "I decided to test myself." He'd been a reporter, an English teacher, an editor (until the publisher of National Truckers' Weekly folded the paper) and an advertising copy writer.

He was finding the office routine confining. "Twenty years of that—well, I'd have never made it," he says.

His wife's financial support made it possible for him to take a chance on freelancing, and though they are now separated he makes sure to point out that her help was vital.

He began by looking for magazine assignments, learning to get straight to editors by phone, and finally signing on with an agent who negotiated the book contract for him.

He says he tries to make science understandable to the average person. Scientists like astronomer Carl Sagan are explaining the intricacies of their world eloquently these days and Maurer says his aim is the same, but that he approaches the subject from the vantage point of the average person. "The gap (between scientist and layman) is closing and I like to think I'm closing it from the other end," he says.

Though his agent is urging him to move to New York, Maurer lives in Charlotte, N.C., which he says is "just a marvelously nice place. The climate is kind to birds and bees and other living things." He also works for Charlotte magazine, which keeps him in touch with people and happenings in his home city.

tanica and the Oxford English Dictionary, moved with him recently when he and his wife separated.

"You gotta have a library. Between that and a telephone, I manage." He says that one appeal of a writer's trade is that it can be done anywhere, with low-cost equipment.

"I believe in electronic tools, like the tape recorder, the computer. Why is it that as a writer I feel guilty about maybe spending $5,000 on a word processor and a good quality printer?" he wonders.

"I like writing. I'm smarter behind a typewriter. I don't think like that in conversation. When I'm writing I don't ramble, I don't babble."

Plans anticipate future needs

Faced with the possibility of an increase in enrollment and the reality of a budget deadline, the board of trustees at BSC on Sept. 9 called for the construction of a $5 million dormitory and conference center on the school's upper campus.

The 250-student residence hall and conference unit was added to the college's plans for 1986-87—the last year of the school's five-year budget. The five-year budget, totaling more than $22 million, was due on Sept. 14 in Harrisburg.

While the project is on the college's list of things to do, the decision to build is not irreversible, said BSC President James McCormick.

He added the project can be considered for state funding only if it is included in the special building budget.

Board member Joan Keller said she is usually opposed to new dormitories, but conceded that a greater need for student housing may arise in a few years.

BSC defended its requests at a hearing before the department of education on Sept. 21. The $22 million—or any portion of the requested money—will not find its way to the college until next February at the earliest.

Service lines for telephones and sewage were installed on portions of the upper campus' 103 acres a few years ago when the college was contemplating the construction of more dormitories. Curbing was also added at that time. However, a declining birthrate changed BSC's plans. Since then, the land has remained vacant except for Nelson Fieldhouse and accompanying playing fields.

The new housing and conference center is only one of many requests the college has submitted.

For the 1982-83 budget year, BSC seeks more than $4 million for an addition to the Andruss Library and more than $1.2 million to renovate Centennial Gymnasium. Another $1.3 million is sought from the state to equip the Human Services Center, which is to be constructed with funds approved earlier this year.

Renovations dominate the requests for 1983-84. Refurbishing Old Science and Ben Franklin halls is estimated to cost more than $1.2 million. A new boiler for the heating plant would run another $1 million.

Recreation, garage and storage areas designated for the upper campus are included in the 1984-85 plans.

Redman Stadium may finally receive money for coaches' offices and a clubhouse in 1985-86. Boyd Buckingham, vice president for administration, said these facilities had to be cut from the budget when the stadium was built in 1974.

Pending the results of a study on wind currents, the college may also erect wind generators on the upper campus to produce electricity.

A proposed $10 health fee on 5,400 full-time students was tentatively approved on Sept. 9 by BSC Board of Trustees.

The per semester charge would offset some of the $115,757 budgeted by the state for health services at the college, the board was told by Boyd Buckingham, vice president for administration. Buckingham said the House and Senate Appropriations Committee told BSC last spring that the college—as well as other state schools—should start collecting such a fee.

According to a survey conducted by the Pennsylvania Association of Colleges and Universities' Commission, BSC is one of five of the state's 14 colleges and university which did not impose such a fee last year.

Several state schools have already enacted a health service fee. Indiana University of Pennsylvania charges a $55 health fee, Buckingham said.

Should BSC not levy the charge, the state's budgeting committee may take a closer look into trimming any health-related funds the college may request, Buckingham told the board.

The board will not take a final vote on the fee until its December meeting, BSC President McCormick said.

The announcement gave the students a 12-week notice instead of "surprising them a couple of days before the money's due," McCormick said.

He admitted the $10 per semester charge may create a financial burden for some students, and said the three months will give students a chance to voice their opinions on the health fee.

The fee, if approved, will begin next summer when students will pay a $1 per week charge for each three-week summer session.

Fees for married students and part-timers have not been determined yet, said Jerrold A. Griffin, vice president for student life.

Peggy Bailey's dream of making a film on rural America took her to California where she met Lorne Green, narrator of the film. On right is Kathleen Pavelko of WPSX, Penn State University.

Dream of film becomes reality

The following article was written by Susan Brook of the Press-Enterprise Staff, Bloomsburg.

Some people dream of making things better but don't go beyond dreaming. Others, like Peggy Bailey, take a chance on making their dreams a reality.

Peggy's dream is a film, "Rural America—Coming of Age," that has just been completed. It had an early screening this week.

Peggy is BSC's project coordinator for Pennsylvania Green Thumb, a job program for older workers.

Her dream began when she came back from a regional White House conference on aging last year.

She thought a lot of issues had been pinpointed and that the government was really interested in what people had to say. She didn't want people to see the results of the delegates' work just stop. "Unless you come back from a conference and share information, it's very narrow in scope," she says.

So she sat down and dreamed up the idea for a film that would present some of the rural problems and solutions that conference delegates had raised.

Next she called her boss in Harrisburg and asked what he thought of applying for a grant to make the film. He liked the idea, so Peggy looked for sources of money to underwrite the cost.

She started with one oil company that has supported projects of interest to the elderly. That company wasn't interested, but it referred her to Atlantic-Richfield Foundation. Six weeks after talking to the foundation's president, a check arrived in the mail.

Peggy found other support in a variety of places. "It all just snowballed," she says now.

Penn State University was interested in the project, and WPSX, the educational television station, became the film's producer.

Suddenly what was envisioned at first as a 15-minute film turned into a half-hour narrated by TV star Lorne Green.

Green's involvement came about after a lot of thought, Peggy says. "We tried to identify a nationally known figure who had a rural impact. We chose Green mostly because of his TV show, 'Bonanza.' You know in that show he stood up for what was right, and he's warm, friendly and wholesome."

From the time she contacted Green's agent, she says, "He never said no, just 'when and where?'"

Green sat down with her and the show's WPSX producer and together they revised the script.

"He thinks you should start at midlife to prepare by an emphasis on nutrition and exercise," she says. "He's a great advocate for the aging population."

Green appears in segments introducing and concluding the film. They were filmed on the Los Angeles set where he does advertisements for National Home Life Insurance, which made "in kind" contributions for the filming.

Most of the film's scenes star the ordinary people in and around

Columbia and Montour counties. Segments about employment feature Green Thumb workers at BSC, in places such as the college's duplicating service and child care center.

Scenes about the health of the rural elderly include nurses from the Columbia-Montour Home Health services caring for local patients.

Peggy's film was unveiled informally at a recent luncheon at BSC. Attending were many of the people in the film.

It will be shown at the White House Conference on Aging film festival in November, she says. Arrangements are being made for showings on the Pennsylvania Public Television Network, and on the Public Broadcasting System nationwide. The P.B.S. showing will be on Monday, Nov. 23, at 10:30 p.m.

"It's an upbeat film, it shows some of the problems, but it shows some very simple, innovative programs," she says.

"I just hope what I can do in some small way can count."

More than 20 members of the college faculty volunteer their time and efforts to work with Tony, tutoring him in reading, math, geography, business administration, and general management. "Tony came to us and asked for our help," says Dr. Melvyn Woodward of the School of Business. "Most students feel that college is an obligation or a necessity for good job credentials, but Tony did it all voluntarily. He has become a symbol of high ideals for me."

During the hours Tony spends with professors, his father, Bill Brennan, gets involved in the college community as well. Mr.

Brennan visits the college's library regularly, reading and studying literature, with a special interest in writing styles. He also spends some of his time in the Kehr College Union, where he has found an opportunity to meet and talk with faculty members, staff, and students.

It is not unusual to find Tony at the Kehr Union social gatherings, where as his personal contribution he often acts as the entertainment host for holiday get-togethers. His impersonations of familiar personalities like Howard Cosell, John Wayne, and many others are well received and he enjoys his interaction with others, both as an entertainer and as an individual.

Tony generates a great deal of support from the college faculty. "It convinced me I want to be at BSC," Dr. Woodward commented. "This is a loving, caring campus, and I'm working with people I can respect and admire."

Dr. Woodward recently suggested that Tony's achievements be recognized. Dr. Jack Mulka, director of student activities and the Kehr College Union, acted on the suggestion, and organized a special luncheon for Tony and his family in recognition of the example he continues to set for others as he takes advantage of the college's services and programs in the pursuit of knowledge.

At the luncheon, surrounded by family, faculty, and friends from the college, Tony was awarded BSC's Certificate of Appreciation for his perseverance and his contributions to the college community.

In his comments about the award, President James H. McCormick remarked, "This is a story of caring attitudes, a beautiful story of an inspirational student, a wonderful and loving family, and a dedicated faculty. They all gave freely of themselves to make it work—for Tony and for all of us."

Tony believes the people at the college are wonderful, and he feels sure that BSC lives up to its reputation as "The Friendly College on the Hill."

Yet, as he accepted his award, Tony's response was solemn and modest. "You flatter me by presenting such an award. I wish I could cut it into a thousand pieces so that I could share it with everyone—my family, the faculty, the students—because my education wasn't a one-man thing," he said.

"But if you think I've worked hard the past 12 years," he concluded, "you ain't seen nothin' yet!"

Deans share feeling of optimism

By JIM LYMAN

Publications Intern

A favorable outlook and general feeling of optimism for the future of BSC are shared by the deans of the five schools of study at the college. Along with these thoughts were comments about growth and development in programs in the respective departments, when each of the deans spoke at a recent meeting of the Alumni Board of Directors.

In addition, programs which are self-evaluative and working towards a goal of improvement, and expansion of areas already in existence are in the immediate plans of many of the departments on campus.

Among these programs are a multi-disciplinary package of classes set up for incoming Fall freshmen, an internal self-study of teacher education, expansion of extended study programs, and additions to and growth of graduate programs.

The multi-disciplinary packages are now in their second year of use, (they were first implemented in Fall of '80), and are used solely for incoming freshmen. The program is based on the idea that the initial college experience often sets the tone for the remainder of one's college career.

A group of twenty-five students are enrolled together in four of the same classes (same sections), based on the idea that this will help them to learn to work with other people and to adjust to and meet new people. With this approach they are not facing an entirely new group of faces with each class that they attend.

Dean Alfred Forsyth of the School of Arts and Sciences outlined one such program, the problem solving package. In this particular package, the students are enrolled in a mathematics course, along with courses in philosophy and psychology. The rationale behind this is that they learn problem solving devices not only in a quantitative approach, but also, from an analytical and theoretical approach as well.

In addition to the three courses already mentioned, the students share a composition course. To round out their fifteen credit hours for the semester, the individuals then pick a course on their own, preferably in the area of study in which they have chosen to major.

A voluntary program, the students sign up for it during summer orientation. It is also voluntary on the part of the faculty members who are involved. While it is only in its second semester of use, the initial response on the part of both teachers and students has been very favorable, and more packages are being designed.

In the area of internal study, Dean Howard Macauley of the School of Professional Studies explained a seven-step process the Philadelphia area. He also said that where other institutions are cutting back on their summer programs, BSC is expanding.

Also included in Extended Studies are mini-courses, of which Bloomsburg has one of the largest and most varied programs in the state, serving over 3,000 people; off-campus courses, both undergraduate and graduate, of which BSC is the largest in the state; and evening classes for non-degree programs. This area is currently expanding, with the goal of being able to offer complete degrees during the evening.

The department is also hoping to begin a "weekender" program in the Spring which would offer classes on Saturdays to serve individuals whose work and family schedules don't permit class attendance during the week.

A new area which will be handled by the School of Extended Studies is a Rural Basic Education Program. BSC recently received a $26,000 Federal grant through the state to begin this program. It is a pilot project and which the area of teacher education is presently undergoing. The seven steps include: 1. preparatory, 2. planning, 3. transition, 4. review, 5. design, 6. implementation, and 7. future. At this time, the program is in the fourth stage, review.

Macauley said that the ultimate goal of the process is improvement in the teacher education program as a whole. Another area which Macauley oversees is the School of Nursing, which he said has received full state board approval in the past year. At present, the college is waiting to hear from the National League of Nursing, who visited the college and who is reviewing the school's program to decide whether or not it will receive accreditation from that organization in the Fall of 1982.

As a whole, Macauley said the major thrusts of the department are in self-analysis and evaluation of their programs and their effectiveness.

The School of Extended Studies is an area which is undergoing a great deal of growth and expansion. Dean Daniel Pantaleo outlined some of the services which fall under his department. Summer school is one such area, and Pantaleo pointed out that the summer program at BSC is the largest in Eastern Pa., outside of feels it is important for the alumni to "talk up" BSC's graduate program in their travels, in order to try to attract more people to the college.

Dean Emory Rarig spoke of developments in the area of business administration, including implementation of a Finance major, thus completing the business administration program.

At the graduate level, Rarig said the MBA program is currently operating at its maximum number of students. This same situation applies to the undergraduate program as well. Because of the large number of students seeking admission to the program, cutoffs and enrollment controls must be used for the major.

These cutoffs include a limit of 325 students in the area of incoming freshmen, and if a student wishes to transfer into the major from another area of study, he must have an overall cumulative average of at least 2.75.

Rarig further stated that the department is always trying to fine tune its programs for excellence. A major problem it encounters in this area, however, is finding qualified instructors to fill the positions.

However, he also cited examples of the success of the business curriculum at the college. At a national competition held this past July in Chicago for Phi Beta Lambda, BSC had entrants place first, fifth, and sixth, in different areas. He said the department is placing many of its top students in positions with major accounting and management firms, with many individuals going to the Houston area.

All in all, each of the deans held nothing but high hopes and optimism for the future of the college. Each feels that BSC has the potential and ability to continue to grow and to expand, and will most definitely survive in the coming decades.

Fund buys five books for library

Five books have been purchased for the Harvey A. Andrus Library with interest income from the Howard F. Fenstermaker Library Fund.

The fund was created by Howard's friends and colleagues upon his retirement from the BSC faculty in 1963. He also served for many years as president of the BSC Alumni Association and was a recipient of the association's Distinguished Service Award in 1964.

Purchased in Howard's name were THE NATIONAL MUSEUM OF AMERICAN HISTORY: A SMITHSONIAN MUSEUM by Shirley Abbott, RODIN REDISCOVERED by Albert E. Elsen, THE WORLD'S GREAT BALLET by John Gruen, JACOB VAN RUISDAEL by Seymour Slive and THE ART OF DYNASTIC CHINA by William Watson.

Similar purchases are planned for each ensuing year, using interest income generated by the fund.

Yearbooks available

The Yearbook Office has announced that the 1981 Obiter will be available by the middle of November. If members of the class have not received their copies by the end of that month, they should contact the Obiter office.

Also, available are yearbooks from past years: 1974-1977-$5.50; 1978-1979-$8.00; and 1980-$12.00. All prices include the cost of postage.

Additionally, anyone who has not received his yearbook from the years 1971, and 1974-80, should contact the Obiter office. All inquiries should be addressed to Obiter, KUB 17, BSC, Bloomsburg, Pa. 17815.

A room for you . . .

As the creation of the new alumni room in Carver Hall nears completion, we'd like to share some photos which show the progress since the project began last fall. While black-and-white photos don't do justice to the room, they may prompt you to make a personal inspection whenever you're back in Bloomsburg. Work began last fall when new walls were constructed (A) to separate the secretarial office from the alumni room. Working patiently throughout the dusty and noisy construction period were Betty LeVan (left), alumni secretary, and Linda Long, records clerk. Shown checking the plans (F) are John Scheil, architect; John Walker, executive assistant to the president who served as consultant for the project; and Paul Long, one of the BSC craftsmen who translated the plans into an elegant room. Carpenter Paul Long and secretary Betty LeVan often found themselves working side by side (G) during the early days of the project. Work in the northwest corner of the room (K) included new walls to hide pipes and the heating and cooling units. We all joked about the chandelier coming in way under bid (B), but were wowed when the real thing arrived (C). Some of the first furnishings in the 18th Century period room include a mirror and dried flower arrangement (D) and a music stand in the entrance hall (E) on which the registry of gifts for the room will be placed. Photos H, I and J show progress on the bookshelf-lined east wall, while photos L, M and N record the creation of the fireplace. We hope most of the remaining furniture will be in place by Christmas. If you would like to be part of this exciting project, please contact Doug Hippenspiel, director of alumni affairs.

Alumni chapters: A good time

As this issue of THE ALUMNI QUARTERLY goes to press, five alumni chapter meetings have been held. The get-togethers were held in Shamokin Dam, Media, Towanda, Bethlehem and Wilkes-Barre.

Reports on meetings in Williamsport (October 29), Scranton (November 5) and Hazleton (November 12) will be included in the next issue of the Quarterly.

SNYDER-UNION-NORTHUMBERLAND

Alumni from the three counties of Snyder, Union, and Northumberland met on Thursday, September 10, at the Holiday Inn in Shamokin Dam.

Attending the meeting were Helen E. Barrow '24, Virginia E. Cruikshank '30 and '39, Martha A. Fisher '25, Mary K. Heintzelman '28, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Danowsky '33 & '54, Jacqueline Epler '57, Mary Ann Wahl Ford '59, L. Ann Krum Thomas '68, Warren Frantz '70, Linda Frantz '72, Kathy Schoch Jeremiah '78 and her husband, Keith; and Patricia Young '71.

Expressing an interest, but unable to attend were Alda Culp '30, M. Augusta Schnure Foose '30, Miles M. Kostenbauder '23, Erma G. Shearer '29, Matilda K. Tiley '23, Sara S. Walter '30, Sarah Ellen Schnure Mack '34 & '58, Rachel D. Malick '34 & '36, Nora Bayliff Markunas '34, Marian D. Smith '42, Ted Andrewlevich '62, Helen E. Ditty '38, Arlene Pope Bohner '50, and Leslie W. Seidel '71.

Representing BSC were A.J. McDonnell, director of secondary education; and Doug Hippenstiel, director of alumni affairs.

The possibility of holding additional meetings in the Shamokin-Mt. Carmel and Milton-Lewisburg areas because of the size of the geographical area was also discussed. The next meeting will also include an opportunity to have dinner together.

Alumnus operates restaurant in Centre Square

John "Ike" Eichenlaub '78 has teamed up with two other entrepreneurs to fulfill a dream: owning their own restaurant and bar.

Ike was always a hardworker, and his endless school spirit involved him in a variety of student activities in his four years at BSC. Ike spent three years on the Homecoming committee, was instrumental in organizing the Tau Kappa Epsilon International Fraternity, was president of the junior class, played varsity baseball and participated in over a dozen other clubs and organizations.

Upon graduation in 1978, Ike organized his own aluminum siding and storm door business in Philadelphia and in Bucks and Montgomery counties. With the aid of the energy crisis, his business grew and prospered.

In early July, 1980, Bob Cook of Maple Glen, Elmer Heiland of Wrightsville, and Ike organized to purchase the Green Acres Inn in Centre Square. Over 100 years old, the 10-room hotel building is located on over 17 acres of land.

In late July, Good Old Days, Ltd., was incorporated and the physical work and marketing strategy began, according to Ike.

Ike met Bob Clark, a graduate of Upper Dublin High School and West Chester State College, on the basketball court in January. They began talking about investments and shared some ideas. Bob had been employed by several food and beverage establishments in the past six years as a short-order cook, bartender and a handyman.

Later, Bob introduced Ike to Elmer Heiland, an executive chef at a popular dining place in the Norristown area. With family in the bar business in York County, Elmer had been working in restaurants, bars and hotels since the age of eight. He graduated second in a class of 230 students at the prestigious Culinary Institute of America, one of the finest culinary art schools in the world, while adding credits from Penn State's school of hotel and restaurant management.

The partners took a business risk by moving in before settlement on September 1 with a $5,000 deposit. The next six weeks were spent renovating the building while living with the owner and his wife as they continued to operate the bar and serve a sandwich menu. During that time, the crumbling exterior of the building and the old dining room were given a facelift. The cracked walls and peeling plaster was repaired and the cobwebs were removed.

New equipment salvaged from various auctions was installed in the kitchen. The partners bartered with local contractors and stores for building materials. They combined their tools and mechanical skills in doing all the work themselves to save money. Finally, on October 14, the papers were signed. The Green Acres Inn became Good Old Days, Ltd.

Ike reports that the first two weeks of business were excellent. Billed as a "unique gathering place," Good Old Days serves hearty sandwich platters, with luncheon and dinner specials daily. The building includes two separate rooms — with many attractions — and a kitchen on the first floor. The original bar side has a large oval bar, television, a dart board, computer and electronic games, a pool table and seating for about 100 people.

The other side has a quaint cafe setting with exposed beams, a fireplace and tables and chairs to seat at least 50 people. The other trimmings include a hand-crafted wood bar, a carpeted D.J. booth and a hardwood oak dance floor.

Ike invites BSC alumni to call him at (215) 275-8785 for a schedule of special nights and theme parties. Located at 1486 Skippack Pike (Route 73), Good Old Days, Ltd., is just 100 yards past the busy intersection of Rt. 202 and is easily accessible from a network of major highways.

Ike also sent us a note to pass on to his friends and other alumni: "At the present time, the operational kinks of the business are being worked out, and the building is receiving its finishing polish. Since about one-fourth of all BSC graduates live in southeastern Pennsylvania, my partners have agreed to offer our facilities for any BSC function year-round.

"As the news spreads, BSC grads are popping in every other day. We are all products of the state college system, and we will continue to support it. We will be happy to plan parties and reunions of sororities, fraternities, athletes, nurses, teachers or any other groups.

"On Tuesday, December 8, Good Old Days is sponsoring a "Beef 'n' Beer" night for BSC alumni in the area. Notices will be mailed when the details are finalized.

"We encourage all alumni—young and old—to gather at the Good Old Days to rekindle old friendships and to relive those fond memories of Bloom."

Alumni remember Dormack

Several BSC alumni have provided some information about Walter F. Dormack, Class of 1920, as the result of the article which appeared in the last issue of THE ALUMNI QUARTERLY. It was noted in the article that little is known about the man who named the college as beneficiary on several savings accounts. Dormack died earlier this year in Brooklyn, N.Y.

Catharine Wilkinson, Class of 1919, wrote that she went to high school with Walter in Mt. Carmel. "He was a great athlete, being on the track and football teams. He only had one arm, but that never hindered his athletic ability. He was a very quiet fellow and really only associated with his fellow athletes."

Myrllyn Shafer, president of the Class of 1921, also wrote: "Walter didn't communicate too much with underclassmen. He was a pretty good football player and I'm sure you can find his picture on the football squad in the 1920 Obiter. His one arm was cut off at the elbow, and he used that stump as a pretty good weapon on the football field."

"As I recall, he worked his way through school in the dining room, which perhaps explains why he so generously remembered his Alma Mater."

Several Bloomsburg men—including Ed Schuyler and Warren Fisher—also remember Walter. But no one seems to know what happened to him after he left Bloomsburg. Anyone with information is invited to contact the Alumni Office.

Members of the Alumni Association Board of Directors who were able to attend the board meeting on October 9 are shown in the Alumni Room in Carver Hall. Seated, from left, are Carolyn Carr '74, Betty Ruth Keller Luchak '68, secretary; Peggy Burns '67, vice president; C. Stuart Edwards '41, president; John Trathen '68, treasurer; Lois Lawson '33, and Editha Ent Adams '24. Standing are Richard Grimes '49, John Thomas '47, Joan Havard Kilroy '54, Doug McClintock '73, Al Cyganowski '53, Jacque Feddock '72, Ron Cranford '63, Steve Andrejack '74, Francis D. Sell '35, Elizabeth Huhler '31 and Dick Lloyd '62. Unable to attend the meeting were Elwood Wagner '43, Curtis R. English '56, Eva Mekel Mack '76, Frank Furgele '52, Gus Tibha '58 arrived after the photograph was taken.

Eight alumni have been elected honorary life members of the Alumni Association Board of Directors in recognition of serving at least 15 years on the board. Honored at a luncheon on Homecoming were (from left) Millard Ludwig '48, John Thomas '47, and (right) Earl Gehrig '37. They are shown with Dr. C. Stuart Edwards '41, president of the Association. Unable to attend were Vera Hemingway Housenick '05, F. Ruth Speary Griffith '18, Hervey Smith '22, Edward F. Schuyler '24, and Howard F. Fenstemaker '07.

'Doc' Sell fills vacancy on board

Francis D. "Doc" Sell, Class of 1935, was recently appointed to fill an unexpired term on the Alumni Association Board of Directors. He will serve until spring of 1983.

"Doc" has been an active booster of BSC for many years and has been a key member of the Pennsylvania Dutch Chapter of BSC alumni in the Reading area.

As a student at BSC, "Doc" won Bloomsburg's first-ever state track title in the 880-yard run and was an active track competitor in his four years at BSC.

In recent years, he has been sponsor of the Francis D. Sell Outstanding Track and Field Award, presented annually to a student who has given long and outstanding performances in track and field throughout their BSC careers.

The four recipients to date have been Steve Eachus, 1978; Jeff Carruthers, 1979; Dan McCallum, 1980; and Mike Gorczynski, 1981.

"Doc," who retired from teaching after 37 years, is a self-employed real estate broker in Boyertown.

Marianne leaves

By JIM LYMAN
Publications Intern

Marianne Montague, whose name and face is familiar to many BSC students of the past four years, resigned her position as assistant director of student activities and Kehr College Union on September 4. She is now director of public relations at Our Lady of Lourdes Hospital in Binghamton, New York.

Marianne, who was advisor to the Kehr Union Program Board, Bloomsburg Student Concert Committee, and Homecoming Committee, planned and produced the program of student activities on campus. She directed the major events on campus, such as, the dance marathon, arts and crafts festivals and Siblings Weekend, along with having a hand in just about anything else that had to do with student programming.

Through her four years at the college, Marianne established very strong relationships with the students with whom she worked. Dr. Jack Mulka, director of student activities and college union, stated that "her family consisted of the students she worked with." This was more than evident with members of the Program Board, who would refer to her as "Mom" and they were "her kids."

Mulka went on in commanding her by saying, "she is a woman who has great promise" and "who gave her heart and soul to the job, and that's why she was successful."

Roanne A. Heisner '81 is a procurement analyst assistant at Pennsylvania Power and Light Company, Allentown. She lives at 2454 Mountain Lane, No. 6, Allentown, Pa. 18103.

Leslie L. Lauver '81 is a secretary with the National Association of Manufacturers in Washington, D.C. Her address is 7109 Carroll Ave., Apt. 3, Takoma Park, Md. 20912.

Manuel R. Stivers Jr. '81 reports that he lives at 7301 Germantown Ave., Philadelphia, Pa. 19119, and is a student.

Karen Susan Sinnwell '81 and Carl L. Beck are engaged. Karen is a graduate student at BSC. Carl also attends BSC.

Second Lieutenant Ernest Jackson '81 may be reached at Box 1663, Ft. Benning, Ga. 31905. Ernie is a training officer for the infantry training brigade.

Barbara Deromedi '81 recently became the bride of Anthony Briel. Barbara is a registered nurse at Polyclinic Medical Center. Tony is self-employed. The couple live at 505 S. 18th Street, Harrisburg, Pa. 17104.

Denny C. Velas '81 is a junior accountant with Concannon, Gallagher, Miller & Co., C.P.A.s. His address is 665 Lamb Street, Bethlehem, Pa. 18015.

He cited her "adaptability, flexibility, and ability to take on new responsibilities and to do well with them." These traits, along with what he characterized as "a professional style about her," are all assets which will help her farther along the road.

Marianne's replacement as programmer will be Tammy Chacona. Miss Chacona comes from Kent State University, where she earned a master's degree in student personnel administration, and Indiana University of Pennsylvania, where she received a bachelor of arts degree with a major in political science and a minor in English.

Before leaving Bloomsburg, Marianne expressed a reluctance in departing because of the ties she has established here, but also spoke of her excitement in starting a new job with fresh challenges and opportunities.

"I will always hold a very special place in my heart for Bloomsburg State College," she said. "I've made a lot of friends here, I've grown personally and professionally, and I know I'll always look back on these days as some of the best times of my life."

In showing their gratitude for all she's done for BSC, the college held a number of ceremonies, formal and informal, for her. These included a picnic held at Indian Head Campgrounds in Rupert, and a reception in the Kehr Union featuring a six-foot-long by three-foot-wide cake baked by Tony the Baker.

Surely, she will be missed by the college community, but everyone also wishes her the very best in all of her endeavors.

A prisoner of the 'Rising Sun'

BY BOB STILES
Publications Intern

Dorothy Schmidt looked through the jungle. Four copper-colored faces stared back at her. The waiting ended. The hiding ceased. She was now a prisoner of the Japanese, a people she once taught and called her friends.

"I wasn't surprised when I saw our captors," said Dorothy. "We knew they were coming."

The year was 1942. Japan and the United States were engaged, as enemies, in World War II. Now, early in the war, the Japanese army was easily capturing the islands around their homeland, while the Allied forces concentrated their efforts in Europe.

It was on one of these islands in the Philippines where Dorothy, an American missionary to Japan, was hiding with six other foreigners. They were hiding in the Manilian jungle. Immediately before the war began in December 1941, Dorothy and another female missionary had fled from Japan to the island.

"We just stayed at our hut, waiting for our captors," she recalls. "We knew they would be there soon—four days earlier they had come and taken Mr. Bryant as a hostage." Bryant, manager of a coconut plantation on the island, had ordered his employees to build two huts deep in the jungle as places to hide from the Japanese.

"We couldn't flee from our hiding place, because we knew the Japanese would kill Mr. Bryant if we did," she said.

It was at the second hut where Dorothy's captors—called Mestizos because of their mixed blood—found them. She and the others had fled from the first hut when they were informed that the Japanese were near.

"The Mestizos gladly cooperated with the Japanese, partly out of fear for their lives, but also because they had a chip on their shoulders toward Americans," she said.

Dorothy recalls that she and the others were almost glad to be captured. "Before we were captured, most of us thought death would be better than hiding much longer in the jungle. There's something about the human spirit that needs to look up and away. A person needs a vista. There is no vista in the jungle with the tall trees. I don't think many of us would have made it much longer, mentally, even though we had enough food for three years."

The four captors led Dorothy and the other foreigners to the Japanese, who were waiting at the edge of the jungle. "The Japanese were afraid to go into the jungle because they feared they would be shot by American or guerrilla soldiers," she said.

The Japanese took Dorothy's group to Silliman University, which is in Manila. The Japanese had set up headquarters at the university. For the rest of World War II, Dorothy and the other foreigners spent their days as prisoners of the Japanese.

Dorothy's story began innocently enough. In 1927, while a freshman at Bloomsburg, she read a book by E. Stanley Jones, a missionary to the Far East. "After I read that book, I decided I would like to teach abroad as a missionary," said the 72-year-old Scranton native. She graduated in 1929 with a two-year teaching certificate.

That same year, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania required all teachers to complete four years of college before receiving their teaching certificates. Because she had enrolled in college before the requirement took effect, Dorothy was permitted to teach. But she returned for her third year.

At the end of that year, she took a job teaching in Hatboro to earn money to complete her education. After four and a half years at Hatboro, Dorothy received her bachelor of science degree in 1934 after attending summer school plus two more semesters.

She then went to the New Theological Seminary and received her master's degree in Christian education in 1937. From there, she applied to the Board of Foreign Missions and was sent to Japan in August of 1937.

"Before I left Pennsylvania, I learned that the Japanese had invaded China, and the two nations were at war," she said. "The mission board told me to sail to Japan, despite the war, and after a month-long trip I arrived in Japan during the third week of September."

Dorothy was greeted by a missionary when her boat docked, and she was told she would be teaching English the following day. "I was already late for language lessons, and I had to start from the beginning. Talk about culture shock. I stood the next day before an all-girl high school class, and they all looked alike to me. They all wore the same uniform, and they all had the same short, jet-black hair. When they looked at me, I wondered whether I would ever be able to distinguish one from the other."

During that first year in Japan, Dorothy learned Japanese in the morning and taught English in the afternoon. The following year, she transferred to Sapporo, where she also taught English at a school for girls.

While in Sapporo, she learned to ski from one of Italy's best alpine skiers. "Everyone in Sapporo skis. The children start at a young age, and they continue to ski as they grow older."

Dorothy recalls that the winters in Sapporo last for ten months. "We always said there were two seasons: winter and autumn. I remember one year when we could look down a 17-foot snow drift at a streetcar."

She spent four years teaching in Sapporo before World War II began. During that time, the U.S. embassy kept informing the missionaries about the possibility of a pending war. "They were encouraging us to leave even then," she said.

DOROTHY SCHMIDT

decided right after arriving in Japan that the Japanese were up to something. Matches were hard to find, gas was scarce and all transportation was powered by charcoal stoves.

"We weren't allowed to have short-wave radios either, and all we heard was what the Japanese wanted us to hear. Our mail was also censored, and it wasn't uncommon to find the wrong letter in the wrong envelope."

A year before the war began, cables were sent from the United States instructing all missionaries with children, or nearing retirement, or in poor health, to return to the States.

While still in Sapporo, Dorothy got a telegram telling her that her mother had died. "I would have been allowed to leave, but I decided to stay, even in the advent of war."

Dorothy's problems with the Japanese began one sunny morning in Sapporo. A man and woman knocked on her door, saying they were changing trains and thought they would stop to visit some fellow Americans.

"We invited them in, and during the conversation the man kept asking us questions about how far the nearest airport was and what color the sand on the beach was. He kept talking, so we couldn't ask him who he was," she said.

The military police contacted the school the next day and asked Dorothy if she knew who the two people were. "We didn't, but the

When the boat docked in Shanghai, Dorothy and the other missionaries went to the mission there and were able to draw their salaries from New York.

"At this time, no boats were leaving for America," she recalls.

When Dorothy arrived in Manila, she taught at Silliman University for three weeks until World War II broke out. At the advent of the war, Dorothy and all the missionaries in the area—about 30 people—divided into three groups and hid in the jungle.

"We didn't know where the other groups went. That way, if we were captured by the Japanese, we could truthfully say that we didn't know where the others were."

Dorothy's party was sent to Bryant's coconut plantation, where they lived for six months until the Japanese captured Manila. While at the plantation, Dorothy and five other female missionaries in her group bought all the canned goods they could find. Dorothy and another female missionary also translated letters which were written in Japanese.

"We signed the letters, and this information somehow got back to the Japanese."

After the Japanese began to penetrate the southern part of the island, Dorothy and the second female missionary went to the first hut which had been built by Bryant's workmen—a good day's journey from the plantation.

"We left our trunks behind at the plantation. We took only our passports, some clothes, books and food. We were preparing to stay in the jungle for three years," Dorothy recalls.

The food consisted of rice and meat that had been desiccated in cobra dryers and placed in oil tins. It took 30 men two weeks to transport the goods to the second hut.

"Bryant's workmen refused to carry our books, so we decided to take only three books with us: a copy of the New Testament, a hymnal and a Japanese grammar book. I thought the Bible would keep my spirits up, and might help me find the strength to go through whatever years were ahead of me in the jungle. I thought the hymnal would keep my heart singing, and that the grammar book would keep my mind occupied and keep me from feeling sorry for my plight."

When the Japanese reached the plantation they burned it to the ground. Shortly before, Bryant and his wife had fled to the second hut.

Dorothy and the others were accompanied by two Filipino boys. "They knew, like all Filipinos, how to live in the jungle. Without those two boys, I don't think we would have been able to live for too long in the jungle."

She spent three months in the jungle. Her group was joined by a

Cecil Seronsy shared love of literature, ideas

Dr. Cecil C. Seronsy, former BSC professor, died in Bloomsburg on October 11. He was an internationally recognized scholar in Renaissance literature.

An emeritus professor of English and former chairperson of the English Department, he retired in 1973 after 21 years at BSC. Before that he was an instructor in English at Purdue University and a teaching fellow in general education at Harvard University.

He was educated in the Lowellville, Ohio, schools and later earned his B.A. at the University of Virginia and his M.A. and Ph.D. from Harvard University.

His professional society memberships included the Modern Language Association of America, the American Association of University Professors and the Renaissance Society of America.

His book, "Samuel Daniel," a critical and biographical study of the Renaissance poet, critic and historian, was published in 1967. In addition, Dr. Seronsy had published many articles in the most highly respected scholarly journals, such as the "Journal of English and Germanic Philology," "Modern Language Notes," "Philological Quarterly," "Shakespeare Quarterly," "Keats-Shelley Journal," "Modern Language Review,"

"Notes and Queries, the Explicator," and the "Harvard Library Bulletin." His wide-ranging literary interests included Swift, Dryden, Wordsworth, Coleridge, Jane Austen and Poe.

Recognition of his work took the form of a 1964 grant from the Huntington Library and Art Gallery in Pasadena, Calif.

One of those rare scholar-teachers whose love of literature and ideas was shared with students, friends and colleagues, Dr. Seronsy will be remembered by them as a teacher who was inspiring, a scholar whose intellectual curiosity was constant, and as a Renaissance man whose wit and humor will remain in the memory of those who knew him.

When he retired from BSC in 1973, a Seronsy Renaissance Collection of rare books was established at the Harvey A. Andrus Library.

The Renaissance collection was exhibited in Andrus Library following Dr. Seronsy's death. Donations to enlarge that collection may be sent to the alumni office (payable to BSC Alumni Association) with a notation that it is to be used for the Seronsy collection.

The son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Seronsy of Lowellville, Ohio, Dr. Seronsy is survived by his wife, the former Louise Baird, who retired from the psychology department of Bloomsburg State College in 1973.

DR. CECIL SERONSY

Long-time faculty members retire

Two long-time BSC faculty members announced their retirements from teaching this year. Dr. Margaret Sponseller, a professor serving in the capacity of director of the reading clinic, retired at the end of the summer sessions, and Dr. Tobias Scarpino, a professor of physics, will retire at the end of the fall semester.

Sponseller completed 29 years in the field of education, 19 of which were at BSC. She holds a B.S. in education from Indiana University of Pa., a M.Ed. and Ed.D. from Penn State University, and did her postgraduate work at the University of Pittsburgh.

In addition, she was a member of a number of professional organizations, including the Susquehanna Reading Conference, the National Education Association, and the Pennsylvania State Education Association.

She also served as president of the Keystone State Reading

Association, and sat on several advisory groups. She was a reading consultant to the Nanticoke and Shikellamy School Districts.

DR. MARGARET SPONSELLER

Dr. Scarpino will be completing his 29th year in the field of education, 23 of which were spent at BSC. He received a B.S. in education from Kutztown State College, a M.S. in education from Bucknell University, and a Ed.D. from Penn State University.

DR. TOBIAS SCARPINO

While at the college, Scarpino served on a number of college committees, including Graduate Council, the advisory committee to the Learning Resources Center, and the college-wide Merit Committee. He served on many departmental committees, some of which he chaired as senior member of the department.

In addition to his college-related activities, Scarpino has been involved each year with Physical Science Day for high school students, and has also judged science exhibits at the Bloomsburg Fair and the Junior Academy of Science. He has been involved with various community organizations, giving talks on lasers and bubbles to the Rotary and Torch Clubs.

French tour next June

To provide an understanding of French art and culture, the course "Art and Culture of France" will be offered for the third time under the co-sponsorship of the department of art and the department of languages and cultures in the summer of 1982. Emphasis this time will be upon Normandy, including the Norman influences in England.

The study-tour will visit England and France from June 13-30, under the direction of professors Kenneth Wilson and Mary Lou John. Students may enroll for either undergraduate or graduate credit. Cost without tuition will be $1,235.

Band alumni picnic

Over 60 people attended the 6th Annual Maroon and Gold Band Alumni Picnic held on July 18th at the Bloomsburg Town Park.

The oldest class represented was '73, with two members, Denise (Young) McDaniels and Richard Schwanger in attendance.

Among others attending were the Class of '74—Melanie (Becker) Duffy, Anne Redding, Jane (Stine) Linn, and Judy (Fielder) Stine; Class of '75—Greg Bitler, Charles Palmeri, Claudia Whittaker; Class of '76—

Barbara Fritz, Bob Schwanger, Linda Schmicker and Barry Pearson.

Class of '77—Barbara (Buckham) Ward, Larry Nester, and Emily Myers; Class of '78—Evelyn (Balint) Owens, Jay Franklin, Tom Geiger, Tom Ruhl, and Sue Staaf.

Homecoming

The 54th homecoming at BSC was highlighted by the crowning of Patricia E. Campbell, a sophomore from Philadelphia, as homecoming sweetheart during half-time of the BSC-West Chester football game.

Campbell represented the Third World Cultural Society and appeared on the organization's float in the third division of the homecoming parade.

First runner-up was Miss Tau Kappa Epsilon, Kim Gobora, a junior from Levittown. Marie Hoffner, Miss Delta Pi, a senior from Blue Bell, was second runner-up; Annette Ashcroft, Miss Zeta Psi, a junior from East Stroudsburg, was third runner-up; and Cheryl Snyder, Miss Delta Epsilon Beta, a senior from Glen Mills, was fourth runner-up.

Carol Perlinsky, from Denville, N.J., was recognized as this year's freshman sweetheart.

Honors for winning float in the parade went to Chi Sigma Rho and Sigma Iota Omega for their theme, "Sousa—the Music Man." Second place for "A Tribute to Rodgers and Hammerstein" went to Phi Sigma Pi and the Commuters' Association. Third place was captured by Phi Iota Chi and Delta Omega Chi for the theme "The Wizard of Oz" and fourth place for "Thank You for the Music" went to the BSC Concert Choir.

The winning dormitory float was created by Montour Hall and had the theme "Broadway Shows." Runner-up honors went to Lycoming Hall for "Evolution of Music."

The Inter-Sorority Council award to sorority with the highest academic average went to Alpha Sigma Alpha, while Lambda Chi Alpha copped the Inter-Fraternity award. The ISC and IFS Involvement Awards went respectively to Sigma Sigma Sigma and Delta Pi for outstanding involvement in activities outside the sorority or fraternity.

Half-time ceremony speakers and award presenters included Dr. Jack Mulka, homecoming committee advisor; President James H. McCormick; Cheryl Zachary, homecoming chairperson; Lou Mingrone, soccer coach; Dave Stout; Kathy Boyle and Scott Schaeffer.

Alumni awards for the most returning fraternity and sorority members went to Sigma Iota Omega and Sigma Sigma Sigma.

The classes of 1956, 66, 71, and 76 held reunions, while dances were held at both the Danville Sheraton Inn and the campus Kehr Union building.

Weekend activities concluded Sunday evening with the Homecoming Pops Concert in Haas Auditorium, followed by folksinger Rod MacDonald in the Kehr Coffeehouse.

A family affair

By Jim Lyman
Publications Intern

When most people think of Homecoming, they conjure up visions of various traditions. The annual parade on College Hill, the bonfire and pep rally, and the Saturday afternoon football game at Redman Stadium.

For the Zachary family of Glenolden, Pa., however, the tradition they think of is the whole process of setting up the activities for Homecoming weekend.

Scott Zachary '78 served as co-chairman of the Homecoming Committee in his junior year, and chairman during his senior year. This year, his sister, Cheryl, kept it in the family by serving as the 1981 chairperson.

This was the first time in anyone's memory that a brother and sister have both served as chairperson of the committee here at the college.

Cheryl explained that she first became interested in BSC Homecoming activities while still in high school because Scott was heading up the planning for the weekend.

When she came to Bloomsburg the following year, she took Scott's advice and spoke to Jack Mulka, director of student activities and advisor to the Homecoming Committee. That semester, she worked on the committee and has done so in each of her four years at the college.

This year, as chairperson, she was responsible for coming up with the theme of the weekend, "I Am Music," as well as organizing many of the other festivities.

Homecoming Weekend, however, is not the only activity at Bloomsburg in which they have taken an active part.

Scott was a founding brother of the local chapter of Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity, and also served as their first Hypophetes (chaplain), the officer who organizes all the group's formal ceremonies.

Cheryl is an active member of the Order of Diana, the TKE Little Sisters, and served as vice-president during 1980.

Since graduating in 1978, Scott has been employed at the family-owned business, Zachary Plumbing and Heating, where Cheryl says he "does just about everything." In March he will be married.

Cheryl will graduate in May with a degree in mass communications, and hopes to pursue a career in television and film production. This summer she completed an internship with E.J. Stewart, Philadelphia, and will return there in January to intern as a production assistant.

Rising Sun

British couple who were friends of the Bryants. All during this time the Mestizos were looking for them, and on the third try they succeeded.

They came around breakfast time and took Bryant as a hostage. Four days later, the Mestizos returned. Before they returned, Dorothy and the others buried what belongings they had. After the war, a missionary found the belongings using a map Dorothy had given to him.

Dorothy guesses that the Mestizos had bribed one of Bryant's employees to learn the location of the hut. She recalls that the Japanese did not treat them brutally, but did let them know, by their actions, who was in charge.

"We didn't tell them we could speak Japanese until much later. When the officer in charge discovered who we were, his attitude toward us changed to one of complete friendliness. I think the ability to speak another's language breaks down a barrier."

The officer in charge interceded with his superiors, and Dorothy and the others were given faculty housing at the university, where they were interned for three months.

"We slept on hardwood floors because the Japanese had removed all the furniture. They only gave us a stove and a charcoal brazier."

The missionaries were not allowed to go out on the streets, but they were able to borrow money and sent servants for food.

Dorothy recalls seeing a black cloud spread across the sky like a tornado during this period. When the "cloud" landed, she realized it was a swarm of locusts. "We needed food, so we filled the pots and pans with the locusts. We were going to eat them if we had to."

Weeks after their capture, they were informed that the superior general of the area was coming to see them and would decide their fates.

"When he arrived, we served him tea with all the Japanese ceremony. At the same time, we spoke only Japanese. When we told him we were from Sapporo, his eyes lit up and he exclaimed that Sapporo was his hometown. We had hoped to impress him, and that was exactly what we did! I think he saved our lives!"

One night after the superior general's visit, Japanese soldiers came into Dorothy's hut and ordered all the prisoners to come with them. "We asked if we could bring our clothes, and they replied, 'come right now!'"

The group was taken to the headquarters. "It wasn't until months later, after the war was over and we were back in America, that we learned the Japanese had received word that guerrilla soldiers were planning to invade the town. We were hostages in case the Japanese needed us to exchange for their

The guerrilla soldiers never came. The group returned to their lodging, and about two hours later the soldiers came back and told them to gather all their belongings.

Twenty-five men and women who were prisoners at the university were taken by barge to the other side of the island. On the barge, they shared their space with lice. "We'd wake up at night with rashes from lice bites," Dorothy recalls.

Dorothy was on the barge for three days and nights. They were given warm water to drink, but weren't allowed to wash their hands. There were no sanitary facilities on the barge, and all the prisoners used a potty.

"Part of the psychology of war is to embarrass the enemy. When someone had to use the potty, we turned our backs so he could have some privacy," she said.

Their next stop was an elementary school, where about 150 people were interned. Many of that number were British who had been captured on the island's many coconut and sugar plantations.

"One British man, who had run a sugar plantation, bought all our food at the expense of the company he worked for. According to the Geneva Convention, the Japanese should have bought all our food. But they didn't. We gave the man IOU's, and at the end of the war his company asked us to repay them. I did."

Every two weeks, the commander of Japanese forces in the area came to look at the prisoners. When he wasn't there, the head of the camp was a Japanese businessman who had come to the island to set up a business. "He was an arrogant man who was certain the Japanese were going to win the war. At the time, it seemed that he was right."

From the school, the group was taken to a freighter, lined up like cattle. They had to wait in the harbor for five days until the ship was repaired. "The Japanese asked one of the men in our party to repair the ship, and he did."

The freighter docked in Manila, and the group was taken to St. Thomas University, which had been commandeered by the Japanese. Dorothy spent two years and four months there.

"Life wasn't too bad, except for the confinement. We were a mixed group, and we kept our morale up by singing and entertaining each other. We even started our own school. I taught algebra. We tried to make it seem somewhat like ordinary life."

Dorothy recalls that while it looked as if the Japanese were winning the war, their treatment wasn't too harsh. But when the surrounding islands started to fall into American hands, the Japanese soldiers' attitudes changed, and they instituted punishments.

In January of 1944, the university became a military camp. Until that time, civilians oversaw the camp. It was at this time that the Japanese reduced the prisoners' diet to about 500 calories a day. They also abolished activities, except for one record that was used to wake up the camp each morning. One song was "You're in the Army Now."

Suffering from the lack of nourishment, the prisoners became moronic, "We had glassy stares, and our bodies moved in slow-motion. We just lay on our cots. We didn't have the strength to move."

In this condition, Dorothy guesses, they were two or three weeks away from death. "People were dying from beriberi. Luckily, we had a missionary doctor in the group."

In February, American planes flew overhead, and the prisoners thought they were finally free. "We found out later that the pilots had dropped their goggles, on which was written, 'we'll be back tomorrow!'"

That night, the prisoners were forced to go to bed at 6 p.m. Later, a bright light flashed across the sky.

"Because of the poor feeding, it took us a while to realize what was happening. We finally got outside and saw airplanes."

The Japanese officer in charge was furious, Dorothy recalls. Any person caught looking up at the bombers was taken away from the camp and forced to look up at the rising sun until they fainted. "Some of the people were blinded or had their sight impaired," she added.

That night the prisoners buried their dead. They also sent four prisoners to act as liaison to the Japanese. The Japanese beheaded the four prisoners and put their heads on one side of the street and their bodies on the other.

When the camp was liberated, the prisoners ripped the Japanese commander to pieces. "They were people who had to release their suppressed feelings of revenge. This is the hell of war! It wasn't only the yellow race that was hateful!"

Dorothy was no longer a prisoner of the Rising Sun. After being freed, the prisoners boarded a U.S. troop ship in April of 1945. Before reaching safety, the ship had to outmaneuver a Japanese submarine.

While on the troop ship, the passengers experienced what Dorothy describes as the worst typhoon she had ever seen in all her years in Japan. The ship was stranded in the ocean for three days. "People were dying, and we had to bury them at sea."

Coupled with the typhoon was word that President Roosevelt had died. A sorrowful people lowered the ship's flag to half-staff.

After the typhoon subsided, the ship continued to Hawaii and then to Los Angeles. After a week-long train ride, Dorothy reached New York City.

"When I arrived, I was still unable to walk from the effects of my poor diet as a prisoner. My pastor found me an apartment, and I lived there for two years. It's hard to be incarcerated in a prison and then try to return to society."

When the Bloomsburg Players presented "The Great Magician" early in October, it was occasion for a reunion. Alumni who were members of the cast of the 1969 production were invited back for the final performance. Meeting backstage during intermission were (standing, from left) Robert Casey, Michelle Baker Casey, Jim Berkheiser, June Bloss Berkheiser, Rebecca Ermisch, Maryanne Martin, BSC President McCormick and Lora Frymoyer; (kneeling) Jamie Casey, William Aclerno, Dennis Frymoyer, Jack Martin, with children Mark and Scott Frymoyer.

Dorothy held no hard feelings, despite her experiences. She returned to Japan as a missionary in 1951 and taught at Gakuin University in Tokyo, where she was made a full professor in 1961. "This was an unprecedented action in a male-dominated society. The Confucian saying that 'a woman should in youth obey her father, in maturity her husband, and in old age her husband, still has validity in Japan."

Seven years later, Dorothy was transferred to Tokyo Women's Christian University, where she stayed until she retired in 1974. At that time she returned to the United States to live.

In May 1981 Dorothy once more returned to Japan for a visit. "One of my reasons for going back was to sense the mood of the people. They're on top of the world right now, and when people are on top of the world, they can become arrogant and want to rule the world."

Dorothy describes the Japanese as an amazing people. But, she adds, they will not oust a military-minded leader if he assumes power. "The Japanese people cannot express their feelings in the way Americans do. They are not interested in government."

She hopes Japan will never be allowed to use nuclear weapons. "If they (gain access), I think we are sitting on a nuclear volcano, and that scares me to death."

How does Dorothy view her life after spending years in prison and witnessing the deaths of so many?

"I am satisfied. My life has been a rich one, full of adventure and most gratifying. I wouldn't change a thing."

Retired professor dies in Virginia

Dr. Merritt W. Sanders, former director of institutional research at BSC, died on October 18 at the Virginia Beach Hospital, Virginia Beach, Va.

Classroom facility on drawing board

Architects who will design the $6.4 million human services center at BSC inspected the proposed site for the building during a visit in September.

The architectural firm of Burkavage and Evans of Clarks Summit, will work from the educational specifications for the building prepared by the college and submitted to the Pennsylvania Department of Education and the Department of General Services, which has responsibility for the project.

The specifications suggest a basic need for a three or four-story building with 73,000 square feet of space to accommodate the programs designated to use the facility, with an additional 14,000 square feet for other classrooms and offices requested if the appropriation will support it.

Present occupancy plans provide for assigning space in the new building to the departments of nursing, psychology, sociology, elementary education, secondary education, and educational studies and services, with appropriate laboratory facilities, classrooms, conference or seminar rooms, and faculty offices.

Plans also include a technology-media complex with provisions for audio-visual media services, television and radio studios, an auto-tutorial laboratory, a curriculum materials center and a campus health complex.

The specifications propose—on a space-available basis— inclusion of general purpose teaching rooms and possible expansion of the technology-media complex to include computer information science and mathematics instruction facilities.

Because the building site is an area presently assigned for parking, the architects have been asked to consider parking problems and both vehicular and pedestrian traffic patterns in both the design and selection of the actual site. The possibility of including either underground or ground-level parking within the building area has been suggested.

Planning began eight years ago. It has been coordinated by the campus-wide space and facilities committee working with faculty members, academic departments, and general administration.

With the passage last December of the capital budget bill that provided the funding, Dr. Raymond E. Babineau, who chaired the space and facilities committee, was appointed educational facilities consultant to review plans with all academic departments and to prepare the educational specifications for the building.

The building will be located in the area between Bakeless Center for the Humanities and the Waller Administration Building. Steam, water, power and sewer lines were installed in the area several years ago. The exact location, to be selected by the architects, is expected to enhance the general appearance of the campus and the mall east of the Harvey A. Andrus Library.
